Yanks Trim Giants, 6-2, To Square Series

TRUCE TALK CHANCES IMPROVE

•DiMaggio Ends Batting Slump With Home Run

Lopat And Jansen Will Pitch Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio snapped out of a prolonged batting slump today and poled a 350-foot home run to help the New York Yankees trounce the New York Giants, 6-2, and square the World Series at two games each.

At the same time, Allie (Double No-Hit) Reynolds, beaten in the opening game, limited the National Leaguers to eight hits and snuffed out a last inning rally by forcing Willie Mays to hit into a double play.

DiMaggio's blow, coming in the fifth inning with Yogi Berra on base, was one of his two hits for the day. He also hit a screaming single in the third inning after going hitless in the first 12 times at bat in this series.

Lopat To Face Jansen

The Giants' 23-game winning ace, Sal Maglie, failed to harness the revived bats of the world champions and he went out for a pinch-hitter in the fifth after the Yankees had piled up a 4-1 lead.

Manager Casey Stengel said he would come back tomorrow with Ed Lopat, the veteran southpaw who accounted for the Yankees' first victory last Friday at the stadium.

Leo Durocher will try to send the Giants back out front with Larry Jansen on the wound. Jansen was the losing pitcher in Lopat's game.

The weatherman's forecast is for continued cool weather with a high of 60 to 65.

The Giants scored first in the opening frame on the first of Alvin Dark's three doubles, a fielder's choice and Monte Irvin's first of two singles.

Dark Close To Record

From there on until the ninth Reynolds had a tight hold on the National League champions although Dark did his best to keep the Giants in the game as he came within one double of matching a World Series game record.

The Yankees' first run came in the second inning when Gene Woodling blooped a double behind third, went to third on Bobby Brown's long liner to left-center and scored on Joe Collins' single.

The champions went ahead in the fourth on Brown's single, a walk to Collins and a single by Reynolds. Then DiMaggio's home run in the fifth with Berra on base gave the Yanks a 4-1 lead.

The Yankees also put across two runs in the seventh on two hits and an error by the Giants' Eddie Stanky, who hit Phil Rizzuto with a throw.

Senate Passes $7,483,400,000 Foreign Aid Bill

Also Approves Funds For Several Agencies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Senate approved two big money bills today—one authorizing a $7,483,400,000 foreign aid program and another appropriating $1,744,000,000, largely for defense and economic control activities.

Both actions were on voice votes, and helped mark progress toward a fall adjournment of Congress.

Little time was needed to get the foreign aid measure out of the way, since it had passed the Senate once before in much the same form.

However, senators debated all afternoon on the smaller money bill. It made cuts of a little less than $7,000,000 in the amount recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

The bill now goes to conference between the House and Senate. It is on of the 13 money bills which must be disposed of before Congress can quit this year.

Biggest allotments in the bill are: $790,000,000 for development of strategic and critical materials, $272,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission, $116,000,000 for the Veterans Administration, $192,000,000 for emergency agencies such as the Economic Stabilization Agency, and $290,000,000 for the Civil Defense Administration.

Senate passage completed congressional action on the foreign aid measure. It now goes to President Truman for his signature.

The bill authorizes $5,028,000,000 in military aid to Western European nations and $1,022,000,000 in economic assistance. Smallcr amounts are earmarked for South American countries and friendly nations in the Near East, Africa and Asia.

The Senate already had passed the compromise version of the bill once but had to take action again to approve a change made in the House.

The House had refused to permit the presidentially appointed director of the aid program to serve as a member of the Export-Import Bank. The Senate agreed to go along. Sen. Maybank (D-SC) said putting the director of the aid program on the bank board would put the bank in international politics and prevent it from considering loans on a purely business basis.

Wins Confidence Vote

JERUSALEM, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP) —Israel's new cabinet, led by Premier David Ben-Gurion, won a vote of confidence in the Knesset (parliament) early today, 55 to 40. There were four abstentions.

Egypt Cancels Her Treaties With Britain

Attempts To Force British Withdrawal

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 8 (AP)—Egypt announced tonight she is cancelling her treaties with Britain in an effort to drive the British out of the Suez Canal area and the Sudan.

Prime Minister Mustafa Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist (nationalist) Party, introduced in a cheering parliament the bills to carry out the cancellations less than a week after British oilmen were forced to leave Iran, another country in the unstable Middle East.

"Long live King Farouk," shouted the deputies.

"From now on King Farouk will be called 'king of Egypt and Sudan,'" Nahas Pasha declaimed.

Egypt 'isn't going to wait any longer" for the British to withdraw from the Suez Canal zone, he shouted.

(The Foreign Office in London said Britain would refuse to recognize the one-sided cancellation of treaties providing for mutual defense and for joint rule of the Sudan.

(The Foreign Office showed signs of shock that Egypt had acted before receiving new proposals which Britain promised over the weekend would be forthcoming. These proposals were believed based on decisions reached at the recent Ottawa conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to create a new Middle East defense command. This plan envisaged a compromise by which a garrison from several nations might hold the Suez, the extremely important link between the Mediterranean and the Orient.)

Th British Embassy in Cairo tonight issued a statement saying "a unilateral abrogation by the Egyptian government of the 1936 treaty with Great Britain has no legal force since that treaty contains no provisions for denunciation at any time."

It pointed out that the treaty is to last for 20 years, after which it might be renegotiated by either party.

It added: "The insistence, however, of the Egyptian government on unconditional acceptance of their original demands has made it impossible so far to find a basis for negotiations."

Nahas Pasha indicated Egypt is not without means to force the British out.

He said henceforth British troops would be "deprived of all privileges stemming from the 1936 treaty" pledging mutual defense for 20 years, or until 1956.

Girl Stops Train And Attains Aid

DELTA, Utah, Oct. 8 (AP) — A 12-year-old girl today flagged down a freight train and obtained aid for injured members of her family.

The girl is Linda Lee Mortensen of Delta.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mortensen, their son, Crag, 16, and three daughters were en route home when the family car overturned.

Mrs. Leah Mortensen, 39, was critically injured and Craig was hurt seriously. Mr. Mortensen and two girls were shaken up. Linda Lee was unhurt. She set out for the railroad tracks, a mile away. She flagged Union Pacific's daylight livestock special and told the crew what had happened.

The railroad men returned to the accident scene with the girl, set up highway flares and gave first aid. Then along came several soldiers in an automobile and took the injured to Payson Hospital.

Royal Couple Arrives In Canada

Canada Gives Princess, Duke Warm Welcome

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8. (AP)—Smiling Princess Elizabeth landed here today with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and boarded her special train for a month-long tour among the people of Canada who one day may come under her rule.

The train moved leisurely through the Quebec countryside for a stop at an unnamed siding tonight. It will push on to Quebec city tomorrow for the formal beginning of the tour at 9:45 a. m. (E.S.T.)

As soon as the formalities of welcome were out of the way the princess' first thought was to call her mother, Queen Elizabeth, to report a smooth, safe flight on the 3,400-mile trip from London and to inquire after the health of her ailing father, King George.

Thousands At Airport

The thousands who gathered at the airport and along the route to the 10-car royal train on a nearby siding, got a sample of the charm which Canadians will see as the party proceeds across the country.

As Elizabeth stepped down the gangplank—amid a jarring 21-gun salute—she looked very much like any other well-groomed young matron. She wore light makeup, a mink jacket, a blue-green wool dress, with low cut V-neck and tight-fitting skirt, a small velvet hat of matching color, and small pearl earrings.

Her handsome 30-year-old husband wore his lieutenant-commander's uniform of royal navy, including a great coat.

Couple Inspects Honor Guard

Despite the raw day and early morning rain, which kept many away, a crowd estimated at from 10,000 to 25,000 cheered as the royal couple inspected a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal Canadian Air Force. Again at the train, there were cries of "we want Elizabeth, we want Elizabeth."

The princess and Phillip did not go into Montreal at all. They had planned originally to begin their tour at Quebec and were sticking to the same plan, except that they were beginning it one week later because of the king's serious operation. Originally, they had expected to arrive in Quebec by ship.

Dean Says Everything Set For Atomic Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 8 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission completed a whirlwind tour of the Nevada proving grounds today, then announced:

"We're ready any time to set it off."

Just when the forthcoming atomic test blast will occur Dean would not divulge. They're booking bets in this gambling and resort town that it will come late this week.

House Approves Cut In Parcel Post Size, Weight Limits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The House passed by voice vote today a bill to reduce the size and weight limits on packages that may be sent through parcel post.

The bill goes back to the Senate, which passed a similar measure last month.

As passed by the house, it affects only parcels handled only by first-class postoffices—those in larger cities. The Senate proposed that the smaller sizes apply to packages handled only by first and second class offices.

Also exempted are parcels mailed to or from Army and Navy postoffices and to or from postoffices in territories or possessions, including the Canal Zone.

Court Refuses Top Reds' Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Supreme Court today declined to reconsider its decision against 11 U. S. Communist Party leaders but agreed to hear two other major cases affecting Communists' rights.

The leaders, seven of whom now are serving prison sentences, while four are fugitives, were convicted of plotting to teach the violent overthrow of this government. Their lawyers asked the Supreme Court to rehear the case and reverse its decision of last June upholding the convictions.

The court did agree to rule on (1) constitutionality of a section of federal law requiring deportation of aliens for past membership in the Communist Party; and (2) whether aliens facing deportation may be held without bail on a finding by the attorney general that they have been active Communists.

The high tribunal took no action today on a petition for further consideration to six attorneys for the 11 Red leaders. The attorneys were sentenced to prison on contempt of court charges. They were sentenced by Federal Judge Harold Medina to terms ranging from one to six months. The judge held they conducted themselves improperly in court during the long, stormy New York trial of the Red leaders. They had been granted a stay of their terms pending the Supreme Court's decision on the petition.

ILA Negotiations Agree To 10 Cents Hour Hike

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Union negotiators agreed today to a 10 cents an hour wage increase for 65,000 longshoremen working from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads Va.

They predicated that members of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association would ratify the new agree in voting Thursday.

The ILA had demanded 25 cents over the current wage of $2 an hour.

The agreement was reached with the New York Shipping Association which represents 173 shipping and stevedoring firms.

Reds Cutting Out India "Pattern," Stassen Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen charged today a Red "pattern of action" is being cut out for the domination of India, just like the one that led to the Communist conquest of China.

Stassen also declared the record makes it clear that the State Department—despite denials by Secretary of State Acheson—played a part in undermining Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

Testifying before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, the former Republican governor of Minnesota said:

"Uneasy And Disturbed"

"The denials by the State Department of things which I know are true, the claims by the State Department of things I know are not true, leave me very uneasy and disturbed with regard to our country's future policy."

Warning that "catastrophic results" would follow if India fell to the Reds, Stassen told the subcommittee:

"India in Communist hands, added to China in Communist hands, would place the rich southeast of Asia, Indochina, Malaya, Burma and Thailand in the position of a lush plum in a nutcracker."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, gave his views in testifying on President Truman's nomination of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup as a delegate to the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly in Paris.

McCarran Opposes Jessup.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has challenged the nomination, accusing Jessup of following "every twist and turn of the Communist line." Jessup has denied it.

In another development, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee came out firmly against Senate confirmation of Jessup, but Sen Lehman (D-Lib, NY) praised the appointment and predicted it will be approved.

Nine Killed When U. S. Destroyer Hits "Probable" Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Nine sailors were killed and 18 injured when an American destroyer ran over a "probable enemy mine" Sunday off Korea, the Navy announced tonight.

The destroyer, the Ernest G. Small, was able to make Sasebo, Japan, under her own power, the Navy added. No further details were made public.

The Navy list of the dead included:

Elijah K. Manning, fireman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfried M. Manning, Pineville, W. Va.

Americans Near Victory In Battle Of Korean Ridge

Reds, Allies Stage Big Artillery Duel

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The United Nations offensive in Western Korea rocked and swayed in a savage series of hill attacks Monday.

In the east American troops were on the threshold of final victory on "Heartbreak Ridge."

A field dispatch today from AP Correspondent George McArthur from West Central Korea reported signs the Reds had shifted both troops and artillery to the west in defense of their main lines near Yonchon.

The Reds in the west used artillery at a rate of fire unknown to the Communists since the start of the war. Allied officers said it was equal in volume to concentrations fired by American guns last winter, but didn't come close to Allied firepower now.

Massed Allied Guns Roar

Despite a Red barrage of more than 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar shells, it was little over one-tenth the mighty roar of massed American and British guns. Between sun up and sundown, a total of nearly 13,000 rounds of artillery alone — including 105-millimeters and eight-inch howitzers that gouged out whole Red bunkers at a single blast—fell on enemy positions.

The artillery concentrations were laid down in an area less than 20 miles northeast of Panmunjom. Gen. Matthew D. Ridgway has agreed that this area could be used as a site for new Korean cease-fire talks. Panmunjom itself, a Communist checkpoint, is six miles east of Kaesong where the cease-fire negotiations were broken off by the Reds Aug. 23.

In the east, American troops stormed almost to the top of the last northern peak of "Heartbreak Ridge." At last reports, assault forces of the famed 23rd Infantry Regiment of the U. S. Second Division, holders of a presidential unit citation, were within 600 feet on the crest.

Blast Way Inch-By-Inch

They crawled up the crags, blasting their way inch-by-inch in what was literally a fortress assault.

Backing them were tough French infantrymen who joined in the continuing attack a week ago. Together the Americans and French had captured the somewhat higher central peak of Heartbreak on Saturday.

It appeared that, in its fourth week, the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" was being won. Wider scale attacks to the west and east were drawing off some of the concentrated Communist strength.

Ridgway OKs Panmunjom Area As Site

Opposes Neutral Zone Extension

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway agreed Monday to the Panmunjom area as a site for fresh Korean cease-fire talks, but disagreed with a Red proposal to extend the old Kaesong neutral zone to include Munsan, site of the Allied truce camp.

Instead, in a brief message to the Chinese and Korean Red commanders, the United Nations commander suggested a small neutral area around Panmunjom, "with Kaesong, Munsan and the roads to Panmunjom from Kaesong and Munsan free from attack."

Panmunjom is a tiny roadside village six miles east of Kaesong and 12 road miles northwest of Munsan.

Ridgway did not mention a further Red proposal that both sides be responsible for policing the neutral zone.

Liaison Officers To Confer

He said he would send his liaison officers to Panmunjom Wednesday at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday, EST), to discuss the details with the Communists.

Ridgway's message, which had already been broadcast, was formally delivered by hand to Red liaison officers at Panmunjom check point at 8 a. m., (6 p. m., E. S. T., Monday.)

How the Red leaders would react was problematical.

Aside from the neutrality and policing questions, they have insisted in the past that the full armistice negotiating teams meet to create "appropriate machinery" for resuming the conferences.

Ridgway, in turn, has insisted that liaison officers settle all the technicalities before the main negotiators meet again.

South Koreans Hit Red Proposal

Meanwhile, the South Koreans got into the act. Pyun Yung Tai, South Korean foreign minister, issued a statement saying the Red suggestion to enlarge the neutral zone would extend "the Red sanctuary within South Korea."

The South Korean government spokesman, said such an extension "would be dangerous and we don't like it."

Nevertheless, the latest exchange of messages was the nearest the opposing sides have come to agreement since the Reds broke off the conference at Kaesong Aug. 23.

Truman May Be "Available" Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman quipped today he might be available for the movies "in the not too far distant future."

This quip, of the type the President has been using for the last several months on the question of whether he'll seek reelection, occurred when he posed in the White House rose garden with Hollywood personalities.

During the photographing, Joyce O'Hara, acting president of the Motion Picture Association, observed to Mr. Truman that "we'd like to sign you up sometime."

Mr. Truman grinned broadly and replied:

"Well, I'l be available sometime in the not too far distant future."

The President helped launch a nationwide celebration of "Movietime U. S. A." when he greeted the Hollywood personalities. They were Elizabeth Taylor, Randolph Scott, Debbie Reynolds, Louise Albritton, Director John Ford, Writers Arthur Arthur and Virginia Kellog and Movie Pioneer Adolph Zukor.

They are in Washington to open the golden jubilee anniversary of the building of the first motion picture theatre in Los Angeles.

Revived "Dead" Man May Live For Months

LONG BEACH, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Melvin Hewitt, 28, who was revived after being lifeless for 15 minutes, may live on for months in a comatose state.

Dr. E. Z. Edwards, manager of the VA hospital here where the Navy veteran is a patient, said today his hospital has two other patients who were brought back to life after their hearst stopped beating. One has been unconscious for seven months and the other for three.

However, the physician said that neither had been lifeless nearly as long as Hewitt. Hewitt was "dead" about 15 minutes after hitting his head on a sidewalk outside a tavern last Thursday.

He was rushed to a hospital in nearby El Monte. Doctors cut into his chest and massaged his heart. It started beating, and breathing resumed. Later he was transferred to the VA hospital here.

Iran's Premier Arrives In U. S.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Exhausted after a long plane ride, Iran's frail Premier Mohammed Mossadegh arrived today with fresh charges that the British want to continue "pillaging" Iran's oil resources.

He immediately went into seclusion on the 16th floor of the New York Hospital in preparation for bedside conferences later this week on the British-Iranian oil dispute. He flew from Tehran to present his country's case to the Security Council, which is expected to meet Thursday.

Mossadegh issued a statement at the Idlewild airport in which he recalled to Americans their fight against the British in the War of Independence. He said there are great similarities between the present-day efforts of the Iranians and the efforts of American ancestors "to release their homeland from the fetters of economic and political imperialism."

Lawrence Tierney Ejected From Church By Policemen

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney was strapped into a restraining jacket and taken to a neurological hospital today after police said they found the actor barefoot, disheveled and belligerent in a Catholic church.

Officers Danny Cooke and Roy Livingston reported they were called to St. Monica Church at 6 a. m. and as they arrived saw the actor run into the building.

The officers said he approached the altar, made an obeisance and claimed sanctuary. He threatened them and said they couldn't take him away, the policemen reported.

The officers said they asked a priest if they could take Tierney and were told that they could because he was creating a disturbance.

In the past seven years Tierney has been arrested 12 times, usually on drunk charges. Cooke and Livingston said the actor, featured in tough guy roles on the screen, was not drunk today.

He was taken to the police station, where his brother, Edward Tierney, later tried to quiet him. But the brother was hit by the excited actor.

The brother called an ambulance and the actor was taken to Los Angeles Neurological Hospital. No charges were brought against him.

Senator Asks Explanation Why Tax Claim Not Pressed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today the government has failed to press income tax claims of $675,344.16 against a Kansas City businessman. He called it "questionable practice."

He demanded in the Senate that the Internal Revenue Bureau, already under fire in Congress, explain why, as he put it, tax claims against Ardeis H. Myers had been left unpressed so long that the government's right to collect $171,726.50 of the sum had lapsed.

His remarks touched off a senatorial discussion on whether it is proper for newspapers to play up stories of stealing from the government.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) said he fears a recent rash of headlines concerning charges of improper conduct give "the impression that government officers are all a lot of crooks and grafters.

"Everytime somebody steals a little bit of money x x x the newspapers play it up," he said.

Williams assailed as "questionable practice" and "particularly suspicious the fact that Dan N. Nee, former internal revenue collector under whom the claims against Myers were filed, later became Myers' lawyer and as such opposed the claims.

Contino, reportedly was earning $4,000 weekly as an accordionist when sentenced.

Egypt Cancels Her Treaties With Britain

Attempts To Force British Withdrawal

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 8 (AP)—Egypt announced tonight she is cancelling her treaties with Britain in an effort to drive the British out of the Suez Canal area and the Sudan.

Prime Minister Mustafa Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist (nationalist) Party, introduced in a cheering parliament the bills to carry out the cancellations less than a week after British oilmen were forced to leave Iran, another country in the unstable Middle East.

"Long live King Farouk," shouted the deputies.

"From now on King Farouk will be called 'king of Egypt and Sudan,'" Nahas Pasha declaimed.

Egypt 'isn't going to wait any longer" for the British to withdraw from the Suez Canal zone, he shouted.

Th British Embassy in Cairo tonight issued a statement saying "a unilateral abrogation by the Egyptian government of the 1936 treaty with Great Britain has no legal force since that treaty contains no provisions for denunciation at any time."

It pointed out that the treaty is to last for 20 years, after which it might be renegotiated by either party.

It added: "The insistence, however, of the Egyptian government on unconditional acceptance of their original demands has made it impossible so far to find a basis for negotiations."

Nahas Pasha indicated Egypt is not without means to force the British out.

He said henceforth British troops would be "deprived of all privileges stemming from the 1936 treaty" pledging mutual defense for 20 years, or until 1956.

Girl Stops Train And Attains Aid

DELTA, Utah, Oct. 8 (AP) — A 12-year-old girl today flagged down a freight train and obtained aid for injured members of her family.

The girl is Linda Lee Mortensen of Delta.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mortensen, their son, Crag, 16, and three daughters were en route home when the family car overturned.

Mrs. Leah Mortensen, 39, was critically injured and Craig was hurt seriously. Mr. Mortensen and two girls were shaken up. Linda Lee was unhurt. She set out for the railroad tracks, a mile away. She flagged Union Pacific's daylight livestock special and told the crew what had happened.

The railroad men returned to the accident scene with the girl, set up highway flares and gave first aid. Then along came several soldiers in an automobile and took the injured to Payson Hospital.

Lawrence Tierney Ejected From Church By Policemen

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney was strapped into a restraining jacket and taken to a neurological hospital today after police said they found the actor barefoot, disheveled and belligerent in a Catholic church.

Officers Danny Cooke and Roy Livingston reported they were called to St. Monica Church at 6 a. m. and as they arrived saw the actor run into the building.

The officers said he approached the altar, made an obeisance and claimed sanctuary. He threatened them and said they couldn't take him away, the policemen reported.

The officers said they asked a priest if they could take Tierney and were told that they could because he was creating a disturbance.

In the past seven years Tierney has been arrested 12 times, usually on drunk charges. Cooke and Livingston said the actor, featured in tough guy roles on the screen, was not drunk today.

He was taken to the police station, where his brother, Edward Tierney, later tried to quiet him. But the brother was hit by the excited actor.

The brother called an ambulance and the actor was taken to Los Angeles Neurological Hospital. No charges were brought against him.

Royal Couple Arrives In Canada

Canada Gives Princess, Duke Warm Welcome

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8. (AP)—Smiling Princess Elizabeth landed here today with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and boarded her special train for a month-long tour among the people of Canada who one day may come under her rule.

The train moved leisurely through the Quebec countryside for a stop at an unnamed siding tonight. It will push on to Quebec city tomorrow for the formal beginning of the tour at 9:45 a. m. (E.S.T.)

As soon as the formalities of welcome were out of the way the princess' first thought was to call her mother, Queen Elizabeth, to report a smooth, safe flight on the 3,400-mile trip from London and to inquire after the health of her ailing father, King George.

Thousands At Airport

The thousands who gathered at the airport and along the route to the 10-car royal train on a nearby siding, got a sample of the charm which Canadians will see as the party proceeds across the country.

As Elizabeth stepped down the gangplank—amid a jarring 21-gun salute—she looked very much like any other well-groomed young matron. She wore light makeup, a mink jacket, a blue-green wool dress, with low cut V-neck and tight-fitting skirt, a small velvet hat of matching color, and small pearl earrings.

Her handsome 30-year-old husband wore his lieutenant-commander's uniform of royal navy, including a great coat.

Couple Inspects Honor Guard

Despite the raw day and early morning rain, which kept many away, a crowd estimated at from 10,000 to 25,000 cheered as the royal couple inspected a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal Canadian Air Force. Again at the train, there were cries of "we want Elizabeth, we want Elizabeth."

The princess and Phillip did not go into Montreal at all. They had planned originally to begin their tour at Quebec and were sticking to the same plan, except that they were beginning it one week later because of the king's serious operation. Originally, they had expected to arrive in Quebec by ship.

Dean Says Everything Set For Atomic Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 8 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission completed a whirlwind tour of the Nevada proving grounds today, then announced:

"We're ready any time to set it off."

Just when the forthcoming atomic test blast will occur Dean would not divulge. They're booking bets in this gambling and resort town that it will come late this week.

House Approves Cut In Parcel Post Size, Weight Limits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The House passed by voice vote today a bill to reduce the size and weight limits on packages that may be sent through parcel post.

The bill goes back to the Senate, which passed a similar measure last month.

As passed by the house, it affects only parcels handled only by first-class postoffices—those in larger cities. The Senate proposed that the smaller sizes apply to packages handled only by first and second class offices.

Also exempted are parcels mailed to or from Army and Navy postoffices and to or from postoffices in territories or possessions, including the Canal Zone.

Court Refuses Top Reds' Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Supreme Court today declined to reconsider its decision against 11 U. S. Communist Party leaders but agreed to hear two other major cases affecting Communists' rights.

The leaders, seven of whom now are serving prison sentences, while four are fugitives, were convicted of plotting to teach the violent overthrow of this government. Their lawyers asked the Supreme Court to rehear the case and reverse its decision of last June upholding the convictions.

The court did agree to rule on (1) constitutionality of a section of federal law requiring deportation of aliens for past membership in the Communist Party; and (2) whether aliens facing deportation may be held without bail on a finding by the attorney general that they have been active Communists.

The high tribunal took no action today on a petition for further consideration to six attorneys for the 11 Red leaders. The attorneys were sentenced to prison on contempt of court charges. They were sentenced by Federal Judge Harold Medina to terms ranging from one to six months. The judge held they conducted themselves improperly in court during the long, stormy New York trial of the Red leaders. They had been granted a stay of their terms pending the Supreme Court's decision on the petition.

ILA Negotiations Agree To 10 Cents Hour Hike

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Union negotiators agreed today to a 10 cents an hour wage increase for 65,000 longshoremen working from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.

They predicated that members of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association would ratify the new agree in voting Thursday.

The ILA had demanded 25 cents over the current wage of $2 an hour.

The agreement was reached with the New York Shipping Association which represents 173 shipping and stevedoring firms.

Reds Cutting Out India "Pattern," Stassen Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen charged today a Red "pattern of action" is being cut out for the domination of India, just like the one that led to the Communist conquest of China.

Stassen also declared the record makes it clear that the State Department—despite denials by Secretary of State Acheson—played a part in undermining Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

Testifying before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, the former Republican governor of Minnesota said:

"Uneasy And Disturbed"

"The denials by the State Department of things which I know are true, the claims by the State Department of things I know are not true, leave me very uneasy and disturbed with regard to our country's future policy."

Warning that "catastrophic results" would follow if India fell to the Reds, Stassen told the subcommittee:

"India in Communist hands, added to China in Communist hands, would place the rich southeast of Asia, Indochina, Malaya, Burma and Thailand in the position of a lush plum in a nutcracker."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, gave his views in testifying on President Truman's nomination of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup as a delegate to the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly in Paris.

McCarran Opposes Jessup.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has challenged the nomination, accusing Jessup of following "every twist and turn of the Communist line." Jessup has denied it.

In another development, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee came out firmly against Senate confirmation of Jessup, but Sen Lehman (D-Lib, NY) praised the appointment and predicted it will be approved.

Nine Killed When U. S. Destroyer Hits "Probable" Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Nine sailors were killed and 18 injured when an American destroyer ran over a "probable enemy mine" Sunday off Korea, the Navy announced tonight.

The destroyer, the Ernest G. Small, was able to make Sasebo, Japan, under her own power, the Navy added. No further details were made public.

The Navy list of the dead included:

Elijah K. Manning, fireman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfried M. Manning, Pineville, W. Va.

Americans Near Victory In Battle Of Korean Ridge

Reds, Allies Stage Big Artillery Duel

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The United Nations offensive in Western Korea rocked and swayed in a savage series of hill attacks Monday.

In the east American troops were on the threshold of final victory on "Heartbreak Ridge."

A field dispatch today from AP Correspondent George McArthur from West Central Korea reported signs the Reds had shifted both troops and artillery to the west in defense of their main lines near Yonchon.

The Reds in the west used artillery at a rate of fire unknown to the Communists since the start of the war. Allied officers said it was equal in volume to concentrations fired by American guns last winter, but didn't come close to Allied firepower now.

Massed Allied Guns Roar

Despite a Red barrage of more than 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar shells, it was little over one-tenth the mighty roar of massed American and British guns. Between sun up and sundown, a total of nearly 13,000 rounds of artillery alone — including 105-millimeters and eight-inch howitzers that gouged out whole Red bunkers at a single blast—fell on enemy positions.

The artillery concentrations were laid down in an area less than 20 miles northeast of Panmunjom. Gen. Matthew D. Ridgway has agreed that this area could be used as a site for new Korean cease-fire talks. Panmunjom itself, a Communist checkpoint, is six miles east of Kaesong where the cease-fire negotiations were broken off by the Reds Aug. 23.

In the east, American troops stormed almost to the top of the last northern peak of "Heartbreak Ridge." At last reports, assault forces of the famed 23rd Infantry Regiment of the U. S. Second Division, holders of a presidential unit citation, were within 600 feet on the crest.

Blast Way Inch-By-Inch

They crawled up the crags, blasting their way inch-by-inch in what was literally a fortress assault.

Backing them were tough French infantrymen who joined in the continuing attack a week ago. Together the Americans and French had captured the somewhat higher central peak of Heartbreak on Saturday.

It appeared that, in its fourth week, the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" was being won. Wider scale attacks to the west and east were drawing off some of the concentrated Communist strength.

Ridgway OKs Panmunjom Area As Site

Opposes Neutral Zone Extension

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway agreed Monday to the Panmunjom area as a site for fresh Korean cease-fire talks, but disagreed with a Red proposal to extend the old Kaesong neutral zone to include Munsan, site of the Allied truce camp.

Instead, in a brief message to the Chinese and Korean Red commanders, the United Nations commander suggested a small neutral area around Panmunjom, "with Kaesong, Munsan and the roads to Panmunjom from Kaesong and Munsan free from attack."

Panmunjom is a tiny roadside village six miles east of Kaesong and 12 road miles northwest of Munsan.

Ridgway did not mention a further Red proposal that both sides be responsible for policing the neutral zone.

Liaison Officers To Confer

He said he would send his liaison officers to Panmunjom Wednesday at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday, EST), to discuss the details with the Communists.

Ridgway's message, which had already been broadcast, was formally delivered by hand to Red liaison officers at Panmunjom check point at 8 a. m., (6 p. m., E. S. T., Monday.)

How the Red leaders would react was problematical.

Aside from the neutrality and policing questions, they have insisted in the past that the full armistice negotiating teams meet to create "appropriate machinery" for resuming the conferences.

Ridgway, in turn, has insisted that liaison officers settle all the technicalities before the main negotiators meet again.

South Koreans Hit Red Proposal

Meanwhile, the South Koreans got into the act. Pyun Yung Tai, South Korean foreign minister, issued a statement saying the Red suggestion to enlarge the neutral zone would extend "the Red sanctuary within South Korea."

The South Korean government spokesman, said such an extension "would be dangerous and we don't like it."

Nevertheless, the latest exchange of messages was the nearest the opposing sides have come to agreement since the Reds broke off the conference at Kaesong Aug. 23.

Truman May Be "Available" Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman quipped today he might be available for the movies "in the not too far distant future."

This quip, of the type the President has been using for the last several months on the question of whether he'll seek reelection, occurred when he posed in the White House rose garden with Hollywood personalities.

During the photographing, Joyce O'Hara, acting president of the Motion Picture Association, observed to Mr. Truman that "we'd like to sign you up sometime."

Mr. Truman grinned broadly and replied:

"Well, I'l be available sometime in the not too far distant future."

The President helped launch a nationwide celebration of "Movietime U. S. A." when he greeted the Hollywood personalities. They were Elizabeth Taylor, Randolph Scott, Debbie Reynolds, Louise Albritton, Director John Ford, Writers Arthur Arthur and Virginia Kellog and Movie Pioneer Adolph Zukor.

They are in Washington to open the golden jubilee anniversary of the building of the first motion picture theatre in Los Angeles.

Contino Becomes Eligible For Parole

McNEIL ISLAND, Wash., Oct. 8. (AP)—Dick Contino, the former Maestro, Calif., butcherboy and accordionist, became eligible yesterday to apply for parole.

He was sentenced Aug. 7 to six months at the federal penitentiary here and fined $10,000 for draft evasion after walking out of Fort Ord, Calif. He became eligible for parole with one-third time off for good behavior.

Contino, reportedly was earning $4,000 weekly as an accordionist when sentenced.

Senator Asks Explanation Why Tax Claim Not Pressed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today the government has failed to press income tax claims of $675,344.16 against a Kansas City businessman. He called it "questionable practice."

He demanded in the Senate that the Internal Revenue Bureau, already under fire in Congress, explain why, as he put it, tax claims against Ardeis H. Myers had been left unpressed so long that the government's right to collect $171,726.50 of the sum had lapsed.

His remarks touched off a senatorial discussion on whether it is proper for newspapers to play up stories of stealing from the government.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) said he fears a recent rash of headlines concerning charges of improper conduct give "the impression that government officers are all a lot of crooks and grafters.

"Everytime somebody steals a little bit of money x x x the newspapers play it up," he said.

Williams assailed as "questionable practice" and "particularly suspicious the fact that Dan N. Nee, former internal revenue collector under whom the claims against Myers were filed, later became Myers' lawyer and as such opposed the claims.

Thousands Gape As Slain Moretti Takes Final Ride

LODI, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Tuxedo-clad Willie Moretti, who once boasted he'd never be murdered because "this isn't Chicago," went on his final ride today like a Windy City crime lord of the roaring 1920's.

Unruly crowds turned the dapper gambler's funeral into a Roman holiday and put on a show unparalleled in local history.

Nearly 10,000 persons—including mothers with babes in arms and box lunches—fought police and each other for a glimpse of Willie's $2,500 gold and bronze casket and $8,000 worth of floral pieces that flanked the bier.

They mobbed the Morocco Funeral Parlor in nearby Passaic, stampeded around Corpus Christie Roman Catholic Church in adjacent Hasbrouck Heights and trampled graves and toppled headstones in St. Michael's Cemetery here.

They came from all over. There were sleek Cadillacs from nearby New York and Packards from Illinois. Extra details of police had all they could do to cope with the traffic and the thousands who lined the funeral route.

Detectives circulated through the crowd looking in vain for underworld characters who might give them a lead to the four men who pumped four .38 caliber slugs into Willie last Thursday.

GAMBLER'S GOODBYE—The body of Willie Moretti, kingpin gambler whose fast and frequent talking led to his gangland killing, is borne from a funeral home at Passaic, N. J., for burial. Thousands of curious onlookers made a Roman holiday of the funeral.

British Engineers Dismantle Red Station

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Engineers began dismantling today Russia's powerful radio receiving station in England—shut down on British government orders.

Post office employes cut the station's teleprinter connections over which it sent between 20,000 and 30,000 words of Russian and Soviet satellite broadcasts daily to British newspapers and domestic and foreign press agencies.

The broadcasts were one of the principal sources of iron curtain information for the West, and usually the speediest.

The station, named the Soviet Monitor, was under direct control of Tass, the Soviet news agency. Tass, which has diplomatic immunity in Britain as an official agency of the Soviet government, recevied permission in 1941 to operate the station as a warttime facility.

Judge Insists He Remarried Kings

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP) — A judge said today that he remarried Texas Playboy Sheppard King III and his former wife last June but she denied tonight that she was wed.

District Judge Robert Hall said he married a woman "who said she was Gloria King on a wet night in June."

Mrs. King told reporters at Newark, N. J.:

"I am not married."

She refused any further elaboration and replied "no comment" to questions about the reported second marriage.

The wealthy King has said in Paris he would wed an exotic Egyptian belly dancer, Samia Gamal.

Mrs. King, who was divorced from the Houston oil and cotton heir, flew to New York from Rome today. She caught a plane at Newark for Houston after a day of shopping in New York.

Judge Hall quoted the couple as saying they had settled their differences and thought it would be best for their son for them to remarry. He said they seemed happy. He sent the license to Kaufman, Tex., for filing.

Miss Mayme Brewer, at whose fashionable home the ceremony was performed, said she believed the couple was still married.

She added the remarriage wasn't announced because "Sheppard's mother in Houston wouldn't have approved."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Written expressly for International News Service)

The Giants were a yo-yo on Allie Reynold's string today. Now the series is as close as webbed toes.

"My boy Sal" Maglie was another sure-fire winner who didn't.

Nobody surprised more pallbearers than Joe DiMaggio when he sat up in the fourth game and looked around.

Joe got himself a two-run homer in the fifth. His first hit of the series was a single in the third. Joe also looked at a couple of third strikes sail by like the president's yacht.

But he validated my prediction of Sunday. When Joe is right the Yanks are correct. And there isn't enough salt in the world to change the flavor.

Reynolds pitched tighter than a waxed mustache. He loosed up a little in the last inning but the Giants fizzled. It's that last water in the bath-tub that makes the most noise running out.

The winning manager will be the one who builds the better rat trap. The series is way past mice now.

The fourth game was exciting because the great DiMaggio found the zipper on his straight-jacket.

It was a well-capered contest with Monte Irvin running his string to nine. He's sure to win the 1951 award as the most valuable player in the Irvin family.

They say Stanky played soccer Saturday. The whole team played it today. When you look bad, lace on your cuffs will not pretty you up.

Bill Corum told me that Ed Barrow ordered a hundred copies of Bob Considine's interview with me last Friday. Well, if there's a better game anywhere than baseball I'll have to get my spectacles changed.

I went so far out on the limb I have feathers on my legs. But I have always claimed nobody can call a worm's turn in the rain. Or the result of a baseball game until the last man is picking himself off the barroom floor.

With the Yanks and the Giants getting two each it looks like a seven-button series.

With the Yanks probably winning because it rained Sunday. I'm a weather prophet who runs the reel backward.

Mother Who Used Paddle On School Principal Fined

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mother who blackened a school principal's eyes with his own paddle drew a $25 fine and a lecture today. A jury had convicted her of assault and battery.

Evidence in the trial showed that Mrs. Bernice Smey had grabbed the paddle and smacked James Fenwick with it during an argument over punishmenet of her son Dan, 15. The incident took place in the principal's office.

Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman told Mrs. Smey to "join the parent teachers association and get a better understanding of the teacher-parent problem."

Pro-America Bloc Wins French Election

PARIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — The pro-American bloc of parties governing France emerged the winners today in Sunday's election of local departmental councils by gathering 43.2 per cent of the popular vote.

The three parties in the bloc—Popular Republicans (Catholic), Radical Socialists (Moderates) and the Independent Republican-Peasant Alliance (right-of-center) — may do even better in runoffs next Sunday. Then they may pool their votes to decide 846 of the contests for the 1,660 seats that were at stake.

Due For Promotion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman today nominated three Air Force lieutenant generals for promotion to full generals.

The three are Lt. Gen. John Kenneth Cannon, commanding general of the Tactical Air Command; Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commanding general of the Strategic Air Command, and Lt. Gen. Benjamin Wiley Chidlaw, commanding general of the Air Defense Command.

Sen. Moody's Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said tonight Russia is capable of raiding the United States with 50 atomic bombs and that such an attack would kill 3,000,000 people.

He made the statement in asking the Senate to vote $20,000,000 additional for medical supplies for the Civil Defense Administration. The move was unsuccessful.

She Couldn't See Mate Hit By Car

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A man was knocked down by a car yesterday a few feet from a parked automobile in which Mrs. Harriet Couch, 63, was sitting.

Police and a crowd came. The victim, in critical condition with a skull fracture, was taken to a hospital.

The driver of the car, Pfc. Richard Seidl, 20, of Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill., was taken to a police station to be held without charge until the extent of the victim's injuries were ascertained.

Then, Traffic Officer Ed Halvorsen approached Mrs. Couch, still sitting quietly in her place. "I want your name as a witness to the accident, lady," he said.

"I am blind," Mrs. Couch said, "but my husband must have seen it. He left the car to mail a letter just before it happened. I'm sure he's around somewhere."

Halvorsen looked at the victim's identity notes in his report book—Cecil Couch, 65. He told her, gently, what had happened to her husband.

OPS Adviser's Firm Accused Of Violations

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization today accused a company headed by one of its own civilian advisers of noncompliance with OPS regulations.

The concern is B. Schwartz and Company, which OPS says is the nation's largest meat boning firm and does a $100,000,000 annual business.

Its president and treasurer, Benjamin Schwartz, is a director of the OPS Beef Industry Advisory Committee.

OPS, in the first such move in its beef enforcement drive in Chicago, sued today for an injunction to suspend the company's operations until it complies with OPS regulations.

Gov. McKeldin, 'Pinza Type,' Lunches With Movie Stars

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin, an "Ezio Pinza type" personality, lunched with Hollywood celebrities today.

Peggy Lee, pretty blonde singing star, put the governor in the same class with Pinza, Broadway and Hollywood singer, because of his "dynamic personality."

Miss Lee confessed she knows nothing of McKeldin's vocal talents, but said "with his good resonance, he could probably sing, too."

The resonance has helped the governor acquire a reputation as an orator and a friend confided later he's more than a passable baritone.

"I stood next to him once singing the Star Spangled Banner," he said. "He sounded out over the others."

The luncheon today was sponsored by the motion picture industry of Maryland. It served as a kickoff for the golden jubilee celebration of the American movie theater. Similar celebrations will be held throughout the country.

In addition to Miss Lee, two other screen beauties—blonde Aileen Stanley and red-haired Suzanne Dahlert, Fernch actress—also sat at the head table.

McKeldin found himself between Producer Sol Lesser and C. Elmer Nolte, Jr., Maryland chairman for the nationwide jubilee. He didn't complain, however, because "the girls visited me at the State House before coming here."

Russia Again Reported Moving Vital Industries

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 8 (AP)—Russia was reported today to have started another evacuation of vital industries from the western parts of the Soviet Union to safer areas beyond the Volga River.

The liberal newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen said that by the end of last year Russia had cancelled nearly all industrial expansion projects near her western borders.

Thousands Of Lifeless Birds Litter Airport

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8 (AP) — Municipal airport runways and surrounding fields were littered with thousands of lifeless birds today.

State conservation and University of Tennessee zoology authorities investigated and theorized:

The dead birds were blinded by the powerful beam of the weather bureau's ceilometer as they migrated southward, then plunged to the ground.

Airline pilots reported similar wholesale deaths of birds at the Nashville airport.

Judge Insists He Remarried Kings

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP) — A judge said today that he remarried Texas Playboy Sheppard King III and his former wife last June but she denied tonight that she was wed.

District Judge Robert Hall said he married a woman "who said she was Gloria King on a wet night in June."

Mrs. King told reporters at Newark, N. J.:

"I am not married."

She refused any further elaboration and replied "no comment" to questions about the reported second marriage.

The wealthy King has said in Paris he would wed an exotic Egyptian belly dancer, Samia Gamal.

Mrs. King, who was divorced from the Houston oil and cotton heir, flew to New York from Rome today. She caught a plane at Newark for Houston after a day of shopping in New York.

Judge Hall quoted the couple as saying they had settled their differences and thought it would be best for their son for them to remarry. He said they seemed happy. He sent the license to Kaufman, Tex., for filing.

Miss Mayme Brewer, at whose fashionable home the ceremony was performed, said she believed the couple was still married.

She added the remarriage wasn't announced because "Sheppard's mother in Houston wouldn't have approved."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Written expressly for International News Service)

The Giants were a yo-yo on Allie Reynold's string today. Now the series is as close as webbed toes.

"My boy Sal" Maglie was another sure-fire winner who didn't.

Nobody surprised more pallbearers than Joe DiMaggio when he sat up in the fourth game and looked around.

Joe got himself a two-run homer in the fifth. His first hit of the series was a single in the third. Joe also looked at a couple of third strikes sail by like the president's yacht.

But he validated my prediction of Sunday. When Joe is right the Yanks are correct. And there isn't enough salt in the world to change the flavor.

Reynolds pitched tighter than a waxed mustache. He loosed up a little in the last inning but the Giants fizzled. It's that last water in the bath-tub that makes the most noise running out.

The winning manager will be the one who builds the better rat trap. The series is way past mice now.

The fourth game was exciting because the great DiMaggio found the zipper on his straight-jacket.

It was a well-capered contest with Monte Irvin running his string to nine. He's sure to win the 1951 award as the most valuable player in the Irvin family.

They say Stanky played soccer Saturday. The whole team played it today. When you look bad, lace on your cuffs will not pretty you up.

Bill Corum told me that Ed Barrow ordered a hundred copies of Bob Considine's interview with me last Friday. Well, if there's a better game anywhere than baseball I'll have to get my spectacles changed.

I went so far out on the limb I have feathers on my legs. But I have always claimed nobody can call a worm's turn in the rain. Or the result of a baseball game until the last man is picking himself off the barroom floor.

With the Yanks and the Giants getting two each it looks like a seven-button series.

With the Yanks probably winning because it rained Sunday. I'm a weather prophet who runs the reel backward.

Mother Who Used Paddle On School Principal Fined

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mother who blackened a school principal's eyes with his own paddle drew a $25 fine and a lecture today. A jury had convicted her of assault and battery.

Evidence in the trial showed that Mrs. Bernice Smey had grabbed the paddle and smacked James Fenwick with it during an argument over punishmenet of her son Dan, 15. The incident took place in the principal's office.

Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman told Mrs. Smey to "join the parent teachers association and get a better understanding of the teacher-parent problem."

Pro-America Bloc Wins French Election

PARIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — The pro-American bloc of parties governing France emerged the winners today in Sunday's election of local departmental councils by gathering 43.2 per cent of the popular vote.

The three parties in the bloc—Popular Republicans (Catholic), Radical Socialists (Moderates) and the Independent Republican-Peasant Alliance (right-of-center) — may do even better in runoffs next Sunday. Then they may pool their votes to decide 846 of the contests for the 1,660 seats that were at stake.

Due For Promotion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman today nominated three Air Force lieutenant generals for promotion to full generals.

The three are Lt. Gen. John Kenneth Cannon, commanding general of the Tactical Air Command; Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commanding general of the Strategic Air Command, and Lt. Gen. Benjamin Wiley Chidlaw, commanding general of the Air Defense Command.

Sen. Moody's Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said tonight Russia is capable of raiding the United States with 50 atomic bombs and that such an attack would kill 3,000,000 people.

He made the statement in asking the Senate to vote $20,000,000 additional for medical supplies for the Civil Defense Administration. The move was unsuccessful.

She Couldn't See Mate Hit By Car

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A man was knocked down by a car yesterday a few feet from a parked automobile in which Mrs. Harriet Couch, 63, was sitting.

Police and a crowd came. The victim, in critical condition with a skull fracture, was taken to a hospital.

The driver of the car, Pfc. Richard Seidl, 20, of Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill., was taken to a police station to be held without charge until the extent of the victim's injuries were ascertained.

Then, Traffic Officer Ed Halvorsen approached Mrs. Couch, still sitting quietly in her place. "I want your name as a witness to the accident, lady," he said.

"I am blind," Mrs. Couch said, "but my husband must have seen it. He left the car to mail a letter just before it happened. I'm sure he's around somewhere."

Halvorsen looked at the victim's identity notes in his report book—Cecil Couch, 65. He told her, gently, what had happened to her husband.

OPS Adviser's Firm Accused Of Violations

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization today accused a company headed by one of its own civilian advisers of noncompliance with OPS regulations.

The concern is B. Schwartz and Company, which OPS says is the nation's largest meat boning firm and does a $100,000,000 annual business.

Its president and treasurer, Benjamin Schwartz, is a director of the OPS Beef Industry Advisory Committee.

OPS, in the first such move in its beef enforcement drive in Chicago, sued today for an injunction to suspend the company's operations until it complies with OPS regulations.

Gov. McKeldin, 'Pinza Type,' Lunches With Movie Stars

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin, an "Ezio Pinza type" personality, lunched with Hollywood celebrities today.

Peggy Lee, pretty blonde singing star, put the governor in the same class with Pinza, Broadway and Hollywood singer, because of his "dynamic personality."

Miss Lee confessed she knows nothing of McKeldin's vocal talents, but said "with his good resonance, he could probably sing, too."

The resonance has helped the governor acquire a reputation as an orator and a friend confided later he's more than a passable baritone.

"I stood next to him once singing the Star Spangled Banner," he said. "He sounded out over the others."

The luncheon today was sponsored by the motion picture industry of Maryland. It served as a kickoff for the golden jubilee celebration of the American movie theater. Similar celebrations will be held throughout the country.

In addition to Miss Lee, two other screen beauties—blonde Aileen Stanley and red-haired Suzanne Dahlert, Fernch actress—also sat at the head table.

McKeldin found himself between Producer Sol Lesser and C. Elmer Nolte, Jr., Maryland chairman for the nationwide jubilee. He didn't complain, however, because "the girls visited me at the State House before coming here."

Russia Again Reported Moving Vital Industries

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 8 (AP)—Russia was reported today to have started another evacuation of vital industries from the western parts of the Soviet Union to safer areas beyond the Volga River.

The liberal newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen said that by the end of last year Russia had cancelled nearly all industrial expansion projects near her western borders.

Thousands Of Lifeless Birds Litter Airport

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8 (AP) — Municipal airport runways and surrounding fields were littered with thousands of lifeless birds today.

State conservation and University of Tennessee zoology authorities investigated and theorized:

The dead birds were blinded by the powerful beam of the weather bureau's ceilometer as they migrated southward, then plunged to the ground.

Airline pilots reported similar wholesale deaths of birds at the Nashville airport.

Rent Control Is Resumed In Ridgeley

Rent control was clamped on yesterday for the town of Ridgeley and rentals will be rolled back to the August 29, 1949 level, according to a joint announcement by William L. Mickey, chairman of the Ridgeley Rent Advisory Board, and Thomas E. Barrett, director-attorney for the rental area.

Recontrol was ordered October 5 by Tighe E. Wood, director of Rent Stabilization, Washington, at the request of Mayor B. Frank Magruder, town councilmen and rent advisory board members.

The principal reason recontrol was requested, Barrett said, was that rents rose excessively in some instances.

Recontrol means that landlords in Ridgeley are legally obligated to re-establish rents on their properties at the price they were receiving on August 29, 1949, when controls were removed in that area. After that, it is up to the landlords to apply for adjustments of rents to the Area Rent Office, which has been combined with the Cumberland Rent Office, located in the Post Office Building. Miss Elizabeth Lippold, contact representative, is in charge of the local office.

The main grounds for rent increases are: Increase in costs of operation, major improvements, added services and equipment, and inequity. A 20 per cent increase over the recontrolled ceiling rate will be allowed. The rollback will not affect the landlord's right to collect his present rental rate for the month of October unless such rent payment has not yet become due.

Landlords who did not register under the former rent control program will be required now to register within 30 days. They can at the same time petition for higher rentals. If the petitions are filed within 30 days, the increase in maximum rent if granted, will be made retroactive to the present date. Similiarly, tenants who feel that their rents are excessive, are permitted to apply at the rent office for a reduction in rent.

The rent stabilization program reimposed as above stated, restricts evictions and controls rents in the same manner as is done for the City of Cumberland for all controlled units.

The main exemptions under the law are accommodations built since February 1, 1947, and apartments converted through structural changes and ordered decontrolled by the Rent Office.

The usual penalties of treble damages and Federal Court injunctions are applicable in cases of violations of the law.

Summary Is Due In Smoke Survey

Raymond Tucker, St. Louis engineer and consultant, is expected to submit his recommendations on the city's smoke control program this week, Mayor Thomas S. Post announced.

Yesterday was the earliest date the study was to be submitted.

Also expected are plans for six new filters at Lake Gordon, the Mayor said.

He added that Robert T. Regester, Baltimore engineer who is preparing plans for the filtration project and the city's sewage treatment system, may ask for further time to complete the project.

Regester was asked to expedite plans for the filter work so construction of the urgently needed filters, to give the city another six million gallons of filtered water a day, may be started this fall.

Liberal Votes Could Decide

The election result in Great Britain on October 25 could very well hinge on the voters who cast their ballots for Liberal candidates in February, 1950, but who will have no such opportunity this time. In 1950 the Liberal party put up candidates for 475 (76 per cent) of the 625 seats in the House of Commons. The party is expected to announce soon that it will contest only about 100 this year.

Every candidate must put up a deposit of 150 pounds ($420), which is returned to him only if he polls as many as one-eighth of the votes cast. In 1950 no less than 319 Liberal candidates forfeited that deposit. (All but three of the 100 Communist candidates also forfeited their deposits.)

The Liberal party in 1950 paid Lloyd's a premium of 5,000 pounds for underwriting, up to 250, all Liberal deposits lost after the first 50. This year the party is apt to be more cautious. So is Lloyd's.

The Liberal candidates polled a total of 2,621,000 popular votes in 1950, to 13,296,000 for the 617 Labor candidates and 12,502,000 for the 621 anti-Labor candidates (of which 11,518,000 went to the 568 candidates labeled as straight Conservatives). The Communists polled 92,000 votes; and 55 various independent candidates, almost all of whom forfeited their deposits, polled a total of 258,000.

No fewer than 66 seats were won by Labor candidates with fewer votes than the combined vote for Conservative and Liberal candidates. If two-thirds of the Liberal votes had gone, instead, to the Conservative candidates and only one-third to the Labor candidates, Labor would have lost 18 of those 66 seats. That would have meant a Conservative government by a margin of 30 seats instead of a Labor one by a 6-seat margin.

But will the Conservatives in 1951 get more than Labor of the Liberal votes of 1950? The question is easier to ask than to answer.

The 1950 Liberal platform condemned "nationalization for nationalization's sake," also the Labor party's subservience to the trade unions. In 1949 the Liberals in Parliament voted with the Conservatives to censure the government on the pound devaluation. All that looked anti-Labor.

However, the Liberals supported the earlier nationalization projects of the Labor government, and the 1950 Liberal platform observed: "The Conservative party is the protective mechanism of big business." After the 1950 election, the Liberals were with the government in further clipping the wings of the House of Lords, over Conservatice opposition. All that looked anti-Conservative.

The truth seems to be that the future of the Liberals is all in their past. Their great issue in the days of their glory was free trade, but what chance has free trade in today's world? The Liberal party had hoped to do well in 1950 because of the traditional British bent toward compromise, but the British voter, like the American voter, seems disinclined to throw his vote away on a third party.

On the one hand, Liberals dislike Socialist regimentation. On the other hand, many still look on Churchill as a renegade for leaving their party, of which he had been a leader, to join the Conservatives in 1924. In 1923 and in 1929, when the Liberals held the balance of power, they refused to support any Conservative ministry, allowing Labor to form a government, later voted with the Conservatives to overthrow the Labor government.

New Life In Canada

A new life in Canada awaits the Czech engineer and 31 passengers of the novel "Freedom Train" that escaped through the iron curtain from Communist Czechoslovakia to the United States zone of Germany. So brave and dashing an exploit deserved such a happy ending.

Gen. Carl A. Spatz, chairman of the Iron Curtain Refugee Committee, has announced that the gallant group is being processed for emigration "in record-breaking time." Among them is the former stationmaster who covered the train's Communist fireman with his pistol while the engineer, Jaroslav Konvalinka, roared full throttle through the Czech border station of Asch.

The four-car train carried 111 passengers, most of them unaware of the plot in which armed anti-Communist conspirators were to guard the hand brakes against the Communist conductor, two soldier escorts and a policeman. Except for the 32, who formally requested asylum, the others were returned to Czechoslovakia when they gave ideological or family reasons for wishing to do so.

All too often there have been reports that individuals who have risked death to escape communism are shabbily treated by West German and, in some cases, even American authorities. Here is a happy contrast, one which should show others behind the iron curtain that the effort to achieve freedom is well made.

Penny's Worth

A toy manufacturer's announcement of the passing of the penny bank drives home poignantly the fact that the basic unit of U. S. currency has been the chief sufferer from inflation. Who does not remember the importance the penny enjoyed in the homely philosophy of wise Benjamin Franklin?

Take care of the pennies, he said, and the dollars will take care of themselves. But today that advice is disregarded and pennies, except where sales taxes are in vogue, are largely disappearing from circulation.

Possibly neglect of pennies has contributed to the depreciated state of the dollar, but there is no question the effect on the penny itself has been disastrous. The aforementioned toy manufacturer brings this out sharply with the comment that the penny has lost its appeal to children.

Penny candy long ago disappeared from counters and cases, and the parent whose largess is less than a dime finds little appreciation. A penny is scarcely worth saving, even to the child mind. So the company is going to make banks hereafter that take nothing less than a nickel, and preferably a dime or a quarter.

Power Of Minority

The Soviet government will soon launch the greatest purge in history when it deports or liquidates all citizens of satellite countries who have opposed the Russian regime. What Moscow terms unreliable elements in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria are to be driven from their homes, as the Communists take over their land.

Having been fooled and double-crossed for 20 years, our own government is being forced to admit the truth about Russia. Communism is rule by gangsterism, where a small minority, kept so because it is easier to handle, enforces its will upon the people through terror and death. Now the satellite nations are to feel the lash.

How To Keep Well

No Smoking

The harmful effects of tobacco on several medical conditions is controversial. However, most authorities agree that in Buerger's disease (thromboangiitis obliterans) there is strong evidence that smoking is more than aggravating. We could go further and say that it might be the cause.

The relationship between Buerger's disease and nicotine has been appreciated for many years. The majority of victims have been heavy smokers for a long time. Recently I heard a specialist in this field state that he had never encountered a patient with Buerger's disease who had not used tobacco. We do not know how the chemical does its damage except that many of these individuals are overly sensitive to its effects. To the best of our knowledge it impairs the circulation to the hands and feet by producing spasm of the blood vessels. Ultimately clots form and the arteries become plugged.

Buerger's disease has an innocent beginning and many victims find it difficult to recall when it started. There is coldness of one or all of the extremities with aching pains in toes, insteps, ankles, calves, wrists, or forearms. Inflammation of the veins may co-exist, which leads to tender, red, elevated streaks on the foot or legs. As the malady progresses many suffer from cramps in the calf of one leg or the other after walking a block or two and discomfort subsides after standing still for a few seconds. The cycle repeats itself. Later, ulcers may appear, or the skin of the toes becomes reddened or bluish and, eventually, black (gangrene). At this stage the digits burn and ache and distress is so agonizing that the subject is unable to sleep. Some smoke incessantly during these wakeful periods, which only aggravates the situation.

Several years ago a young man went to the Mayo clinic because of pain in the left foot which became worse on walking. After a thoro study, it was concluded that for at least five years he had been suffering from Buerger's disease, which was becoming progressively worse. He smoked 20 cigarettes a day and every physician consulted advised him to give up the habit. Nevertheless he disregarded all this advice. He returned to the clinic two years later and admitted that, altho his consumption of tobacco had been reduced, he had not abstained. By then, the pain in the left foot and right calf was more severe.

Another year slipped by and on his third visit to the clinic the condition had not changed. Again tobacco was interdicted and the patient dismissed. He was not seen for 12 years, at which time the clinic physicians were surprised when they learned that after his last previous admittance he had given up tobacco entirely. Shortly after he stopped smoking pain subsided and circulation improved. The tests were repeated and it was found that the arteries were again pulsating, indicating a normal blood flow. He had been cured without medicines, baths, lamps, or suction pressure treatments.

Many years ago we were studying an X-ray of the hand of a young man with Buerger's disease. A special substance had been injected into the arm to visualize the arteries leading to the hand and fingers. The passageways were far from normal and in one finger there was virtually no circulation at all. One of the physicians commented that the patient was not smoking but that if he should that finger would be the first to become gangrenous. Two weeks later the man returned with gangrene of that particular finger. He had gone to a party over the weekend, drank two cocktails, and decided to smoke a cigaret.

TOMORROW: Isolate chickenpox cases.

Ear Fungus

H. S. writes: Are the antibiotics helpful in fungous infections of the ear?

REPLY

The antibiotics seldom are used because they rarely influence the fungous organism; but if there is an associated bacterial invasion they should prove helpful. Various types of fungi attack the ear canal; some respond to one medicine and some to others. The best plan is to determine the culprit thru laboratory tests and proceed from this point with medicine known to kill that particular fungus.

Fibroid Tumor

M. T. writes: A friend tells me she has a fibroid tumor on the tonsils. Is such a thing possible?

REPLY

Yes, because fibroid tumors may develop wherever there is fibroid tissue. This sounds confusing because fibroids in the uterus are more common than elsewhere.

Aspirin Allergy

B. H. J. writes: What symptoms are caused by allergy to aspirin?

REPLY

Asthma and hives are the most common reactions.

George Allen Predicts Ike Will Run; Censorship Necessary To Protect U. S. Secrets; Nixon Deserves Credit For San Francisco Tax Probe

WASHINGTON — George Allen, the former White House jester, is now about the closest man to General Eisenhower. It was Allen who acted as liaison between Truman and Eisenhower to make sure Ike didn't get into the race as a Democrat in 1948.

Today, Allen, though a Mississippi Democrat, says that Ike is sure to run as a Republican.

Talking to a friend recently, Allen predicted:

"What Ike will do will be exactly what Roosevelt did at Chicago in 1932. He'll hop on a plane and fly straight to the convention.

"How's he going to fly from Paris to Chicago when he's under orders from his commander-in-chief to do a job in Paris?" asked the friend.

"Don't be foolish," shot back the former White House jester, "what's the commander-in-chief going to do about it?"

Censorship

Inside fact about the President's long press conference lecture about protecting U. S. secrets was that his immediate advisers didn't want him to make it. They knew public reaction would be bad.

However, the Defense Department, Central Intelligence and others in charge of military secrets urged the President not only to issue his censorship order but back it up—in part to keep the military from setting U. S. policy.

Time after time, high generals or admirals have barged in on civilian policy or disclosed secrets which caused serious damage.

Most important was the release of the Smythe report on atomic energy by General Leslie Groves. A few hours after the report was sent to several thousand newspapers, horrified scientists protested to the Army that the report contained vital secrets by which an astute scientist could piece together the know-how for making the A-bomb. Hurriedly, Groves demanded that the report be recalled.

"That," replied a member of his staff, "would be like trying to put an egg into a chicken."

Newsmen, not being technicians, had no way of knowing the significance of the Smythe report's complicated wording.

Another military boner which played into Moscow's hands was the statement by General Orvil Anderson, commander of the Air War College at Montgomery, Ala., that the United States wanted a preventive war. It was necessary for the Air Force to relieve Gen. Anderson in order to demonstrate this was not our real foreign policy.

NOTE — On Mr. Truman's desk this summer was one of our newest secret weapons, a guided missile. Proudly he demonstrated it to many callers, told about its accuracy against enemy planes. No restriction of secrecy was placed upon those with whom he talked.

Income Tax Probe

Alert Senator Richard Nixon of California had a lot to do, backstage, with the cleanup of the income tax mess in San Francisco.

Some time ago he received letters from those close to the federal grand jury which was trying to investigate the long-rumored Internal Revenue scandal but which was suddenly called off by U. S. Judge Lewis E. Goodman.

At that time, young assistant U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara was endeavoring to present evidence of income tax irregularities to the grand jury. But suddenly the probe was stopped by Judge Goodman, who, incidentally, had been appointed to the bench on the recommendation of ex-Senator Sheridan Downey. Collector of Internal Revenue Smythe, now under investigation, was Downey's campaign manager.

To remedy the situation, Senator Nixon introduced a bill which, if passed, will permit grand juries to hire council of their own and dig into a smelly situation—regardless of whether the U. S. attorney or the judge gives the green light.

Nixon also phoned the Justice Department in Washington to inquire about young O'Gara, the assistant U. S. attorney who was pushing the tax probe.

"He's a psycopath," was the reply.

In the end, however, O'Gara won out. He was brought to Washington as a witness before Senator Williams' Income Tax Committee, while many of the tax collectors in San Francisco he was gunning for have now been removed.

Washington Pipeline

Ex-Secretary of War Robert Patterson has notified the Senate Judiciary Committee that he has withdrawn his endorsement of Miss Frieda Hennock to be a U. S. judge. Since Patterson once sat on the U. S. Court of Appeals, his word counts heavily with the senators. He informed them that when he originally endorsed Miss Hennock, he had not realized all the facts now brought out by the New York Bar Association . . . Free hams, TV sets, etc. can certainly get people into trouble these days. In fairness to Commander John Paul Floyd, however, the $200 silvet set being given him by members of the Civilian Orientation Conference was a surprise. Floyd didn't know it was coming . . . . Ex-Senator Tydings of Maryland has now sold his prize pigs, including "The Shamrock," once Illinois grand champion Hampshire boar. . . . Some of the boys around the White House are really sore at Stuart Symington, new head of the RFC. In sweeping out RFC closets "Stew" has let the chips fall where they may—even if they hit Democrats . . . . For the first time, Senate spectators who once cheered McCarthy have begun to titter . . . . Justice Stanley Reed is now resigning from the Supreme Court. His health is now excellent, despite reports to the contrary by a Broadway columnist . . . Justice Hugo Black is still playing three sets of tennis daily, after which he rolls his own court.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Only from Joseph Stalin comes uncensored news out of Russia. For he is boss there and decides what shall be said. Hence anything he says or writes constitutes the most important evidence to the outside world of what is going on in his mind.

Stalin's latest statement is the most revealing document on the effect of American policy on Russia that has yet been disclosed and, if analyzed word for word in the light of what is occurring in this country, it will yield plenty of interesting information. These conclusions can be drawn from the Stalin statement:

1. Peace in the world is assured for an indefinite period.

2. Russia recognizes the lead in armament which America has and will not attack the Allies.

3. Russia has been scared by the size of the American defense program and by the recent announcements from American official sources about tactical use of the atom bomb.

Accomplished Its Purpose

4 Fearing that the Russian people may react nervously to President Truman's challenging statement that the Soviets are now embarked on a program of war preparation through the explosion of their second atom bomb, the Communist chief with only a few days elapsing has promptly sought by his statement to prevent that impression from taking hold inside the "iron curtain" countries. It is evidence that the American statement of last Wednesday was shrewdly conceived and has accomplished its object from a counter-propaganda standpoint.

The foregoing points are derived from the context of the Stalin statement which oddly enough protests too much on certain points and thus betrays the innermost concern of the Soviets. Many a person who is shaking and quivering in a moment of danger often insists that he isn't scared. Stalin says:

"Personages in the United States are vexed because the secret of the atom bomb is possessed not only by the United States but also by other countries, the Soviet Union primarily. They would like the United States to be the monopolist of the production of the atom bomb. They would like the United States to have unlimited power to intimidate and blackmail other countries."

Next comes the proof that Stalin respects American productive power and our lead in the atomic race for he then pleads that "the interests of preserving peace require first of all the liquidation of such a monopoly and then the unconditional prohibition of the atomic weapon, too." He then naively adds this bit of wishful thinking:

"I think that the proponents of the atom bomb may agree to the prohibition of the atomic weapon only if they see they are no longer monopolists."

What Stalin is really saying is that his explosion of a second atom bomb is intended to prove to America it has no monopoly and he is ready to agree to the liquidation of our larger and better supply of atom bombs by using his small, if not insignificant, supply as a trading point. It is transparently a sign of weakness.

Want U. S. Bombs Destroyed

The mere fact that so much of his statement is devoted to a reiteration of the Soviet point of view about prohibiting the use of the atomic weapon altogether indicates clearly moreover that the Soviets are desperately seeking the adoption of any program of international control which starts first with the destruction of all of America's bombs.

It's an understandable tactic on the part of a weaker party but it is also a signal to the United States that the atom bomb is destined to become a big issue psychologically inside Russia and that when the present crowd in the Kremlin are thrown out of power some day by the Russian people the problem of international control of the atomic bomb could be the means to a peaceful understanding with an emancipated nation. It could rid the whole world of atomic jitters. The atom bomb is looked upon everywhere as a weapon of war but it could conceivably become a great instrument of peace.

The Big Potatoes

WASHINGTON

In the RFC-Bill Boyle-Lithofold investigations, Congress has been rooting for peanuts as usual, while ignoring the giant Idaho potatoes. RFC loans are small stuff in the business-politics-government game. The big stakes are government decisions — often obscure decisions — which transform the profit pictures of whole industries, and cost or save the American people quite literally billions of dollars.

This reporter has been conducting a necessarily somewhat string-halted private inquiry into what has been happening to the big stakes in the Truman administration. The fairly hair-raising results are typified by the story of how the Federal Power Commission has been quietly captured by the industries it is supposed to regulate.

If any one man can claim to be the general of the long fight to take over the Power Commission, with its immense authority over electric power and natural gas, that man is Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. Senator Kerr, a pious man who teaches Sunday school, is said to have made his first big step upwards on life's ladder by getting permission for the Phillips Petroleum Company to drill oil wells on the lawn of the Oklahoma state capitol. From this promising beginning, he has never looked back, becoming many times a millionaire, the owner of vast oil and gas properties of his own, his state's governor, then its senator, and the close crony of the President of the United States.

Kerr Not Discouraged

Senator Kerr's not wholly disinterested aim was to relieve the natural gas industry of Federal Power Commission rate-making. When he began his long fight, back in 1945, he had one ally — ex-Dartmouth Professor Nelson Lee Smith, named to the commission as a progressive Republican in 1943, who had joined the industry side almost as soon as he was appointed. Smith and Kerr no doubt found a link in Smith's friend and New Hampshire neighbor, Ross Gamble, who represents the Texas Eastern Gas and Transmission Company in the Washington lobbies.

While still governor, Kerr scored his first triumph, persuading President Truman to give a vacant place on the commission to the bleary Harrington Wimberly, manager of a Kerr political campaign. Then another place on the commission opened, and Kerr got that one for another friend of his, Burton Bailing, who used to be known around the commission as "the gas lobbyist." Bailing, Wimberly and Smith briefly added up to a Power Commission majority. But the incorruptible and determined commission chairman, Leland Olds, organized protest deputations to the White House, and President Truman recalled Bailing's nomination from the Senate before he could be confirmed.

The temporary setback did not discourage Senator Kerr. Olds's term as Power Commission chairman expired, and his renomination had to be approved. Kerr, now transferred to the Senate's larger sphere, organized an intense attack on Olds as a sinister Socialist, offering in evidence the more foolish utterances indulged in by Olds as a very young, excessively idealistic Congregational minister. Outraged by the threat to free enterprise, the Senate rejected Olds. Meanwhile the Oklahoma senator also offered the Kerr Bill, giving the natural gas producers legal protection against Power Commission rate-making.

Wallgren Poor Choice

Initially, the Kern Bill was supported by the Senate majority leader, and was authoritatively said to have White House approval. Unfortunately, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois stirred up an inconvenient row on behalf of the gas consumers in great urban centers, whose gas prices were about to be inflated. The President then sent the Kerr Bill back to the Senate with a pious veto, but added, as an after-thought, the nomination of his poker-crony, former Governor Mon C. Wallgren of Washington, to succeed Olds on the Power Commission.

Wallgren is a poorer than average member of the Fair Deal's Elks bar set. His record is dubious, his intellect feeble; and in his background loom such peculiar characters as the West Coast fishmonger-tycoon, Nick Bez, and the Seattle big operator, Saul Haas. The Senate, which had been unable to stomach Olds, and had found Wallgren too second rate for the National Security Resources Board, now confirmed Wallgren for the Power Commission with alacrity and delight. According to report, Senator Douglas remarked that it was like hiring a nurse to murder the baby.

At any rate, Wallgren gave Kerr what he wanted, control of the Power Commission. In a case started by Kerr's old friends, the Phillips Petroleum Company, the Wallgrenized commission immediately reversed itself, briskly enacting the vetoed Kerr Bill by simple administrative ruling. What the President may have thought of the curious spectacle of his own veto being overridden by his own appointee, history does not record. Presumably he was consoled by the large profits promised by the Phillips case ruling to Senator Kerr and all the other gas producers.

The many tens, even hundreds of millions of profits for the owners of natural gas property are also added costs, of course, for the ordinary citizen-gas consumer. But the story does not end there, by any means. The stakes in this Power Commission struggle are really almost incalculable, as will be shown in a further report.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Hoover's Autobiography

The first volume of Herbert Hoover's autobiography is to be published about the middle of this month. I am not jumping the gun in respect to the publication date; that apparently is a grave sin. However, the book recalled to me our first correspondence.

Throughout the years of my residence in China, I treasured the friendship of Tong Shao-yi, an elderly gentleman of cultured habits who had been in the highest offices under the dowager empress as well as during the early years of the republic. Tong Shao-yi had been like a father to me and I respected him as though I were, in truth, his son.

It was the Tong family that was interested in the coal mines in North China where Herbert Hoover was employed as a young engineer, and his enemies, even now, try to give the impression that there was something wrong about it.

In fact, in January, 1920, two Americans came to China to discover whether there was any basis for the stories about Mr. Hoover stealing mines from the Chinese. They represented themselves as having been sent by the Republican party.

Old Tong Shao-yi thought that his friend, Herbert Hoover, was in some kind of peril and he asked me to write a letter telling of this sleuthing. I did so on January 17, 1920, and I have the letter before me now.

Tong Shao-yi told his visitors that nobody stole those mines because the Chinese still have them. Instead he recounted how the young engineer organized to feed the Chinese of Tientsin during the Boxer Rebellion. I quote from my letter:

". . . Mr. Tong then expressed great gratitude for what had been done 20 years ago. . . He told the story of the vase which you took as a memento of those terrible days in Tientsin. Mr. Tong wondered whether you still have the vase which you took from his house not as loot but as a remembrance."

The years pass and 1928 approaches. This time the Democrats send a delegation to get the dirt on Herbert Hoover. And the more these men dig, the more the arrows point toward Tong Shao-yi. Finally, they are advised to see me and I take them to this aged mandarin who sits among the most beautiful Chinese porcelain every afternoon, drinking coffee which he prepares in his own fashion, and it all is so exotic and incongruous to listen to him discourse almost intimately on American politics, robed in beautiful brocades. So these Democrats want to know about the stolen mines and Tong tells them of the genius of the young engineer and how Hoover foretold the Chinese revolution almost a decade before it happened in a report to the viceroy Li Hung-chang, who would not believe him.

This time, I was again designated to write Mr. Hoover, reporting the incident, but that letter I do not now find. Mr. Tong, in due course, gave a press interview on the perfections of Herbert Hoover in the conduct of these mines. Subsequently, the entire story was told in detail by B. W. Fleisher in the "Japan Advertiser" and by George Bronson Rea in the "Far Eastern Review."

Tong Shao-yi must have been in his eighties when he was assassinated for saying that the Chinese were unwise to be at war with the Japanese, as such a war would ultimately hand China over to Soviet Russia—a frightfulness that actually came to pass, as we now all know.

Two years or so before his death, in 1930, when I was returning to the United States for the first time in 13 years, he asked me to call on Mr. Hoover in the White House to say that if these stories troubled the President, he, Tong, would come to America to speak on Mr. Hoover's behalf, to tell of all his wonderful performances in China. And this I did.

It was an amazingly unbelievable visit to the White House. There sat a President beset by a thousand worries, for the depression had already become a nightmare. He recalled men in China who had made their mark and passed on, and some were still alive. And I know that Mrs. Hoover, then a young bride, had learned the Chinese language and loved the blue and white porcelains which are most beautiful when made in Chingtehchen in the province of Kiangsi. I almost felt that he envied my living so long among a nation so mature that they have a sixth sense for quality in man and thing.

Liberal Votes Could Decide

The election result in Great Britain on October 25 could very well hinge on the voters who cast their ballots for Liberal candidates in February, 1950, but who will have no such opportunity this time. In 1950 the Liberal party put up candidates for 475 (76 per cent) of the 625 seats in the House of Commons. The party is expected to announce soon that it will contest only about 100 this year.

Every candidate must put up a deposit of 150 pounds ($420), which is returned to him only if he polls as many as one-eighth of the votes cast. In 1950 no less than 319 Liberal candidates forfeited that deposit. (All but three of the 100 Communist candidates also forfeited their deposits.)

The Liberal party in 1950 paid Lloyd's a premium of 5,000 pounds for underwriting, up to 250, all Liberal deposits lost after the first 50. This year the party is apt to be more cautious. So is Lloyd's.

The Liberal candidates polled a total of 2,621,000 popular votes in 1950, to 13,296,000 for the 617 Labor candidates and 12,502,000 for the 621 anti-Labor candidates (of which 11,518,000 went to the 568 candidates labeled as straight Conservatives). The Communists polled 92,000 votes; and 55 various independent candidates, almost all of whom forfeited their deposits, polled a total of 258,000.

No fewer than 66 seats were won by Labor candidates with fewer votes than the combined vote for Conservative and Liberal candidates. If two-thirds of the Liberal votes had gone, instead, to the Conservative candidates and only one-third to the Labor candidates, Labor would have lost 18 of those 66 seats. That would have meant a Conservative government by a margin of 30 seats instead of a Labor one by a 6-seat margin.

But will the Conservatives in 1951 get more than Labor of the Liberal votes of 1950? The question is easier to ask than to answer.

The 1950 Liberal platform condemned "nationalization for nationalization's sake," also the Labor party's subservience to the trade unions. In 1949 the Liberals in Parliament voted with the Conservatives to censure the government on the pound devaluation. All that looked anti-Labor.

However, the Liberals supported the earlier nationalization projects of the Labor government, and the 1950 Liberal platform observed: "The Conservative party is the protective mechanism of big business." After the 1950 election, the Liberals were with the government in further clipping the wings of the House of Lords, over Conservatice opposition. All that looked anti-Conservative.

The truth seems to be that the future of the Liberals is all in their past. Their great issue in the days of their glory was free trade, but what chance has free trade in today's world? The Liberal party had hoped to do well in 1950 because of the traditional British bent toward compromise, but the British voter, like the American voter, seems disinclined to throw his vote away on a third party.

On the one hand, Liberals dislike Socialist regimentation. On the other hand, many still look on Churchill as a renegade for leaving their party, of which he had been a leader, to join the Conservatives in 1924. In 1923 and in 1929, when the Liberals held the balance of power, they refused to support any Conservative ministry, allowing Labor to form a government, later voted with the Conservatives to overthrow the Labor government.

New Life In Canada

A new life in Canada awaits the Czech engineer and 31 passengers of the novel "Freedom Train" that escaped through the iron curtain from Communist Czechoslovakia to the United States zone of Germany. So brave and dashing an exploit deserved such a happy ending.

Gen. Carl A. Spatz, chairman of the Iron Curtain Refugee Committee, has announced that the gallant group is being processed for emigration "in record-breaking time." Among them is the former stationmaster who covered the train's Communist fireman with his pistol while the engineer, Jaroslav Konvalinka, roared full throttle through the Czech border station of Asch.

The four-car train carried 111 passengers, most of them unaware of the plot in which armed anti-Communist conspirators were to guard the hand brakes against the Communist conductor, two soldier escorts and a policeman. Except for the 32, who formally requested asylum, the others were returned to Czechoslovakia when they gave ideological or family reasons for wishing to do so.

All too often there have been reports that individuals who have risked death to escape communism are shabbily treated by West German and, in some cases, even American authorities. Here is a happy contrast, one which should show others behind the iron curtain that the effort to achieve freedom is well made.

Penny's Worth

A toy manufacturer's announcement of the passing of the penny bank drives home poignantly the fact that the basic unit of U. S. currency has been the chief sufferer from inflation. Who does not remember the importance the penny enjoyed in the homely philosophy of wise Benjamin Franklin?

Take care of the pennies, he said, and the dollars will take care of themselves. But today that advice is disregarded and pennies, except where sales taxes are in vogue, are largely disappearing from circulation.

Possibly neglect of pennies has contributed to the depreciated state of the dollar, but there is no question the effect on the penny itself has been disastrous. The aforementioned toy manufacturer brings this out sharply with the comment that the penny has lost its appeal to children.

Penny candy long ago disappeared from counters and cases, and the parent whose largess is less than a dime finds little appreciation. A penny is scarcely worth saving, even to the child mind. So the company is going to make banks hereafter that take nothing less than a nickel, and preferably a dime or a quarter.

Power Of Minority

The Soviet government will soon launch the greatest purge in history when it deports or liquidates all citizens of satellite countries who have opposed the Russian regime. What Moscow terms unreliable elements in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria are to be driven from their homes, as the Communists take over their land.

Having been fooled and double-crossed for 20 years, our own government is being forced to admit the truth about Russia. Communism is rule by gangsterism, where a small minority, kept so because it is easier to handle, enforces its will upon the people through terror and death. Now the satellite nations are to feel the lash.

No Smoking

The harmful effects of tobacco on several medical conditions is controversial. However, most authorities agree that in Buerger's disease (thromboangiitis obliterans) there is strong evidence that smoking is more than aggravating. We could go further and say that it might be the cause.

The relationship between Buerger's disease and nicotine has been appreciated for many years. The majority of victims have been heavy smokers for a long time. Recently I heard a specialist in this field state that he had never encountered a patient with Buerger's disease who had not used tobacco. We do not know how the chemical does its damage except that many of these individuals are overly sensitive to its effects. To the best of our knowledge it impairs the circulation to the hands and feet by producing spasm of the blood vessels. Ultimately clots form and the arteries become plugged.

Buerger's disease has an innocent beginning and many victims find it difficult to recall when it started. There is coldness of one or all of the extremities with aching pains in toes, insteps, ankles, calves, wrists, or forearms. Inflammation of the veins may co-exist, which leads to tender, red, elevated streaks on the foot or legs. As the malady progresses many suffer from cramps in the calf of one leg or the other after walking a block or two and discomfort subsides after standing still for a few seconds. The cycle repeats itself. Later, ulcers may appear, or the skin of the toes becomes reddened or bluish and, eventually, black (gangrene). At this stage the digits burn and ache and distress is so agonizing that the subject is unable to sleep. Some smoke incessantly during these wakeful periods, which only aggravates the situation.

Several years ago a young man went to the Mayo clinic because of pain in the left foot which became worse on walking. After a thoro study, it was concluded that for at least five years he had been suffering from Buerger's disease, which was becoming progressively worse. He smoked 20 cigarettes a day and every physician consulted advised him to give up the habit. Nevertheless he disregarded all this advice. He returned to the clinic two years later and admitted that, altho his consumption of tobacco had been reduced, he had not abstained. By then, the pain in the left foot and right calf was more severe.

Another year slipped by and on his third visit to the clinic the condition had not changed. Again tobacco was interdicted and the patient dismissed. He was not seen for 2 years, at which time the clinic physicians were surprised when they learned that after his last previous admittance he had given up tobacco entirely. Shortly after he stopped smoking pain subsided and circulation improved. The tests were repeated and it was found that the arteries were again pulsating, indicating a normal blood flow. He had been cured without medicines, baths, lamps, or suction pressure treatments.

Many years ago we were studying an X-ray of the hand of a young man with Buerger's disease. A special substance had been injected into the arm to visualize the arteries leading to the hand and fingers. The passageways were far from normal and in one finger there was virtually no circulation at all. One of the physicians commented that the patient was not smoking but that if he should that finger would be the first to become gangrenous. Two weeks later the man returned with gangrene of that particular finger. He had gone to a party over the weekend, drank two cocktails, and decided to smoke a cigaret.

Ear Fungus

H. S. writes: Are the antibiotics helpful in fungous infections of the ear?

REPLY

The antibiotics seldom are used because they rarely influence the fungous organism; but if there is an associated bacterial invasion they should prove helpful. Various types of fungi attack the ear canal; some respond to one medicine and some to others. The best plan is to determine the culprit thru laboratory tests and proceed from this point with medicine known to kill that particular fungus.

Fibroid Tumor

M. T. writes: A friend tells me she has a fibroid tumor on the tonsils. Is such a thing possible?

REPLY

Yes, because fibroid tumors may develop wherever there is fibroid tissue. This sounds confusing because fibroids in the uterus are more common than elsewhere.

Aspirin Allergy

B. H. J. writes: What symptoms are caused by allergy to aspirin?

REPLY

Asthma and hives are the most common reactions.

George Allen Predicts Ike Will Run; Censorship Necessary To Protect U. S. Secrets; Nixon Deserves Credit For San Francisco Tax Probe

WASHINGTON — George Allen, the former White House jester, is now about the closest man to General Eisenhower. It was Allen who acted as liaison between Truman and Eisenhower to make sure Ike didn't get into the race as a Democrat in 1948.

Today, Allen, though a Mississippi Democrat, says that Ike is sure to run as a Republican.

Talking to a friend recently, Allen predicted:

"What Ike will do will be exactly what Roosevelt did at Chicago in 1932. He'll hop on a plane and fly straight to the convention.

"How's he going to fly from Paris to Chicago when he's under orders from his commander-in-chief to do a job in Paris?" asked the friend.

"Don't be foolish," shot back the former White House jester, "what's the commander-in-chief going to do about it?"

Censorship

Inside fact about the President's long press conference lecture about protecting U. S. secrets was that his immediate advisers didn't want him to make it. They knew public reaction would be bad.

However, the Defense Department, Central Intelligence and others in charge of military secrets urged the President not only to issue his censorship order but back it up—in part to keep the military from setting U. S. policy.

Time after time, high generals or admirals have barged in on civilian policy or disclosed secrets which caused serious damage.

Most important was the release of the Smythe report on atomic energy by General Leslie Groves. A few hours after the report was sent to several thousand newspapers, horrified scientists protested to the Army that the report contained vital secrets by which an astute scientist could piece together the know-how for making the A-bomb. Hurriedly, Groves demanded that the report be recalled.

"That," replied a member of his staff, "would be like trying to put an egg into a chicken."

Newsmen, not being technicians, had no way of knowing the significance of the Smythe report's complicated wording.

Another military boner which played into Moscow's hands was the statement by General Orvil Anderson, commander of the Air War College at Montgomery, Ala., that the United States wanted a preventive war. It was necessary for the Air Force to relieve Gen. Anderson in order to demonstrate this was not our real foreign policy.

NOTE — On Mr. Truman's desk this summer was one of our newest secret weapons, a guided missile. Proudly he demonstrated it to many callers, told about its accuracy against enemy planes. No restriction of secrecy was placed upon those with whom he talked.

Income Tax Probe

Alert Senator Richard Nixon of California had a lot to do, backstage, with the cleanup of the income tax mess in San Francisco.

Some time ago he received letters from those close to the federal grand jury which was trying to investigate the long-rumored Internal Revenue scandal but which was suddenly called off by U. S. Judge Lewis E. Goodman.

At that time, young assistant U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara was endeavoring to present evidence of income tax irregularities to the grand jury. But suddenly the probe was stopped by Judge Goodman, who, incidentally, had been appointed to the bench on the recommendation of ex-Senator Sheridan Downey. Collector of Internal Revenue Smythe, now under investigation, was Downey's campaign manager.

To remedy the situation, Senator Nixon introduced a bill which, if passed, will permit grand juries to hire council of their own and dig into a smelly situation—regardless of whether the U. S. attorney or the judge gives the green light.

Nixon also phoned the Justice Department in Washington to inquire about young O'Gara, the assistant U. S. attorney who was pushing the tax probe.

"He's a psycopath," was the reply.

In the end, however, O'Gara won out. He was brought to Washington as a witness before Senator Williams' Income Tax Committee, while many of the tax collectors in San Francisco he was gunning for have now been removed.

Washington Pipeline

Ex-Secretary of War Robert Patterson has notified the Senate Judiciary Committee that he has withdrawn his endorsement of Miss Frieda Hennock to be a U. S. judge. Since Patterson once sat on the U. S. Court of Appeals, his word counts heavily with the senators. He informed them that when he originally endorsed Miss Hennock, he had not realized all the facts now brought out by the New York Bar Association . . . Free hams, TV sets, etc. can certainly get people into trouble these days. In fairness to Commander John Paul Floyd, however, the $200 silvet set being given him by members of the Civilian Orientation Conference was a surprise. Floyd didn't know it was coming . . . . Ex-Senator Tydings of Maryland has now sold his prize pigs, including "The Shamrock," once Illinois grand champion Hampshire boar. . . . Some of the boys around the White House are really sore at Stuart Symington, new head of the RFC. In sweeping out RFC closets "Stew" has let the chips fall where they may—even if they hit Democrats . . . . For the first time, Senate spectators who once cheered McCarthy have begun to titter . . . . Justice Stanley Reed is now resigning from the Supreme Court. His health is now excellent, despite reports to the contrary by a Broadway columnist . . . Justice Hugo Black is still playing three sets of tennis daily, after which he rolls his own court.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Only from Joseph Stalin comes uncensored news out of Russia. For he is boss there and decides what shall be said. Hence anything he says or writes constitutes the most important evidence to the outside world of what is going on in his mind.

Stalin's latest statement is the most revealing document on the effect of American policy on Russia that has yet been disclosed and, if analyzed word for word in the light of what is occurring in this country, it will yield plenty of interesting information. These conclusions can be drawn from the Stalin statement:

1. Peace in the world is assured for an indefinite period.

2. Russia recognizes the lead in armament which America has and will not attack the Allies.

3. Russia has been scared by the size of the American defense program and by the recent announcements from American official sources about tactical use of the atom bomb.

Accomplished Its Purpose

4 Fearing that the Russian people may react nervously to President Truman's challenging statement that the Soviets are now embarked on a program of war preparation through the explosion of their second atom bomb, the Communist chief with only a few days elapsing has promptly sought by his statement to prevent that impression from taking hold inside the "iron curtain" countries. It is evidence that the American statement of last Wednesday was shrewdly conceived and has accomplished its object from a counter-propaganda standpoint.

The foregoing points are derived from the context of the Stalin statement which oddly enough protests too much on certain points and thus betrays the innermost concern of the Soviets. Many a person who is shaking and quivering in a moment of danger often insists that he isn't scared. Stalin says:

"Personages in the United States are vexed because the secret of the atom bomb is possessed not only by the United States but also by other countries, the Soviet Union primarily. They would like the United States to be the monopolist of the production of the atom bomb. They would like the United States to have unlimited power to intimidate and blackmail other countries."

Next comes the proof that Stalin respects American productive power and our lead in the atomic race for he then pleads that "the interests of preserving peace require first of all the liquidation of such a monopoly and then the unconditional prohibition of the atomic weapon, too." He then naively adds this bit of wishful thinking:

"I think that the proponents of the atom bomb may agree to the prohibition of the atomic weapon only if they see they are no longer monopolists."

What Stalin is really saying is that his explosion of a second atom bomb is intended to prove to America it has no monopoly and he is ready to agree to the liquidation of our larger and better supply of atom bombs by using his small, if not insignificant, supply as a trading point. It is transparently a sign of weakness.

Want U. S. Bombs Destroyed

The mere fact that so much of his statement is devoted to a reiteration of the Soviet point of view about prohibiting the use of the atomic weapon altogether indicates clearly moreover that the Soviets are desperately seeking the adoption of any program of international control which starts first with the destruction of all of America's bombs.

It's an understandable tactic on the part of a weaker party but it is also a signal to the United States that the atom bomb is destined to become a big issue psychologically inside Russia and that when the present crowd in the Kremlin are thrown out of power some day by the Russian people the problem of international control of the atomic bomb could be the means to a peaceful understanding with an emancipated nation. It could rid the whole world of atomic jitters. The atom bomb is looked upon everywhere as a weapon of war but it could conceivably become a great instrument of peace.

The Big Potatoes

WASHINGTON

In the RFC-Bill Boyle-Lithofold investigations, Congress has been rooting for peanuts as usual, while ignoring the giant Idaho potatoes. RFC loans are small stuff in the business-politics-government game. The big stakes are government decisions — often obscure decisions — which transform the profit pictures of whole industries, and cost or save the American people quite literally billions of dollars.

This reporter has been conducting a necessarily somewhat string-halted private inquiry into what has been happening to the big stakes in the Truman administration. The fairly hair-raising results are typified by the story of how the Federal Power Commission has been quietly captured by the industries it is supposed to regulate.

If any one man can claim to be the general of the long fight to take over the Power Commission, with its immense authority over electric power and natural gas, that man is Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. Senator Kerr, a pious man who teaches Sunday school, is said to have made his first big step upwards on life's ladder by getting permission for the Phillips Petroleum Company to drill oil wells on the lawn of the Oklahoma state capitol. From this promising beginning, he has never looked back, becoming many times a millionaire, the owner of vast oil and gas properties of his own, his state's governor, then its senator, and the close crony of the President of the United States.

Kerr Not Discouraged

Senator Kerr's not wholly disinterested aim was to relieve the natural gas industry of Federal Power Commission rate-making. When he began his long fight, back in 1945, he had one ally — ex-Dartmouth Professor Nelson Lee Smith, named to the commission as a progressive Republican in 1943, who had joined the industry side almost as soon as he was appointed. Smith and Kerr no doubt found a link in Smith's friend and New Hampshire neighbor, Ross Gamble, who represents the Texas Eastern Gas and Transmission Company in the Washington lobbies.

While still governor, Kerr scored his first triumph, persuading President Truman to give a vacant place on the commission to the bleary Harrington Wimberly, manager of a Kerr political campaign. Then another place on the commission opened, and Kerr got that one for another friend of his, Burton Bailing, who used to be known around the commission as "the gas lobbyist." Bailing, Wimberly and Smith briefly added up to a Power Commission majority. But the incorruptible and determined commission chairman, Leland Olds, organized protest deputations to the White House, and President Truman recalled Bailing's nomination from the Senate before he could be confirmed.

The temporary setback did not discourage Senator Kerr. Olds's term as Power Commission chairman expired, and his renomination had to be approved. Kerr, now transferred to the Senate's larger sphere, organized an intense attack on Olds as a sinister Socialist, offering in evidence the more foolish utterances indulged in by Olds as a very young, excessively idealistic Congregational minister. Outraged by the threat to free enterprise, the Senate rejected Olds. Meanwhile the Oklahoma senator also offered the Kerr Bill, giving the natural gas producers legal protection against Power Commission rate-making.

Wallgren Poor Choice

Initially, the Kern Bill was supported by the Senate majority leader, and was authoritatively said to have White House approval. Unfortunately, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois stirred up an inconvenient row on behalf of the gas consumers in great urban centers, whose gas prices were about to be inflated. The President then sent the Kerr Bill back to the Senate with a pious veto, but added, as an after-thought, the nomination of his poker-crony, former Governor Mon C. Wallgren of Washington, to succeed Olds on the Power Commission.

Wallgren is a poorer than average member of the Fair Deal's Elks bar set. His record is dubious, his intellect feeble; and in his background loom such peculiar characters as the West Coast fishmonger-tycoon, Nick Bez, and the Seattle big operator, Saul Haas. The Senate, which had been unable to stomach Olds, and had found Wallgren too second rate for the National Security Resources Board, now confirmed Wallgren for the Power Commission with alacrity and delight. According to report, Senator Douglas remarked that it was like hiring a nurse to murder the baby.

At any rate, Wallgren gave Kerr what he wanted, control of the Power Commission. In a case started by Kerr's old friends, the Phillips Petroleum Company, the Wallgren-ized commission immediately reversed itself, briskly enacting the vetoed Kerr Bill by simple administrative ruling. What the President may have thought of the curious spectacle of his own veto being overridden by his own appointee, history does not record. Presumably he was consoled by the large profits promised by the Phillips case ruling to Senator Kerr and all the other gas producers.

The many tens, even hundreds of millions of profits for the owners of natural gas property are also added costs, of course, for the ordinary citizen-gas consumer. But the story does not end there, by any means. The stakes in this Power Commission struggle are really almost incalculable, as will be shown in a further report.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Hoover's Autobiography

The first volume of Herbert Hoover's autobiography is to be published about the middle of this month. I am not jumping the gun in respect to the publication date; that apparently is a grave sin. However, the book recalled to me our first correspondence.

Throughout the years of my residence in China, I treasured the friendship of Tong Shao-yi, an elderly gentleman of cultured habits who had been in the highest offices under the dowager empress as well as during the early years of the republic. Tong Shao-yi had been like a father to me and I respected him as though I were, in truth, his son.

It was the Tong family that was interested in the coal mines in North China where Herbert Hoover was employed as a young engineer, and his enemies, even now, try to give the impression that there was something wrong about it.

In fact, in January, 1920, two Americans came to China to discover whether there was any basis for the stories about Mr. Hoover stealing mines from the Chinese. They represented themselves as having been sent by the Republican party.

Old Tong Shao-yi thought that his friend, Herbert Hoover, was in some kind of peril and he asked me to write a letter telling of this sleuthing. I did so on January 17, 1920, and I have the letter before me now.

Tong Shao-yi told his visitors that nobody stole those mines because the Chinese still have them. Instead he recounted how the young engineer organized to feed the Chinese of Tientsin during the Boxer Rebellion. I quote from my letter:

". . . Mr. Tong then expressed great gratitude for what had been done 20 years ago. . . He told the story of the vase which you took as a memento of those terrible days in Tientsin. Mr. Tong wondered whether you still have the vase which you took from his house not as loot but as a remembrance."

The years pass and 1928 approaches. This time the Democrats send a delegation to get the dirt on Herbert Hoover. And the more these men dig, the more the arrows point toward Tong Shao-yi. Finally, they are advised to see me and I take them to this aged mandarin who sits among the most beautiful Chinese porcelain every afternoon, drinking coffee which he prepares in his own fashion, and it all is so exotic and incongruous to listen to him discourse almost intimately on American politics, robed in beautiful brocades. So these Democrats want to know about the stolen mines and Tong tells them of the genius of the young engineer and how Hoover foretold the Chinese revolution almost a decade before it happened in a report to the viceroy Li Hung-chang, who would not believe him.

This time, I was again designated to write Mr. Hoover, reporting the incident, but that letter I do not now find. Mr. Tong, in due course, gave a press interview on the perfections of Herbert Hoover in the conduct of these mines. Subsequently, the entire story was told in detail by B. W. Fleisher in the "Japan Advertiser" and by George Bronson Rea in the "Far Eastern Review."

Tong Shao-yi must have been in his eighties when he was assassinated for saying that the Chinese were unwise to be at war with the Japanese, as such a war would ultimately hand China over to Soviet Russia—a frightfulness that actually came to pass, as we now all know.

Two years or so before his death, in 1930, when I was returning to the United States for the first time in 13 years, he asked me to call on Mr. Hoover in the White House to say that if these stories troubled the President, he, Tong, would come to America to speak on Mr. Hoover's behalf, to tell of all his wonderful performances in China. And this I did.

It was an amazingly unbelievable visit to the White House. There sat a President beset by a thousand worries, for the depression had already become a nightmare. He recalled men in China who had made their mark and passed on, and some were still alive. And I know that Mrs. Hoover, then a young bride, had learned the Chinese language and loved the blue and white porcelains which are most beautiful when made in Chingtehchen in the province of Kiangsi. I almost felt that he envied my living so long among a nation so mature that they have a sixth sense for quality in man and thing.

Car Damages Auto And House

A Fairgo soldier drew a suspended $10 fine yesterday in Police Court after his car struck a parked vehicle on North Mechanic Street and then caved in the wall of a house.

The soldier, Pvt. Robert H. Beal, 21, was treated at Allegany Hospital for a lip laceration.

Police said his car hit another owned by Charles Cassidy, 38, of 634 North Mechanic Street, then struck the front of Mrs. Margaret Cage's home next door at 632 North Mechanic Street.

Damage to the Beal car was estimated at $500. No estimate of damage to the house was given, but Mrs. Cage said the wall was ruined and a radio was smashed.

Hitchcock said Beall will have a new installation within ten weeks.

This raised from Commissioner William H. Buchholtz the question of whether the current ordinance is broad enough for such cases since "we are interested in the welfare of our citizens."

Hitchcock said the ordinance would never take care of private nuisance cases. He said he didn't believe the people who signed the complaint knew about the new boiler.

Hitchcock announced that the report of the Potomac Edison on operation of its River Plant has reached his office. He said it is "technical information."

His report will be forthcoming, he said, when his file on the Potomac Edison operations are returned by Raymond Tucker, St. Louis consultant, who recently made a survey of the smoke control problem here.

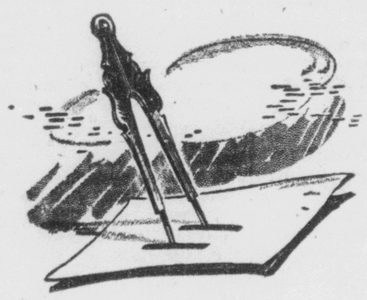
IS THAT A FACT! by Ches Peake

SHE WAS THE FIRST TO SAY "I DO." The first Christian marriage ceremony to be performed in America occurred in Jamestown, Va., in 1609, when Anne Burras married John Leyton according to English rites. The marriage took place 11 years before the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.



IT WAS HARD TO EQUAL. The common arithmetical sign, the equal mark, was originated in about 1557 by a mathematician named Robert Recorde. He wrote in a treatise on algebra: "To avoide the tediouse repetition of these words, is equalle to, I will sette, as I doe often in worke use a pair of parallel lines of one lengthe, thus: =, because no two things can be more equalle."

IT IS ALSO A FACT THAT ... the YELLOW PAGES of your Telephone Directory have no equal when it comes to locating products or services for the home or business. For example, suppose you are moving from one town to another. You will need movers, and perhaps storage for your furniture. Just turn to the proper headings in the YELLOW PAGES, pick out the firms you want, and your problem's simplified. Get in the habit of using the YELLOW PAGES. You'll find it—pays!

Car Damages Auto And House

A Fairgo soldier drew a suspended $10 fine yesterday in Police Court after his car struck a parked vehicle on North Mechanic Street and then caved in the wall of a house.

The soldier, Pvt. Robert H. Beal, 21, was treated at Allegany Hospital for a lip laceration.

Police said his car hit another owned by Charles Cassidy, 38, of 634 North Mechanic Street, then struck the front of Mrs. Margaret Cage's home next door at 632 North Mechanic Street.

Damage to the Beal car was estimated at $500. No estimate of damage to the house was given, but Mrs. Cage said the wall was ruined and a radio was smashed.

complaint and should she feel that her health has been so affected by her next door neighbor's action, I still advise her to file a bill of complaint within the proper channels of the law."

Hitchcock said Beall will have a new installation within ten weeks.

This raised from Commissioner William H. Buchholtz the question of whether the current ordinance is broad enough for such cases since "we are interested in the welfare of our citizens."

Hitchcock said the ordinance would never take care of private nuisance cases. He said he didn't believe the people who signed the complaint knew about the new boiler.

Hitchcock announced that the report of the Potomac Edison on operation of its River Plant has reached his office. He said it is "technical information."

His report will be forthcoming, he said, when his file on the Potomac Edison operations are returned by Raymond Tucker, St. Louis consultant, who recently made a survey of the smoke control problem here.

Equity Case Filed

An equity case was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled William R. Wade vs. Elnora Wolford Wade.

IS THAT A FACT! by Ches Peake

SHE WAS THE FIRST TO SAY "I DO." The first Christian marriage ceremony to be performed in America occurred in Jamestown, Va., in 1609, when Anne Burras married John Leyton according to English rites. The marriage took place 11 years before the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.

IT WAS HARD TO EQUAL. The common arithmetical sign, the equal mark, was originated in about 1557 by a mathematician named Robert Recorde. He wrote in a treatise on algebra: "To avoide the tediouse repetition of these words, is equalle to, I will sette, as I doe often in worke use a pair of parallel lines of one lengthe, thus: =, because no two things can be more equalle."

IT IS ALSO A FACT THAT ... the YELLOW PAGES of your Telephone Directory have no equal when it comes to locating products or services for the home or business. For example, suppose you are moving from one town to another. You will need movers, and perhaps storage for your furniture. Just turn to the proper headings in the YELLOW PAGES, pick out the firms you want, and your problem's simplified. Get in the habit of using the YELLOW PAGES. You'll find it—pays!

In other action the council:

Donated $200 to the Forty and Eight for its Halloween mummers parade but said no other services of the city would be used. In past years the city has undertaken decoration of light poles with corn stalks and synthetic pumpkins.

The annual audit made by Berman, Goldman and Levin, Baltimore, was accepted and payment of $1,500 authorized. Two hundred copies of the report will be printed.

A check for $193 was authorized payable to Henry Klein as the result of a Peoples Court judgment against the city. The case resulted after an accident on Frederick Street Extended April 7 caused by a defect in the street. Thomas B. Finan was Klein's attorney.

A tax refund of $4.47 was ordered to the John Frederick Laing heirs, Route 2, Williams Road.

Mayors To Meet Thursday For Water Discussion

Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing has called a meeting of the mayors and town councilmen of Barton and Midland with officials of his own community for Thursday night at 7:30 in Lonaconing to discuss the critical water shortage in that section.

Mayor Alexander said that George L. Hall, chief engineer for the Maryland State Department of Health, and Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, will attend the session. Also expected to attend will be Dr. William E. Moseley, chairman of the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission.

The various officials will hear Hall explain what can be done to alleviate the current situation and what would be possible for the future needs of the three communities.

It is believed that either state or federal funds could be secured for an engineering survey of the area to determine what water system would be best for the towns individually or in a consolidated project.

Mayor Alexander said the current water shortage points up a situation which has plagued the town of Lonaconing for many years. Something will have to be done to prevent a repetition of the condition.

Mayor Alexander also said Sunday's rainfall helped as far as the dry condition of lawns and woodland areas was concerned, but did little towards improving the water situation. The prolonged lack of rain has dried up springs which have not failed in many years.

City Declares War On Termites

Termites are damaging the wooden joists of the Girl Scout House on Greene Street and the city has asked the Hygienic Sanitation Company to begin extermination work this week, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

The main supporting joists are being damaged by the termites which infest the building, Mrs. Roeder said. Cost of the extermination work will be $335 and this provides for a five-year inspection period.

Mrs. Roeder also announced that a survey is also being planned for City Hall, which is also infested with termites. This work will probably be much more expensive and will be included in next year's levy, she added.

There are 20 pounds of sheet steel in the average 16-gallon ashcan.

Five Dead Sailors To Be Sent Home

Navy uniforms and other military paraphernalia for two of five sailors killed Saturday in a car-truck crash near Romney, W. Va., were flown here yesterday from Washington.

The bodies of George A. Bischoff, of Pittsburgh, and Millard F. Blood, 17, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., were sent to their residences from the George Funeral Home.

The other three victims were taken to the Thrush Funeral Home, Romney, pending arrangements by Naval authorities.

Officers of the Naval Air Station at Norfolk, Va., where the quintet was assigned, came here Saturday night to probe the collision. Results of the investigation were not disclosed.

Do you know that beer—all beer—is 87% water? It is. That's why what water goes into beer is so important.

Naturally we want to make the finest, mellowest beer we can. Naturally we buy the best malt, hops, and yeast that money buys. And in the $1,000,000 Cumberland Brewery, OLD EXPORT is slowly, carefully brewed by brewmasters who are experts at the old-time art. Then OLD EXPORT is richly mellowed by aging in our vast cellars.

But there's something else—something money can't buy, that goes into OLD EXPORT to give it the famous tangy taste that's made it tops for half a century. And that important thing is mountain water—taste and find out for yourself—MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE!

48 years ago he built his brewery in the mountains

The Founder of the Cumberland Brewery was an old-time brewmaster—he knew that the water that goes into beer makes all the difference—that's why, in 1890, he went to Cumberland in the Alleghanies to found this brewery. And that's why OLD EXPORT has been a standout favorite ever since. Mountain water makes the difference.

To you folks who made 1951 the biggest year in our history, we say "Thank You!"

Do you know that beer—all beer—is 87% water? It is. That's why what water goes into beer is so important.

Naturally we want to make the finest, mellowest beer we can. Naturally we buy the best malt, hops, and yeast that money buys. And in the $1,000,000 Cumberland Brewery, OLD EXPORT is slowly, carefully brewed by brewmasters who are experts at the old-time art. Then OLD EXPORT is richly mellowed by aging in our vast cellars.

But there's something else—something money can't buy, that goes into OLD EXPORT to give it the famous tangy taste that's made it tops for half a century. And that important thing is mountain water—taste and find out for yourself—MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE!

48 years ago he built his brewery in the mountains

The Founder of the Cumberland Brewery was an old-time brewmaster—he knew that the water that goes into beer makes all the difference—that's why, in 1890, he went to Cumberland in the Alleghanies to found this brewery. And that's why OLD EXPORT has been a standout favorite ever since. Mountain water makes the difference.

It costs no more to give yourself the best of It

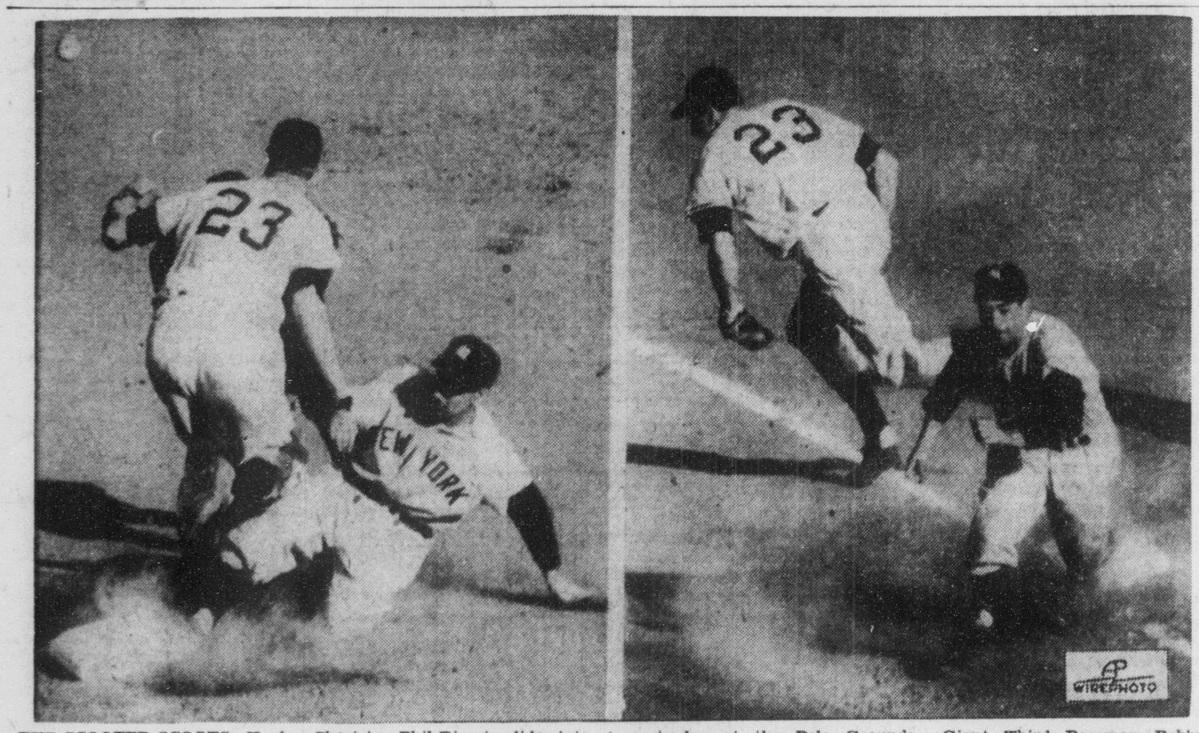
Lopat Slated To Oppose Jansen In Critical Fifth Game



THE SCOOTER SCOOTS—Yankee Shortstop Phil Rizzuto slides into third (left), recovers, and heads for home to score after Eddie Stanky's pickoff relay hit him on head and bounded toward the third base boxes in the 7th inning of the 4th game of the World Series yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Giant Third Baseman Bobby Thomson (23) chases the ball which was charged to Stanky as an error. Allie Reynolds allowed eight hits as the Yanks won 6 to 2 to even the series at two wins each.

Laurel Track Plans To Open As Scheduled

Mutuel Workers Put Pickets At Gates

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—Laurel race track went ahead today with plans to open as scheduled Wednesday despite picketing by a union claiming to represent a majority of mutuel employes.

Workmen from the telephone company refused today to cross the picket lines.

There was a difference of statements on the reason for the picketing by the Baltimore Federation of Labor (AFL).

Edward Johns, executive secretary of the union, said it was because management wanted the ticket sellers and cashiers to sign an employment form containing a no-strike clause.

"The matter is a jurisdictional dispute between two unions," countered John D. Schapiro, track president.

The track recently signed its first contract covering mutuel workers with the independent association of pari-mutuel employes. The AFL protested the signing, claiming it represented a majority.

Schapiro, after a meeting today with AFL representatives, said "we feel we should recognize the union which has the majority of our employes on its rolls—the independent association.

"This is, however, an open shop contract. Others are still eligible to work, union or non-union. We told AFL representatives we would be glad to submit the matter to a vote at the expiration of the year's contract with the independent group at the end of our fall meeting in 1952."

Laurel's meeting opening Wednesday is for 14 days.

Only a few pickets were at each of Laurel's five entrance gates today. A union spokesman promised "we'll have it solid by Wednesday."

The driver of a telephone company truck turned away after finding pickets at every gate. Asked if he would try to drive in, he replied "it's a union, isn't it" and drove away.

The pay scale for mutuel employes now is $13 a day for cashiers, $12 for ticket sellers and $10 for checkers.

The AFL spokesman said wages are not the immediate issue.

"We represent the majority," he maintained. "We want recognition of that basis and also some improvements in working conditions."

The independent association has signed a contract with Pimlico as well as Laurel. Pimlico is to operate after Laurel.

ROGERS HORNSBY

Rogers Hornsby Signs To Manage St. Louis Browns

Former NL Swat King Gets 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby today signed a three-year contract as manager of the St. Louis Browns and immediately declared "there'll be some changes made."

And one of the many changes will be "no more clowning."

"I take my baseball seriously and if my club is getting beat, I don't want anybody laughing at some clown," said Hornsby.

Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest hitters a quarter of a century ago, was non-committal about the likelihood of trading Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winning pitcher. Garver is considered the only Brownie who would attract big offers from other clubs. All of the leading American League clubs would give plenty for him.

"Maybe we don't have much other trading material," said the Rajah, 'but maybe the other clubs don't either. We'll do the best we can and I guarantee we'll play interesting baseball."

This will be Hornsby's second term as boss of the St. Louis Browns, his last big league managers job. He piloted the Browns from 1933 through part of 1937. He guided Seattle to the Pacific Coast League pennant during the past season.

Before going to Seattle last winter, Hornsby, a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, managed the Beaumont (Tex) Club to a Texas League pennant in 1950. He was a television commentator for the Chicago Cubs in 1949 and operated a baseball school for the Chicago Daily News for four years.

Hornsby reportedly has had several big league offers. Bill Veeck, new owner of the Browns has been after him for some time.

"He'll be in complete charge of the club," said Veeck. "He's the man I wanted all along and I waited six months to get his signature on a contract."

One of baseball's all-time greats, Hornsby, a second baseman, has been with the St. Louis Cards, the New York Giants, and Chicago Cubs as well as the Browns. He was player-manager of the Cards in 1925 and in 1926 led the Cards to the pennant.

He began his major league career in 1915, won the National League batting title six times in a row, and hit an amazing .424 in 1924.

Hornsby succeeds Zach Taylor as manager. Taylor has been promised a job in the Browns' organization but has not indicated whether he will accept.

Yankees Equal Double Play Record In Knotting Series; Reynolds And DiMaggio Star

Sal Maglie Loses, 6-2; Dark Hits 3 Doubles; Clipper Poles Homer

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(AP)—Revived by a heaven-sent day of rest, the Yankees came back behind Allie Reynolds' fine pitching today to batter the Giants, 6 to 2., and tie the world series up at two victories apiece.

Reynolds, knocked from the box in the opener, was a different pitcher today. He limited the National Leaguers to eight hits, three of them doubles by Capt. Alvin Dark, and was in charge all the way.

Joe DiMaggio, the ageing Clipper, snapped out of his series slump to hammer a mighty two-run homer into the second deck at the Polo Grounds, hastening the demise of Sal Maglie, Giants' 23-game winner, and giving the crowd of 49,010 its biggest thrill of the one-sided exhibition.

Only once did Reynolds give Bomber fans a few fleeting moments of worry. That was in the ninth chapter when he permitted the first two Giants to reach base and Bobby Thomson singled one of them across with only one away.

Tie Double Play Mark

But that, unfortunately, brought up youthful Willie Mays, the Giants' negro centerfielder from Alabama, who previously had rapped into two double plays to stifle potential rallies. Willie did it again, and the game was over. Four twin killings ripped off by the Yank infield tied the world series record and chilled the Giants.

Maglie, whom Leo Durocher had figured to handcuff the American Leaguers and shoot his club into an unbeatable 3-1 lead, didn't have his usual mastery and departed for a pinchhitter after the Yanks had taken a 4-1 advantage on DiMaggio's blow in the fifth. Sheldon Jones was the victim of two more unearned tallies in the three innings he worked, but Montia Kennedy held the winners tightly in check in the ninth. By then it was much too late.

So, instead of going into tomorrow's fifth contest on their home lot with a firm grip on the winners' share of what will be a record world series split, Durocher's miracle boys must face Eddie Lopat, their southpaw tormentor of the second game, on dead even terms.

But for yesterday's day long rain which made the outfield a marsh, Casey Stengel would have been forced to go today with Tom Morgan, a rookie, instead of Reynolds, one of his top aces. However, in view of Maglie's failure to hold the Bombers, it was far from a certainty that the Yanks would not have won anyway. Morgan did some sharp flinging during the season.

No matter what happens tomorrow, the rich playoff now is bound to go back to the Yankee Stadium on Wednesday for the sixth contest and the seventh, if it is necessary to reach a decision. The world champions will have the advantage of finishing on their home soil.

It was plain from the very start today that Maglie, with an unaccounted four days rest since the playoff with Brooklyn, was not at his best. He was missing the corners with his surves, and he was forced to toss 25 pitches before he retired the Yanks in the first frame—a heavy expenditure of energy.

Dark Gets Three Doubles

When the Yanks got a run across in the second inning to tie the count at 1-1 and then forged ahead with another in the fourth by rapping two singles around a walk, it was obvious that the Giants were in trouble. By that time Reynolds had settled down from an uncertain first frame and was spinning magic.

The Giants had chalked up one in the opener on the first of Dark's three straight doubles and Monte Irvin's ground single into left. That was all they were to do to Reynolds until their brief but abortive explosion in the ninth.

Now and then the Polo Grounders threatened to get to Allie, but he never failed to have the answer. Either he blew a third strike past the batter or the unhappy Willie Mays came up at an inopportune time.

From the second inning through the eighth, the Giants collected only four hits, two of them Dark's doubles. In that stretch, seven of them went down on strikeouts. The husky Indian who hurled two no-hitters during the season, was out there to make up for his failure in the series' opener, and he was something to watch.

Larry Jansen, who lost a heartbreaker to Lopat's brilliant effort in the second game at the stadium, must again try his luck against the "nothing ball" lefthander tomorrow. It is not a heartening prospect for any pitcher, but if there is a man on Durocher's staff who figures to get the destiny boys back on the victory rail at this point it is the cool righthander from Forest Grove, Ore.

Detroit Lions Trounce Yanks

Doak Walker Gets 19 Points In 37-10 Win

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (INS) — The Detroit Lions tightened their grip on first place in the National Football Conference tonight with a 37 to 10 victory over the New York Yankees in Detroit.

The much beaten Yanks made it an interesting game for the crowd of 25,554 until they ran out of gas in the final period. Leading 17 to 10 when the quarter opened, the Lions ran up 20 more points.

Doak Walker tallied two touchdowns on passes from Bobby Layne, kicked a field goal and four points after touchdown for a total of 19 points.

Veteran fullback Pat Harder also scored two touchdowns, one on a pass from Layne who also hit Bob Hoerschmeyer with a six-pointer.

The Yonks scored on Harvey Johnson's 28-yard field goal and a 40-yard pass, Johnny Rauch to the fleet Buddy Young. Johnson converted.

During his record 56-game batting streak of 1941, Joe DiMaggio tagged 43 different pitchers for one or more hits apiece.

Federal Grand Jury Probes Pro Boxing In N. Y.

Fighters, Managers Called As Witnesses

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS) — A federal grand jury launched a monopoly investigation of professional boxing today in New York, headquarters of the International Boxing Club and focal point of the ring sport in the United States.

It was indicated that many fighters and managers, as well as such past ring champions as Joe Louis, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey will be called upon as witnesses.

The inquiry seeks to determine whether big boxing clubs in major cities, particularly those controlled by the IBC, have been freezing out small independent promoters and forcing fighters to make unsatisfactory agreements in order to get bouts.

Nat Fleischer, publisher of Ring Magazine; John Grombach, co-manager of French middleweight Laurent Dauthuille, and Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, were heard today.

Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, are expected to appear tomorrow.

Justice Department spokesmen in Washington said the investigation was begun because of "numerous complaints." Several congressmen recently have called for a probe of alleged monopolistic practices.

Much of the protest centered about the so-called "freeze out" of light heavyweight Harry Matthews of Seattle, Wash., who was passed over as a title opponent for champion Joey Maxim although listed as the logical contender.

Legislator Says Coach Should Take Blame In Scandal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(INS)—Rep. Auchincloss (R) N. J., today urged "a thorough overhauling" of West Point athletics and said "scandal will again appear" if Earl "Red" Blaik is kept as coach.

The congressman did not mention Blaik directly but he criticized modern football in general as being overemphasized. Auchincloss said:

"It is the coach's business, but it is also his responsibility, and if scandal rears its ugly head in his domain, he should take the blame.

"The present head football coach and athletic director at West Point built up such a system in order to win games and to enjoy an unbeatable reputation.

"If that kind of leadership in athletics is retained there, scandal will again appear and those responsible for his retention will alone be to blame."

Soccer League Teams Play Four Contests Today

Barton High will try to make it two in a row when it tackles Beall High School today at Frostburg. Beall will also be gunning for win No. 2 after beating Flintstone, 2-0.

Cecil Warnick will officiate at Lonaconing and Ed Thompson will be the referee at Frostburg.

Two games also are billed in the Garrett County High School League today.

Accident High (4-0-0) plays host to Grantsville (2-1-0) and Friendsville (0-3-1) visits Oakland (1-1-2).

La Starza's Opponent Declared Unsuitable

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The State Athletic Commission today ruled Ted Calaman of Philadelphia to be "an unsuitable opponent" for heavyweight contender Roland La Starza and advised the International Boxing Club to get another boxer. Calaman was knocked out in his last fight.

The I. B. C. had signed La Starza and Calaman for a ten round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena, Oct. 19.

Three Golfers Tied For Lead At Kansas City

Middlecoff, Douglas And Ford In Playoff

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mixture of sand trap trouble and a short putt on the final hole landed three players — Cary Middlecoff, Dave Douglas and Dave Ford—in a tie for first place in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament at the end of the scheduled 72 holes today.

All three players had 72-hole scores of 278 over the 6,500-yard, par 72 Milburn Country Club course. They will tangle in an 18-hole playoff for the top prize money tomorrow.

Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn. dentist who won the U. S. Open in 1949 and who had been first in five major tournaments this year, appeared to have this one in the bag until his approach to the 72nd hole landed in a sand trap at the right of the green.

The doctor's first blast failed to get him out of the sand. His second carried into the fringe over the green and he settled for a six, one-over-par.

Douglas, of Newark, Del., who hasn't won a major tournament since the 1949 Texas Open, hit the same trap but blasted to within 15 feet of the pin and needed to hole out to win the $2,600 first prize. His uphill putt stopped a turn of the ball short of victory.

Ford, of Harrison, N. Y., approached on the green 20 feet from the pin. His putt was two feet to the right of the cup and he holed out to get into the playoff.

Two rounds were played on the still wet Milburn Course today after washouts of Friday and Saturday competition.

Middlecoff posted rounds of 72 and 71, Douglas 69-75 and Ford 71-75.

Skee Riegel of Tulsa and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., finished in a tie for fourth and fifth places with 280s and each collected $1,100. Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., was next with 281 for $800.

Charles And Layne End Heavy Training

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Rex Layne, young hopeful from Salt Lake City, tapered off heavy training today for their Wednesday night 12-round bout at Forbes Field.

Both camps said only light drills and calisthenics remain on tap. Charles came to Pittsburgh from his Cincinnati home over the weekend and had one hard workout here.

Layne, one of the serious title contenders, boxed two rounds in his final workout after a full day of rest.

Co-promoter Jack McGinley said he expects a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 unless the weather turns bad.

Mickey Out Of Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee rookie right fielder injured in the second game of the world series, is still in the Lennox Hill Hospital and definitely will not see any more action against the New York Giants.

Mantle injured his knee when he apparently stepped into a small hole while going after Willie Mays' fly, which Joe DiMaggio caught.

"We A'int Losing," Berra Declares, When Told Winners Get $7,000 Each

"We're Hitting Now," Casey Stengel Says

BY PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(INS)—The Yanks were a joyous gang in their clubhouse after evening the series with the Giants at two-all today.

Jerry Coleman delayed his shower while he figured out the winner's share for each of them.

"If the receipts are a little over half a million I figure each of us will get close to $7,000," said Jerry.

Somebody suggested they might have to settle for the losers' end and Yogi Berra hit him with a wet towel.

"We ain't losing," said Yogi firmly.

Manager Casey Stengel chipped in with his bit: "We looked like the Yanks for the first time today. I'd begun to wonder if this was the same club I'd been managing all year.

"Time's getting awful short and somebody's got to take four pretty soon and I figure that will be us, now that Big Joe has begun to hit."

Big Joe, of course, is DiMaggio, who thrilled the crowd when he belted one of Sal Maglie's curve balls deep into the left field stands.

"I knew it was a homer all the way," said Joe. "I felt right for the first time today and the pitchers weren't making a chump out of me with that breaking stuff."

Casey shouted: "Ed Lopat tomorrow, boys, and I don't care who they pitch. We're hitting now."

Little Phil Rizzuto, who was hit by a pitched ball Saturday and kicked on the wrist by Eddie Stanky, and who was hit on the back of the head by a ball thrown by Stanky today, grinned ruefully, rubbed his sore noggin, and said:

"I'm beginning to believe that guy Stanky doesn't like me."

Reynolds said he was much faster today than he was when the Giants beat him in the opener and several of the Yanks—Berra, DiMaggio, Woodling and Brown—said Jansen, whom they must face tomorrow, is the toughest of all the Giant pitchers they've seen.

Sal Maglie Gave One Of His Worst Performances, Wes Westrum Opines

Irvin Thought Allie Faster 2nd Time Out

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Their ace got trumped and that was that for the Giants today.

Sol "The Barber" Maglie didn't have it and neither did his teammates in the fourth game of the series.

"It was just one of those bad days," Maglie said.

"My curve ball wasn't breaking right.

"DiMaggio hit a fast ball for his single and his homer came on a low inside curve ball."

Catcher Wes Westrum said the 23-game winning righthande: didn't have any control to speak of.

"It was one of his (Maglie's) worst performances of the year," Wes declared.

Manager Leo Durocher spoke along the same lines.

"Maglie wasn't getting the ball where he wanted to. He was behind everybody.

"Reynolds had good stuff today but I think we could have gotten him out of there in the ninth inning if Whitey Lockman hadn't swung at a bad pitch. Lockman swung at one even with his cap.

"It would have been ball four . . . the bases would be loaded. Thomson hits down the line and Reynolds is gone."

Asked if Maglie will be used in the bullpen tomorrow and the next day, Leo replied:

"I go day by day."

"It'll be Jansen tomorrow and Koslo the next day. We'll see what happens."

Monte Irvin, who has made six hits in the series off Reynolds said he thought the super chief was "faster today than he was the first time I faced him."

Willie Mays, who bounced into three double plays, answered critics who suggested that he might be nervous under all the pressure.

"I'm not nervous," the 20-year-old rookie insisted.

"They said the same thing when I first came up and wasn't hitting. But I'm not nervous and not worried."

It was quiet but not gloomy in the loser's clubhouse. The Giants have been taking both their wins and losses in the series on the same, almost silent note.

But today, even the few renegade "let 'er rip" victory shouts were missing.

Lopat Slated To Oppose Jansen In Critical Fifth Game

THE SCOOTER SCOOTS—Yankee Shortstop Phil Rizzuto slides into third (left), recovers, and heads for home to score after Eddie Stanky's pickoff relay hit him on head and bounded toward the third base boxes in the 7th inning of the 4th game of the World Series yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Giant Third Baseman Bobby Thomson (23) chases the ball which was charged to Stanky as an error. Allie Reynolds allowed eight hits as the Yanks won 6 to 2 to even the series at two wins each.

Laurel Track Plans To Open As Scheduled

Mutuel Workers Put Pickets At Gates

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—Laurel race track went ahead today with plans to open as scheduled Wednesday despite picketing by a union claiming to represent a majority of mutuel employes.

Workmen from the telephone company refused today to cross the picket lines.

There was a difference of statements on the reason for the picketing by the Baltimore Federation of Labor (AFL).

Edward Johns, executive secretary of the union, said it was because management wanted the ticket sellers and cashiers to sign an employment form containing a no-strike clause.

"The matter is a jurisdictional dispute between two unions," countered John D. Schapiro, track president.

The track recently signed its first contract covering mutuel workers with the independent association of pari-mutuel employes. The AFL protested the signing, claiming it represented a majority.

Schapiro, after a meeting today with AFL representatives, said "we feel we should recognize the union which has the majority of our employes on its rolls—the independent association.

"This is, however, an open shop contract. Others are still eligible to work, union or non-union. We told AFL representatives we would be glad to submit the matter to a vote at the expiration of the year's contract with the independent group at the end of our fall meeting in 1952."

Laurel's meeting opening Wednesday is for 14 days.

Only a few pickets were at each of Laurel's five entrance gates today. A union spokesman promised "we'll have it solid by Wednesday."

The driver of a telephone company truck turned away after finding pickets at every gate. Asked if he would try to drive in, he replied "it's a union, isn't it" and drove away.

The pay scale for mutuel employes now is $13 a day for cashiers, $12 for ticket sellers and $10 for checkers.

The AFL spokesman said wages are not the immediate issue.

"We represent the majority," he maintained. "We want recognition of that basis and also some improvements in working conditions."

The independent association has signed a contract with Pimlico as well as Laurel. Pimlico is to operate after Laurel.

ROGERS HORNSBY

Rogers Hornsby Signs To Manage St. Louis Browns

Former NL Swat King Gets 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby today signed a three-year contract as manager of the St. Louis Browns and immediately declared "there'll be some changes made."

And one of the many changes will be "no more clowning."

"I take my baseball seriously and if my club is getting beat, I don't want anybody laughing at some clown," said Hornsby.

Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest hitters a quarter of a century ago, was non-committal about the likelihood of trading Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winning pitcher. Garver is considered the only Brownie who would attract big offers from other clubs. All of the leading American League clubs would give plenty for him.

"Maybe we don't have much other trading material," said the Rajah, 'but maybe the other clubs don't either. We'll do the best we can and I guarantee we'll play interesting baseball."

This will be Hornsby's second term as boss of the St. Louis Browns, his last big league managers job. He piloted the Browns from 1933 through part of 1937. He guided Seattle to the Pacific Coast League pennant during the past season.

Before going to Seattle last winter, Hornsby, a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, managed the Beaumont (Tex) Club to a Texas League pennant in 1950. He was a television commentator for the Chicago Cubs in 1949 and operated a baseball school for the Chicago Daily News for four years.

Hornsby reportedly has had several big league offers. Bill Veeck, new owner of the Browns has been after him for some time.

"He'll be in complete charge of the club," said Veeck. "He's the man I wanted all along and I waited six months to get his signature on a contract."

One of baseball's all-time greats, Hornsby, a second baseman, has been with the St. Louis Cards, the New York Giants, and Chicago Cubs as well as the Browns. He was player-manager of the Cards in 1925 and in 1926 led the Cards to the pennant.

He began his major league career in 1915, won the National League batting title six times in a row, and hit an amazing .424 in 1924.

Hornsby succeeds Zach Taylor as manager. Taylor has been promised a job in the Browns' organization but has not indicated whether he will accept.

Yankees Equal Double Play Record In Knotting Series; Reynolds And DiMaggio Star

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(AP)—Revived by a heaven-sent day of rest, the Yankees came back behind Allie Reynolds' fine pitching today to batter the Giants, 6 to 2., and tie the world series up at two victories apiece.

Reynolds, knocked from the box in the opener, was a different pitcher today. He limited the National Leaguers to eight hits, three of them doubles by Capt. Alvin Dark, and was in charge all the way.

Joe DiMaggio, the ageing Clipper, snapped out of his series slump to hammer a mighty two-run homer into the second deck at the Polo Grounds, hastening the demise of Sal Maglie, Giants' 23-game winner, and giving the crowd of 49,010 its biggest thrill of the one-sided exhibition.

Only once did Reynolds give Bomber fans a few fleeting moments of worry. That was in the ninth chapter when he permitted the first two Giants to reach base and Bobby Thomson singled one of them across with only one away.

Tie Double Play Mark

But that, unfortunately, brought up youthful Willie Mays, the Giants' negro centerfielder from Alabama, who previously had rapped into two double plays to stifle potential rallies. Willie did it again, and the game was over. Four twin killings ripped off by the Yank infield tied the world series record and chilled the Giants.

Maglie, whom Leo Durocher had figured to handcuff the American Leaguers and shoot his club into an unbeatable 3-1 lead, didn't have his usual mastery and departed for a pinchhitter after the Yanks had taken a 4-1 advantage on DiMaggio's blow in the fifth. Sheldon Jones was the victim of two more unearned tallies in the three innings he worked, but Montia Kennedy held the winners tightly in check in the ninth. By then it was much too late.

So, instead of going into tomorrow's fifth contest on their home lot with a firm grip on the winners' share of what will be a record world series split, Durocher's miracle boys must face Eddie Lopat, their southpaw tormentor of the second game, on dead even terms.

But for yesterday's day long rain which made the outfield a marsh, Casey Stengel would have been forced to go today with Tom Morgan, a rookie, instead of Reynolds, one of his top aces. However, in view of Maglie's failure to hold the Bombers, it was far from a certainty that the Yanks would not have won anyway. Morgan did some sharp flinging during the season.

No matter what happens tomorrow, the rich playoff now is bound to go back to the Yankee Stadium on Wednesday for the sixth contest and the seventh, if it is necessary to reach a decision. The world champions will have the advantage of finishing on their home soil.

It was plain from the very start today that Maglie, with an unaccounted four days rest since the playoff with Brooklyn, was not at his best. He was missing the corners with his surves, and he was forced to toss 25 pitches before he retired the Yanks in the first frame—a heavy expenditure of energy.

Dark Gets Three Doubles

When the Yanks got a run across in the second inning to tie the count at 1-1 and then forged ahead with another in the fourth by rapping two singles around a walk, it was obvious that the Giants were in trouble. By that time Reynolds had settled down from an uncertain first frame and was spinning magic.

The Giants had chalked up one in the opener on the first of Dark's three straight doubles and Monte Irvin's ground single into left. That was all they were to do to Reynolds until their brief but abortive explosion in the ninth.

Now and then the Polo Grounders threatened to get to Allie, but he never failed to have the answer. Either he blew a third strike past the batter or the unhappy Willie Mays came up at an inopportune time.

From the second inning through the eighth, the Giants collected only four hits, two of them Dark's doubles. In that stretch, seven of them went down on strikeouts. The husky Indian who hurled two no-hitters during the season, was out there to make up for his failure in the series' opener, and he was something to watch.

Larry Jansen, who lost a heartbreaker to Lopat's brilliant effort in the second game at the stadium, must again try his luck against the "nothing ball" lefthander tomorrow. It is not a heartening prospect for any pitcher, but if there is a man on Durocher's staff who figures to get the destiny boys back on the victory rail at this point it is the cool righthander from Forest Grove, Ore.

Detroit Lions Trounce Yanks

Doak Walker Gets 19 Points In 37-10 Win

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (INS) — The Detroit Lions tightened their grip on first place in the National Football Conference tonight with a 37 to 10 victory over the New York Yankees in Detroit.

The much beaten Yanks made it an interesting game for the crowd of 25,554 until they ran out of gas in the final period. Leading 17 to 10 when the quarter opened, the Lions ran up 20 more points.

Doak Walker tallied two touchdowns on passes from Bobby Layne, kicked a field goal and four points after touchdown for a total of 19 points.

Veteran fullback Pat Harder also scored two touchdowns, one on a pass from Layne who also hit Bob Hoerschmeyer with a six-pointer.

The Yonks scored on Harvey Johnson's 28-yard field goal and a 40-yard pass, Johnny Rauch to the fleet Buddy Young. Johnson converted.

During his record 56-game batting streak of 1941, Joe DiMaggio tagged 43 different pitchers for one or more hits apiece.

Federal Grand Jury Probes Pro Boxing In N. Y.

Fighters, Managers Called As Witnesses

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS) — A federal grand jury launched a monopoly investigation of professional boxing today in New York, headquarters of the International Boxing Club and focal point of the ring sport in the United States.

It was indicated that many fighters and managers, as well as such past ring champions as Joe Louis, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey will be called upon as witnesses.

The inquiry seeks to determine whether big boxing clubs in major cities, particularly those controlled by the IBC, have been freezing out small independent promoters and forcing fighters to make unsatisfactory agreements in order to get bouts.

Nat Fleischer, publisher of Ring Magazine; John Grombach, co-manager of French middleweight Laurent Dauthuille, and Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, were heard today.

Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, are expected to appear tomorrow.

Justice Department spokesmen in Washington said the investigation was begun because of "numerous complaints." Several congressmen recently have called for a probe of alleged monopolistic practices.

Much of the protest centered about the so-called "freeze out" of light heavyweight Harry Matthews of Seattle, Wash., who was passed over as a title opponent for champion Joey Maxim although listed as the logical contender.

Legislator Says Coach Should Take Blame In Scandal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(INS)—Rep. Auchincloss (R) N. J., today urged "a thorough overhauling" of West Point athletics and said "scandal will again appear" if Earl "Red" Blaik is kept as coach.

The congressman did not mention Blaik directly but he criticized modern football in general as being overemphasized. Auchincloss said:

"It is the coach's business, but it is also his responsibility, and if scandal rears its ugly head in his domain, he should take the blame.

"The present head football coach and athletic director at West Point built up such a system in order to win games and to enjoy an unbeatable reputation.

"If that kind of leadership in athletics is retained there, scandal will again appear and those responsible for his retention will alone be to blame."

Three Golfers Tied For Lead At Kansas City

Middlecoff, Douglas And Ford In Playoff

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mixture of sand trap trouble and a short putt on the final hole landed three players — Cary Middlecoff, Dave Douglas and Dave Ford—in a tie for first place in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament at the end of the scheduled 72 holes today.

All three players had 72-hole scores of 278 over the 6,500-yard, par 72 Milburn Country Club course. They will tangle in an 18-hole playoff for the top prize money tomorrow.

Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn. dentist who won the U. S. Open in 1949 and who had been first in five major tournaments this year, appeared to have this one in the bag until his approach to the 72nd hole landed in a sand trap at the right of the green.

The doctor's first blast failed to get him out of the sand. His second carried into the fringe over the green and he settled for a six, one-over-par.

Douglas, of Newark, Del., who hasn't won a major tournament since the 1949 Texas Open, hit the same trap but blasted to within 15 feet of the pin and needed to hole out to win the $2,600 first prize. His uphill putt stopped a turn of the ball short of victory.

Ford, of Harrison, N. Y., approached on the green 20 feet from the pin. His putt was two feet to the right of the cup and he holed out to get into the playoff.

Two rounds were played on the still wet Milburn Course today after washouts of Friday and Saturday competition.

Middlecoff posted rounds of 72 and 71, Douglas 69-75 and Ford 71-75.

Skee Riegel of Tulsa and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., finished in a tie for fourth and fifth places with 280s and each collected $1,100. Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., was next with 281 for $800.

Charles And Layne End Heavy Training

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Rex Layne, young hopeful from Salt Lake City, tapered off heavy training today for their Wednesday night 12-round bout at Forbes Field.

Both camps said only light drills and calisthenics remain on tap. Charles came to Pittsburgh from his Cincinnati home over the weekend and had one hard workout here.

Layne, one of the serious title contenders, boxed two rounds in his final workout after a full day of rest.

Co-promoter Jack McGinley said he expects a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 unless the weather turns bad.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

Giants: Thomson walked on five pitches. Mays hit into a double play, Reynolds to Rizzuto to Collins. Westrum walked. Jack Lohrke, a righthanded hitter, batted for Maglie and popped to McDougald. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Mickey Out Of Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee rookie right fielder injured in the second game of the world series, is still in the Lennox Hill Hospital and definitely will not see any more action against the New York Giants.

Mantle injured his knee when he apparently stepped into a small hole while going after Willie Mays' fly, which Joe DiMaggio caught.

Sal Maglie Gave One Of His Worst Performances, Wes Westrum Opines

Irvin Thought Allie Faster 2nd Time Out

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Their ace got trumped and that was that for the Giants today.

Sol "The Barber" Maglie didn't have it and neither did his teammates in the fourth game of the series.

"It was just one of those bad days," Maglie said.

"My curve ball wasn't breaking right.

"DiMaggio hit a fast ball for his single and his homer came on a low inside curve ball."

Catcher Wes Westrum said the 23-game winning righthande: didn't have any control to speak of.

"It was one of his (Maglie's) worst performances of the year," Wes declared.

Manager Leo Durocher spoke along the same lines.

"Maglie wasn't getting the ball where he wanted to. He was behind everybody.

"Reynolds had good stuff today but I think we could have gotten him out of there in the ninth inning if Whitey Lockman hadn't swung at a bad pitch. Lockman swung at one even with his cap.

"It would have been ball four . . . the bases would be loaded. Thomson hits down the line and Reynolds is gone."

Asked if Maglie will be used in the bullpen tomorrow and the next day, Leo replied:

"I go day by day."

"It'll be Jansen tomorrow and Koslo the next day. We'll see what happens."

Monte Irvin, who has made six hits in the series off Reynolds said he thought the super chief was "faster today than he was the first time I faced him."

Willie Mays, who bounced into three double plays, answered critics who suggested that he might be nervous under all the pressure.

"I'm not nervous," the 20-year-old rookie insisted.

"They said the same thing when I first came up and wasn't hitting. But I'm not nervous and not worried."

It was quiet but not gloomy in the loser's clubhouse. The Giants have been taking both their wins and losses in the series on the same, almost silent note.

But today, even the few renegade "let 'er rip" victory shouts were missing.

"We A'int Losing," Berra Declares, When Told Winners Get $7,000 Each

"We're Hitting Now," Casey Stengel Says

BY PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(INS)—The Yanks were a joyous gang in their clubhouse after evening the series with the Giants at two-all today.

Jerry Coleman delayed his shower while he figured out the winner's share for each of them.

"If the receipts are a little over half a million I figure each of us will get close to $7,000," said Jerry.

Somebody suggested they might have to settle for the losers' end and Yogi Berra hit him with a wet towel.

"We ain't losing," said Yogi firmly.

Manager Casey Stengel chipped in with his bit: "We looked like the Yanks for the first time today. I'd begun to wonder if this was the same club I'd been managing all year.

"Time's getting awful short and somebody's got to take four pretty soon and I figure that will be us, now that Big Joe has begun to hit."

Big Joe, of course, is DiMaggio, who thrilled the crowd when he belted one of Sal Maglie's curve balls deep into the left field stands.

"I knew it was a homer all the way," said Joe. "I felt right for the first time today and the pitchers weren't making a chump out of me with that breaking stuff."

Casey shouted: "Ed Lopat tomorrow, boys, and I don't care who they pitch. We're hitting now."

Little Phil Rizzuto, who was hit by a pitched ball Saturday and kicked on the wrist by Eddie Stanky, and who was hit on the back of the head by a ball thrown by Stanky today, grinned ruefully, rubbed his sore noggin, and said:

"I'm beginning to believe that guy Stanky doesn't like me."

Reynolds said he was much faster today than he was when the Giants beat him in the opener and several of the Yanks—Berra, DiMaggio, Woodling and Brown—said Jansen, whom they must face tomorrow, is the toughest of all the Giant pitchers they've seen.

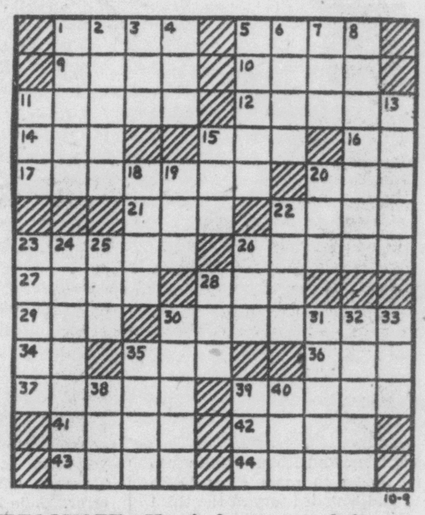
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C Z Z V O R L B U C Y Z X O F Q Y P Q Z G L-
O R T B R O F R I U W R, F R J L Z F I Z L R
K U L C Y U T, M Z L C Q R Z V O R L B R L ' O
O U W R — K Z K R.

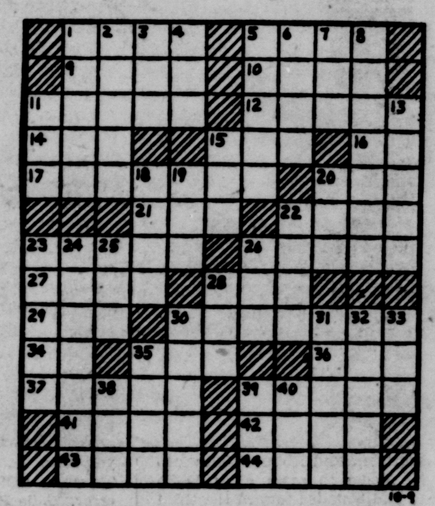
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C Z Z V O R L B U C Y Z X O F Q Y P Q Z G L-
O R T B R O F R I U W R, F R J L Z F I Z L R
K U L C Y U T, M Z L C Q R Z V O R L B R L ' O

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (INS)—Today it looks certain that Bette Davis will star in "Come Back, Little Sheba." Hal Wallis is offering as added bait a story, "Son And Stranger," which he bought with Bette in mind.

Bette Davis

"Son And Stranger" is about parents who visit their soldier son's grave in Europe and find that their body had a wife. It will be filmed in England.

One hitch in the Davis deal for "Come Back, Little Sheba" is that originally there had been negotiations with Shirley Booth, who created the role on the stage. Paramount however, is adamant in wanting a bigger movie name.

Originally, Hal had hoped to get Cary Grant for the male lead, but that's out now. Cary has commitments at 20th. What about Wendell Corey, who is a fine actor?

• — • — •

One commitment at 20th that Cary Grant is crazy to do is "The Phelomen Complex," the English play which Ann Sothern is now doing on Broadway.

It's in the cards for Cary to do this with Susan Hayward. I hear tell that Darryl Zanuck has been talking to Howard Hawkes about directing it. And that would please Cary.

You won't hear the name, "The Phelomen Complex," again, because Ann Sothern's play in this country is called "Faithfully Yours" and the 20th Century-Fox motion picture will be titled, "All In The Mind."

• — • — •

George Stevens would be plumb crazy if he didn't try to cash in quickly on the romantic team he created in "Place In The Sun." I mean, of course, Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift, whose unforgettable love scenes were only terrific.

Exhibitors from all over the country have written George to try and get a repeat on Liz and Monty, so that's what George is planning.

He is going east to talk to a certain well known novelist about doing an original love story. Then he is going to try to borrow Liz and sign up Clift. I hear William Wyler would also like to borrow Liz for "Roman Holiday."

Edmond Gwenn's performance as the lovable old man who believed he was Santa Clause in "Miracle On 34th Street" made movie history and now the great character actor is set for another such delightfully-whimsical role.

Gwenn, who is one of my favorite people, will go back to 20th Century-Fox to play a salty old seadog in "Something For The Birdies." He'll turn Washington topsyturvy and make confetti of legislative red tape when he and Anne Baxter lobby for a game sanctuary for condors.

It sounds like the sort of delicious nonsense that won Gwenn an Academy Oscar in "Miricle On 34th Street" and it could very well earn him another to match that one.

Melinda Markey is really ambitious. She got herself a job as a salesgirl with Alice Wiser. Her sister, Diane, worked for a year at Bullocks Wilshire before her marriage and their mother, Joan Benett, approves.

Dorothy Kirsten is back home with her doctor in San Antonio. She had laryngitis so badly she couldn't sing "La Tosca" in San Francisco, so Dr. Gene Chapman, her bridegroom, ordered her home.

Beverly Hudson and Eugene Baxter are making it an every night date. You may know him as Gene Wesson. He changed his name for pictures.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary yesterday. They're a credit to our whole town, this pair. Two wonderful people.

Certainly a relief to know at last Errol Flynn told somebody he is well. Seems to me he's been ailing for years.

Whatever happened to Amanda Blake's marriage to Ron Randall? I was reminded of it when I heard she was flying to St. Louis to see him in "Candidate," which stars Olivia De Havilland. The opening was on Ron's 30th birthday.

I got myself a little mixed up. It is Sidney Franklin, producer of "Young Bess," who will also produce "Three Loves" and re-make of "Goodbye Mr. Chips." I said that George Sidney was directing the above named pictures.

ers of our time is Vic Raschi, the big Yankee rightpaw. Vic looks as menacing out there on the mound as any pitcher in our memory. He plays the game up to the hilt from first pitch till last. But he's as gentle as a lamb off the field, and full of warmth born of adversity.

Raschi has a brother who is totally blind because of baseball. The brother was hit in the eye by a foul ball and the blow destroyed the retina in that eye. Several years later he was hit in the other eye by a foul, and lost his sight.

His interest in the blind is consequently keen. Once when he heard that the son of a Boston sportswriter had been born blind he sought out the writer and spent five hours with him, comforting and counselling. He barely made it to Fenway Park on time . . . to pitch an important game against the Red Sox.

Raschi has a foster child in Italy. He has never seen the boy, who lives in that part of the country when Raschi's parents emigrated. But he has paid for the surgery, false limb and general rehabilitation of the youngster, a war orphan, and will pay for his education.

The kid's name is Nino Maraschini, and Vic is proud of that name. Part of the kid's last name spells Raschi. Milt Gross once asked Raschi why he had assumed the role of foster father.

"The kid might've been me," the ballplayer said. "I just got a break and was brought to this country."

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Current fashions make a good many demands on the feminine figure: A slim hip for the rounded jackets, a neat waist to underscore the cinched-in look of everything, a sleek diaphragm and molded bosom to go with the close-fitted torso effects.

Few are the figures that can meet this last specification. If you measure a "perfect" 34 or 36B, you have no worries, but such ideal proportions are rare.

Dictated by Fashion

Aware of this, brassiere designers have contrived new control features to enhance such figures in the new snup-top fashions.

Built-in padding offers extra curves to the small figure. For the large woman, there is a new three-quarter length bra with a four-inch band. These are also suitable for the average figure when worn with a high-waisted girdle.

Long bras, always the special property of the heavy woman, are newly equipped with adjustable six-inch bands for a slicker fit with greater comfort.

New Features

Special features, some functional and some decorative, are numerous. Clever new ways of adjusting wires and stitching under cups insure more accurate fitting, more natural uplift, and greater ease. Embroidered motifs and delicate-looking but firm fabrics provide wear appeal. The latest of all innovations, bras with detachable rhinestone straps, enable you to wear a strapped bra with a baretop or very sheer after-five or formal dress!

Since 180 brands of brassieres are available in the typical American city, you should be able to find exactly what you need, whatever your individual requirements. Before you sally forth to seek your next outfit, get fitted with what it will take to wear the new styles!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does human nature need improving?

Answer: Basically, no. All it needs is a chance to develop its inherent possibilities unhampered by fear and "pressure." The essential human nature in Abraham Lincoln was no different from that in Al Capone — both sought the same basic satisfactions, even though by opposite methods, and I know no evidence to prove that anyone is inclined by inborn disposition to prefer "bad" methods to "good" ones. Whether you are thinking of yourself or of your children, there is nothing in your nature or theirs that is inherently evil —all you or they need is guidance and an opportunity to grow.

Should "criminal responsibility" be re-defined?

Answer: Yes, especially in cases of incipient psychosis or insanity, writes Dr. F. M. G. Prendergast in the Medical Journal of Australia. The century-old legal rule that a person is responsible for his crimes if he "knows what he is doing and that it is wrong" cannot be applied here, since a person who is mentally ill may know quite well what he is doing and himself feel that it is wrong, and yet be unable to control his actions. The law cannot deal intelligently with crimes as long as it persists in ignoring the fact that an otherwise sane sufferer from emotional disturbance may have "irresistible impulses."

Can mental reservations block psychiatry?

Answer: Yes. As long as there is anything about which you are determined to "keep quiet," you might as well recognize that psychiatric treatment will be able to go only so far and no farther. It is not a matter of anyone's trying to invade your privacy, but of your establishing an area in your mind in which all your most important conflicts can and will hide. A man I know who refused to tell his analyst his real name was unconsciously protecting himself from the full force of the discoveries he had made by pretending that it was not really he to whom they applied. The analysis was naturally unsuccessful.

Do FALSE TEETH Rock, Slide or Slip?

FASTEETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. FASTEETH is alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (INS)—Today it looks certain that Bette Davis will star in "Come Back, Little Sheba." Hal Wallis is offering as added bait a story, "Son And Stranger," which he bought with Bette in mind.

Bette Davis

"Son And Stranger" is about parents who visit their soldier son's grave in Europe and find that their body had a wife. It will be filmed in England.

One hitch in the Davis deal for "Come Back, Little Sheba" is that originally there had been negotiations with Shirley Booth, who created the role on the stage. Paramount however, is adamant in wanting a bigger movie name.

Originally, Hal had hoped to get Cary Grant for the male lead, but that's out now. Cary has commitments at 20th. What about Wendell Corey, who is a fine actor?

One commitment at 20th that Cary Grant is crazy to do is "The Phelomen Complex," the English play which Ann Sothern is now doing on Broadway.

It's in the cards for Cary to do this with Susan Hayward. I hear tell that Darryl Zanuck has been talking to Howard Hawkes about directing it. And that would please Cary.

You won't hear the name, "The Phelomen Complex," again, because Ann Sothern's play in this country is called "Faithfully Yours" and the 20th Century-Fox motion picture will be titled, "All In The Mind."

•—•—•

George Stevens would be plumb crazy if he didn't try to cash in quickly on the romantic team he created in "Place In The Sun." I mean, of course, Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift, whose unforgettable love scenes were only terrific.

Exhibitors from all over the country have written George to try and get a repeat on Liz and Monty, so that's what George is planning.

He is going east to talk to a certain well known novelist about doing an original love story. Then he is going to try to borrow Liz and sign up Clift. I hear William Wyler would also like to borrow Liz for "Roman Holiday."

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

The anguish over Joe DiMaggio's batting slump in the early phases of the World Series reached the far corners of the country.

Toots Shor, the boniface, received a phone call the other night from a little town in California he had never heard of. The man on the other end of the wire, 3,000 miles away, said he had been watching DiMaggio at the plate each day—television having reached another milestone—and he thought Joe's stance was wrong. He was getting his right foot over out of line, as if trying to pull the ball into left field, the man said. He was off balance and pressing.

He had other suggestions, too, which he asked Toots to relay to DiMag.

And Toots listened. For the man on the other end of the wire was something of an authority. Fellow named Ty Cobb.

• — • — •

Gen. Douglas MacArthur has followed baseball more closely and for more years than almost any fan. He can quote batting averages and records reaching back to Christy Mathewson—whom he knew as a college football player before Matty made the Giants.

The General saw Walter Johnson pitch his first game, in 1907, and was on hand when Babe Ruth made his debut as a pitcher with the Red Sox in 1914.

But this is the first World Series he has even seen. Something always interefered. Like wars.

World Series programs often are kept and guarded as souvenirs by the devout. But the one at sale for this series between the Giants and Yanks is a collector's item.

It contains a short biography of Yogi Berra, and includes this passage:

"This will be Logi's fourth World Series and his third against the Brooklyn Dodgers. Returning to competition with the Flatbush crew gives Berra an added thrill . . . etc."

There have been times during the series when it appeared that Yogi honestly believed he was playing against the Dodgers.

VARIETY OF FINISHES

AMONG the prettiest of finish-plays are those which offer a variety of moves, dependent on what the defenders do. Usually such developments come when a series of consecutive tricks by the declarer compels them to denude their hands. If they weaken themselves in one quarter, then he applies measures that fit that particular case. If they discard something else, then he goes about it in an entirely different way.

South's 5-Spades call was a neat one, based largely on his diamond fit and North's extremely strong bidding. He wound up glad he had made it and encouraged his partner to bid the small slam. But he had to work earnestly to make it.

Following the diamond 6 lead to the J, he scored four spades and three diamonds, noting East's discards of a club and two hearts on the spades and West's three hearts on the diamonds. Besides the spade 8, he now held the heart Q-2 and club 6-2, with dummy retaining the heart A-7 and club A-J-8.

When the final spade was now led, West was in trouble. With the heart K-J and club K-10-9, he felt he must keep the two hearts, so tossed a club, the K, so he could not be thrown in with it and obliged to return a heart, of course hoping East had the club Q. The heart 7 was then thrown from dummy and East discarded his heart 8, retaining the 10 and the club Q-7-5. South next led to the club A, cleared East's last heart with the A, then put East in with the club J to the Q. Poor East had left only the club 7, which he had to lead to the dummy's 8 to make the contract.

If you want some edification, lay out those last five cards of each hand and see what happens if West makes some discard other than the club K on the last spade. You will see that, no matter what he does, South can make his contract by adapting his own play to it.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

The anguish over Joe DiMaggio's batting slump in the early phases of the World Series reached the far corners of the country.

Toots Shor, the boniface, received a phone call the other night from a little town in California he had never heard of. The man on the other end of the wire, 3,000 miles away, said he had been watching DiMaggio at the plate each day—television having reached another milestone—and he thought Joe's stance was wrong. He was getting his right foot over out of line, as if trying to pull the ball into left field, the man said. He was off balance and pressing.

He had other suggestions, too, which he asked Toots to relay to DiMag.

And Toots listened. For the man on the other end of the wire was something of an authority. Fellow named Ty Cobb.

• — • — •

Gen. Douglas MacArthur has followed baseball more closely and for more years than almost any fan. He can quote batting averages and records reaching back to Christy Mathewson—whom he knew as a college football player before Matty made the Giants.

The General saw Walter Johnson pitch his first game, in 1907, and was on hand when Babe Ruth made his debut as a pitcher with the Red Sox in 1914.

But this is the first World Series he has even seen. Something always interefered. Like wars.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Mrs. Minnie Morton wishes to thank all who were so kind and thoughtful during the bereavement of our beloved mother and sister. We thank those who sent flowers, loaned cars, and helped in every way.
The Morton Family.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends, Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, for the kindness and expressions of sympathy at the death of our son, Cpl. Stanley A. Blye, Jr. Also those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral we are especially grateful.
Mr. & Mrs. Elbert S. Blye & family, Piedmont, W. Va.

In Memoriam

Johnson — In loving memory of my dear wife and our beloved mother, Stella Johnson, who passed away, October 8, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear wife and mother,
That we do not think of you.
Loving husband and children.

Market Session Indecisive; Losses Outnumber Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Losses outnumberel the gains by a slight margin on the stock exchange today in an indecisive session.

The pattern of mixed prices extended into every major group. Changes either way were fractions in most cases.

Many low - priced stocks were among the most active.

The volume hit 1,860,000 shares, compared with 2,070,000 at last Friday's previous full session, as demand spread across varying groups.

The Associated Press averages didn't reflect a wholly true picture of the market as the figure for 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $101.30, a new 21-year high. The industrial and utility categories gained 10 cents each while rails remained unchanged.

The only thing they indicated was that the averages included many of the advances. The breakdown showed 454 stocks declined while only 436 advanced among the 1,151 issues traded. There were 65 new 1951 highs and nine hit new low points.

The most active stock of the day was St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, which dropped 1⅛ at 30⅞ on a turnover of 41,300 shares.

Second most active issue was United Cigar-Whelan, which gained ⅛ as the proxy battle for control of the stores ended in a compromise.

Over one-half of the 15 most active stocks were low priced issues. Four of the 15 declined, seven advanced and four were unchanged.

As a group, mining stocks were among the stronger categories. Traders had anticipated some activity in this group, especially among the gold stocks.

Over the weekend Canada announced it would sell part of its gold production for non-monetary purposes in the world markets.

At the opening such gold mining shares as Alaska Juneau, Homestake, Dome and McIntyre all moved ahead a bit. But before the session ended McIntyre slipped into the loss column and Homestake wound up unchanged from its previous close.

You have to see this property to fully appreciate its lovely living room with draped picture window, wood-burning fireplace and hardwood floor. A master bed room—one of those "dreams," with powder room, bath, large closet and double doors opening onto patio enclosed by a newly constructed stone wall.

A second bath room, lovely combination kitchen and dinette. Garage, furnace and laundry room. Abundant supply of good water, large reservoir, plus gravity flow. Several acres of land. If you know values, you will say the price is reasonable.

Market Session Indecisive; Losses Outnumber Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Losses outnumberel the gains by a slight margin on the stock exchange today in an indecisive session.

The pattern of mixed prices extended into every major group. Changes either way were fractions in most cases.

Many low - priced stocks were among the most active.

The volume hit 1,860,000 shares, compared with 2,070,000 at last Friday's previous full session, as demand spread across varying groups.

The Associated Press averages didn't reflect a wholly true picture of the market as the figure for 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $101.30, a new 21-year high. The industrial and utility categories gained 10 cents each while rails remained unchanged.

The only thing they indicated was that the averages included many of the advances. The breakdown showed 454 stocks declined while only 436 advanced among the 1,151 issues traded. There were 65 new 1951 highs and nine hit new low points.

The most active stock of the day was St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, which dropped 1⅛ at 30⅞ on a turnover of 41,300 shares.

Second most active issue was United Cigar-Whelan, which gained ⅛ as the proxy battle for control of the stores ended in a compromise.

Over one-half of the 15 most active stocks were low priced issues. Four of the 15 declined, seven advanced and four were unchanged.

As a group, mining stocks were among the stronger categories. Traders had anticipated some activity in this group, especially among the gold stocks.

Over the weekend Canada announced it would sell part of its gold production for non-monetary purposes in the world markets.

At the opening such gold mining shares as Alaska Juneau, Homestake, Dome and McIntyre all moved ahead a bit. But before the session ended McIntyre slipped into the loss column and Homestake wound up unchanged from its previous close.

Flynn Urges Widening Of City Streets

Says More Parking Will Aid Business

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn yesterday said he favored the widening of Cumberland streets in an effort to encourage local residents and outlying district residents to shop here.

Flynn's reply followed a complaint at the meeting of the Cumberland Mayor and Council yesterday morning when restaurant owner Richard J. Diamond protested bans on parking near his place of business on North Mechanic Street after 6 p. m.

Diamond charged Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long is using dictatorial powers in enforcing new traffic regulations along the downtown streets.

Saying he was "knocked out" of $25,000 of business during the past 18 months, Diamond said he wants parking on both sides of North Mechanic Street after 6 p. m. after the peak traffic load has passed.

Meeting Set Friday

Mayor Thomas S. Post informed Diamond he thought some reply might be obtained at a Friday meeting with Commissioner Long, who was absent at yesterday's meeting.

Sympathizing with local merchants Chief Flynn said he favors a program of widening the main arteries of downtown Cumberland in an effort to alleviate the parking problem. The task before the city, Flynn added, is getting space available for residents to park in order to do their shopping.

The movement of traffic through the city is a vital factor, Flynn continued, but providing parking space for shoppers is much more necessary.

Cites Need For Funds

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said funds for the maintenance and construction of city streets are provided by the state gasoline and auto sales tax. Last years funds amounted to $58,289.87 but this was insufficient to cover a street widening program.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property said a survey on widening some streets is underway and a meeting is planned soon with the Planning Commission.

Bus Driver Is Questioned In Fatal Crash

John W. Moreland Dies In Collision

An intercity bus driver was questioned at the State's Attorney's office after a 26-year-old Franklin man died in a headon bus-car collision yesterday morning near Nikep.

Dead was John William Moreland, Franklin truck driver. Dr. H. V. Deming said he was dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, at about 7 a. m. Dr. Deming attributed death to intracranial hemorrhage caused by a skull fracture.

The bus driver, 46-year-old John Muir, Eckhart Mines, will undergo further interrogation today. No charges have been filed against him.

Says Brakes Locked

State Police Trooper First Class Timothy M. Gilmore said the accident took place at 6:15 a. m. atop a hill just north of Nikep on Route 36.

Gilmore said Muir told him he had seen a car parked on his side of the road as he approached the top of the hill.

Moreland's car approached from the opposite direction. Muir said he applied the brakes, but they locked and caused him to skid into the front of the Moreland car, pinning it against a guard rail.

One bus passenger, Mrs. Karaha McIntyre, Lonaconing, was slightly hurt. A physician treated her for a knee injury.

The front of the car was demolished, but the bus was only slightly damaged. Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company said six passengers aboard were taken to Westernport on another bus.

More Witnesses Called

Gilmore stated Moreland, father of three children, was on his way to work as a truck driver for the Cross Mining Company, Midland.

A native of Keyser, W. Va., Moreland was a son of the late Harry and Ollie Graham Moreland. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Wolfe Moreland, his children, Virginia Lee, 6; Donald, 5, and William, 4, and a sister, Mrs. Etta Nutter, McCoole.

A funeral service will be conducted at 10 a. m. Thursday at the home. Rev. William Wilkinson, pastor of Franklin Mission will officiate. Burial will be in Queen's Point Cemetery. The body will be at the home today.

The State's Attorney's office said last night more witnesses will be examined today.

Food Dealers Plan Seventh Annual Dinner

Cal D. Johnson will be guest speaker at the seventh annual dinner of the Independent Retail Food Dealer's Association of Western Maryland, October 17 at 7 p. m. in the recreation hall of St. Mary's Church.

A former congressman from Illinois, Johnson spoke at the 1951 state convention of Independent Retail Distributors of Maryland during May at Bedford Springs Hotel.

Following the dinner, a floor show is being arranged with favors for the ladies, Francis A. Warnick, president of the association, announced. Toastmaster for the dinner will be J. Goodloe Jackson, secretary.

A delegation from Baltimore led by State President John Strok and Secretary-Manager Joseph L. Manning will attend. Also planning to be here is a group from Frederick headed by Garland Guiton, president of the Frederick association. Other area delegations of the state association have been invited to attend.

Witness Stand Moved In Circuit Courtroom

The witness stand in the Circuit Court room here has been moved across the room so that witnesses will sit across the room from the jury box facing the jurors.

For the past eight years the witness stand has been located between the judge's bench and the jury box. Under this arrangement witnesses faced away from the judge when addressing the jurors and sometimes could not be heard by the presiding judge.

Robert B. Thomas, court stenographer, will move his seat from the north to the south side of the courtroom so he will continue to sit directly in front of the witness stand. Newspaper reporters will trade places with Thomas and will be seated in front of the jury box. It has been reported that a public address system may be installed so all courtroom spectators can hear the proceedings.

Korean Vets Are Treated For Malaria

Two cases of malaria have been chalked up against Allegany County but there is no cause for alarm.

Both of the cases were reported by Fort George G. Meade authorities, who said the veterans, recently returned from Korea, are undergoing treatment for the condition.

As a matter of record, they were listed as of Cumberland and Allegany County on the Maryland Health Department statistical reports, officials said.

For some months, the Public Health Service has warned physicians throughout the United States to be on guard against malaria among Korean veterans, saying cases were bound to turn up.

The September report of the City Health Department also lists one case of meningitis, two of pneumonia, seven of tuberculosis and six veneral disease cases.

Births for the month totaled 141, with 44 deaths within the city.

House Shooting Is Referred To Grand Jury

Police Fired Upon In Friday Fracas

The case of a McCoole man who is accused of wounding his son and firing on State Police who came to arrest him has been turned over to the grand jury.

The State's Attorney's Office said yesterday 64-year-old George H. House will not receive a preliminary hearing, since he was arrested during the grand jury term.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday released House under $2,000 bond for action of the grand jury. Authorities said he faces charges of assault with intent to kill.

Quarreled Over Money

House has been in jail here since Friday night. State Police said he shot and slightly wounded his son, Leroy House, after an argument with his wife.

They said House and his wife had quarreled over money early Friday night. Mrs. House fled to Leroy's home about half a mile away. They returned to her home in Leroy's car.

Police declared the elder House let loose three blasts from a repeating 12-gauge shotgun as Leroy stepped out of the car. One pellet struck the younger man in the forehead.

Leroy House was treated at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., but was released. Police said the pellet is still lodged in his forehead.

Fired At Trooper

State Police who went to the scene said George House fired three blasts at Trooper Raymond P. McGuire, who guarded the front door while other State Policemen attempted to enter the building from the rear.

McGuire returned fire, but no one was hurt in the exchange. Soon afterward, House surrendered and was brought to jail in Cumberland.

Before the argument which police said resulted in the shooting, Mrs. House had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Louise Thompson, 27, in Potomac Valley Hospital. Mrs. Thompson died Sunday night.

Youths Accused In Thefts Of Property From Mine

12 More Indictments Added To Open Docket

Three indictments against two teenage National boys accused of larceny and receiving stolen goods worth a total of $1,238 from a Klondike mine in three successive days, were among 12 new true bills placed on the open docket in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18, were indicted by the October grand jury on evidence furnished by State Trooper First Class William F. Baker.

Supplies Stolen

They were charged with stealing an assortment of supplies from Klondike Mine No. 17, owned by the Consolidated Fuel Company, March 28, 29 and 30. They were charged with stealing steel rope, steel blocks and standards, two elbows, one mining car bottom, and a piece of honeycomb-like machinery, altogether worth $542, on March 28.

In a second indictment Morgan and Leatherman were charged with stealing five mining rails and a sprocket chain, total value of $86, on March 29. Finally, the third indictment charged the youths with stealing eight pieces of sheet iron, one hydraulic jack, a switch frog and conveyor pan, worth a total of $610, on March 30.

Arlie Lease, a resident of Pinto, was named in an indictment which charged him with assault with intent to murder his son, Reuben T. Lease on July 10.

The elder Lease was accused of assaulting his son and pointing a shot gun at him during an argument. He was disarmed by State Trooper A. M. Spioch, who crept up behind Lease and disarmed him at the moment when the Pinto man was turning to point the shotgun at the trooper, police reported.

Burglary Charged

Two indictments were docketed against William A. Fazenbaker, 19, Mill Run. He was charged with statutory burglary in the theft May 29, of materials worth $66.02 from a tool house of the Cumberland Contracting Company along Pompey Road, where the local firm has been engaged in a road repair project.

The youth also is charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods in a theft June 2, of soft drinks, potatoes, motor oil and bananas, valued at a total of $20. The property, which belonged to Horsa Metz, was stolen from his general store at Knapp's Meadow, according to State Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated the two cases.

A 52-year old Bowman's Addition man, Robert Weaver, has been indicted on two charges of receiving stolen goods—copper wire belonging to the Celanese Corporation of America. Weaver is charged with receiving 139 pounds of copper wire, valued at $27.80, March 30, and 282 pounds, worth $56.40, on April 2. Trooper Baker was the witness upon whose testimony the two indictments were found.

Dennis Warner Koontz, 26-year-old South Cumberland resident, was indicted on a charge of unlawfully breaking and entering Hiner's Market, 117 Virginia Avenue, April 11.

Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said that Koontz broke into a storage room at the rear of the market but did not get into the store itself and did not take anything from the place.

Three other county men were indicted on charges involving paternity.

Indictment List Reported Heaviest Since Prohibition

As the grand jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court heard witnesses yesterday for the sixth day, court attaches said they believe the current list of indictments being returned is the heaviest since Prohibition days of the 1920's.

By the time the Court House closed yesterday afternoon 41 true bills had been placed on the open docket. A number of other indictments have been found by the grand jury but they are secret until legal papers are served on defendants. It is anticipated that between 50 and 60 indictments will be on the court docket when all bench warrants are served.

The grand jury, on which Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West VirginiaP ulp and Paper Company, is foreman, expects to prepare its report and wind up activities late today. It will mark the grand jury's seventh working day.

Cobey Is Asked To Make Study Of Smoke Case

Hitchcock Gives Report On Complaint

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday he has asked the City Attorney to study details of complaints entered against a Pennsylvania Avenue cleaning establishment.

The complete file on the case, he added, is being forwarded to W. Earle Cobey.

In a report to the Mayor and Council yesterday, Hitchcock said there is no legal basis for a test on the complaint concerning alleged violations of the smoke control ordinance by the Ray Beall cleaning firm.

"The legal status . . . . falls into the category of a private, rather than a public nuisance case", his report said.

The report was called for by city officials last week after 35 residents of the area asked for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney at the plant.

Hitchcock said Mrs. Margaret Smith, 101 Pennsylvania Avenue, made her first complaint against the firm on June 9, 1949, and was the only one to do so, until last week, on the average of once every two months.

Hitchcock said the problem was one of air pollution and not smoke and no legal observation has been established because the cost is excessive when a marginal boiler is involved. He said Beall has been cooperative and all smoking violations are non-existant. Hitchcock said Beall has a new boiler ordered.

Hitchcock said he advised Mrs. Smith to talk to her attorney and follow his recommendation on September 28, 1951, and added: "x x x the case is one of a private nuisance

McKeldin Proclaims Autumn Glory Time

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — All Governor McKeldin had to do was look out the window to issue his latest official proclamation. He's declared the period October 12 to November 1 as "Autumn Glory Time."

The Governor put special emphasis on the mountainous areas of Western Maryland. And coupled with the proclamation was a request that hunters and others who go outdoors observe fire rules and regulations.

The Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council is planning special events to add some of its own color to the "autumn glory." One of them is a tour for travel editors of several eastern newspapers, to be conducted by the Department of Information of Maryland.

Coaxial Cable To Reach City By October 31

The Potomac Valley Television Company expects to hook up its coaxial cable to the first Cumberland user's set by the end of this month.

William H. Geppert, attorney for the firm, said the cable from the company's antenna atop Irons Mountain has reached a point within a mile of the city limits.

Two and a half miles of the heavy cable have been strung from the mountain top, three and a half to four miles southeast of the city.

Geppert said only two sets have been connected to the cable so far. One of these is on a farm nearby and the other is the company's own testing set. Geppert termed results "excellent."

The company is now building a 10-by10-foot concrete block building at the antenn site to house converters, the first amplifier, and testing equipment.

Geppert said application forms are now being printed and will be ready in the next two weeks.

Speed Limit Signs Will Be Scarce On State Highways

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Speed limit signs will be placed farther apart on Maryland highways so motorists won't be encouraged to drive the maximum all the time, the State House said today.

Chairman Russell H. McCain of the Roads Commission already has ordered warning signs spaced about 10 miles apart.

The main purpose is to place them where "a 50-mile speed limit is a safe one," McCain wrote Governor McKeldin.

The governor has objected personally to the profusion of signs, especially on approaches to bad curves or steep climbs.

"Sometimes they inspire you to drive fast when you shouldn't," a spokesman added.

McCain explained district engineers have been instructed to locate maximum speed signs along this general plan:

One halfway between reduced speed zones that are from 15 to 25 miles apart, two spaced equally along a stretch of 25-35 miles and so on.

Signs announcing the highway limit is 50 miles an hour will be removed when a sharp curve or steep grade is just ahead. None will be allowed before heavily traveled intersections, business developments, schools or other areas "where traffic should proceed with care."

On mountainous roads, such as Route 40 between Hancock and Cumberland, signs will be erected at the end of reduced speed zones —but only when there's a clear view ahead.

McCain said the Roads Commission had been observing an old policy which called for signs every two miles in each direction. That boiled down to a sign every mile on alternate sides of the road.

City Will Study B. And O. Plans For Yard Work

Plans proposed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the closing of the Williams Street crossing were referred yesterday to the City Attorney and City Engineer for investigation and report.

The action by the Mayor and Council followed reading of a letter from Chester T. Williams, division superintendent, giving further details of that phase of extensive changes planned in yard operations here.

Williams said the present Williams Street crossing "definitely presents a shortening of inbound receiving tracks, and that is one of the reasons why we requested prompt action in closing of the street crossing."

He also outlined plans for the proposed pedestrian foot bridge at Williams Street.

"When the receiving yard is constructed," Williams continued, "it will eliminate any delays to trains and the stopping and slow movement of trains over Baltimore Street as these trains will be able to pull in on separate tracks which we have not been able to do heretofore and which has resulted in so much complaint."

Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that a serious study be made of a plan by Jeremiah T. Defibaugh to close three crossings and build an overhead bridge for vehicular traffic and pedestrians.

Second Chest Drive Report Due Today

Men's Sales Army Plans For Calls

The second report of the Community Chest-USO campaign organization seeking $105,159, will be made at a luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Henry K. Duke, heading the newsly created Sales Army pointed out that this afternoon will be the second the men of his group have been asked to devote to their calls, leaving the balance of the campaign period to complete the solicitation.

The Sales Army, Duke pointed out, has a large territory to cover since they are responsible for soliciation of business firms with less than eight employes. Such firms are scattered over the entire city.

Letter appeals have been sent to clubs and fraternal organizations of the city appealing for contributions. George L. Buchanan, general chairman, stated it was not the intention of this appeal to seek gifts from the individual members, since they will be solicited at their places of business, but to vote a subscription from treasury funds in line with humanitarian ideals of the group.

Among organizations who have made gifts are the Ladies Auxiliary of Central YMCA which voted a contribution of $150 and the American Legion Auxiliary $15. Two church groups have also made gifts, Grace Methodist Church, WSCS, $5 and Kinsley Methodist, WSCS, $10.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign emphasized to county organizations that although their campaigns are scheduled along with the Cumberland Community Chest campaign funds being raised in the county are for the Allegany portion of the USO goal. Community chairman make their reports in the same manner as the Cumberland campaigners but the pledge cards state that the funds are for the USO only.

Wholesale Gas Raise Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Power Commission today suspended a proposed 15 per cent increase in wholesale natural gas rates for customers of Atlantic Seaboard Corp. and Virginia Gas Transmission Corp., both of Charleston, W. Va.

The commission estimated the increase would amount to about $3,000,000 based on anticipated sales for the year June 30, 1952.

It would affect wholesale purchasers in Washington, D. C., Baltimore and Cumberland, Md., Lynchburg and Roanoke, Va., and in smaller market areas.

The companies asked that the increase be made retroactive to last July 16.

The two companies, members of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., asked the increase because of proposed higher rates by United Fuel Gas Co., from which they purchase natural gas.

United is seeking an increase because of a proposed rate increase by its source, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co.

The commission pointed out that both the United and Tennesee increase proposals were suspended and not now in effect.

Not Guilty Pleas Filed By Pair In Murder Cases

Court Appoints Counsel For Two

Two county residents, indicted last week on murder charges as a result of August slayings, entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The early arraignments were scheduled so the court might appoint attorneys to represent them in their forthcoming trials. Neither defendant possesses necessary funds to employ counsel, the court was told.

Margaret Ellen Gray, 39, who is charged with murdering her 50-year old common law husband, Nile Jennings Michael, at first entered a plea of guilty at her arraignment. However, this was before Associate Judge George Henderson appointed Noel Speir Cook and Estel C. Kelley to represent her. Realizing that she had not had the opportunity for legal advice, Judge Henderson subsequently gave the Gray woman the opportunity to change her plea to not guilty.

Michael, who was fatally shot August 2 with a .22 caliber rifle at the old C&O Canal toll house near North Branch, died three days later.

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland, entered a not guilty plea when he was arraigned. Associated Judge Morgan C. Harris appointed Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry as his attorneys.

Beeman is charged with murder in the fatal penknife stabbing of his estranged wife, Mrs. Donna L. Beeman, 18-year-old mother of twins, who died at her parents' home in Frostburg August 12.

Trial dates for the murder charges will be set later.

B & O Crossing Block Hearing Set Today

Baltimore and Ohio Engineer L. H. Bragg, Grafton, W. Va., will be given a hearing today at Police Court on charges of violation of Section 32, Chapter 14, of the city code.

Released on $10 bond, the engineer was operating Engine 4476, Train 29, an express from Washington to St. Louis. Bragg was served a warrant when he returned to Cumberland after his run.

Witness Stand Moved In Circuit Courtroom

The witness stand in the Circuit Court room here has been moved across the room so that witnesses will sit across the room from the jury box facing the jurors.

For the past eight years the witness stand has been located between the judge's bench and the jury box. Under this arrangement witnesses faced away from the judge when addressing the jurors and sometimes could not be heard by the presiding judge.

Robert B. Thomas, court stenographer, will move his seat from the north to the south side of the courtroom so he will continue to sit directly in front of the witness stand. Newspaper reporters will trade places with Thomas and will be seated in front of the jury box. It has been reported that a public address system may be installed so all courtroom spectators can hear the proceedings.

Korean Vets Are Treated For Malaria

Two cases of malaria have been chalked up against Allegany County but there is no cause for alarm.

Both of the cases were reported by Fort George G. Meade authorities, who said the veterans, recently returned from Korea, are undergoing treatment for the condition.

As a matter of record, they were listed as of Cumberland and Allegany County on the Maryland Health Department statistical reports, officials said.

For some months, the Public Health Service has warned physicians throughout the United States to be on guard against malaria among Korean veterans, saying cases were bound to turn up.

The September report of the City Health Department also lists one case of meningitis, two of pneumonia, seven of tuberculosis and six veneral disease cases.

Births for the month totaled 141, with 44 deaths within the city.

House Shooting Is Referred To Grand Jury

Police Fired Upon In Friday Fracas

The case of a McCoole man who is accused of wounding his son and firing on State Police who came to arrest him has been turned over to the grand jury.

The State's Attorney's Office said yesterday 64-year-old George H. House will not receive a preliminary hearing, since he was arrested during the grand jury term.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday released House under $2,000 bond for action of the grand jury. Authorities said he faces charges of assault with intent to kill.

Quarreled Over Money

House has been in jail here since Friday night. State Police said he shot and slightly wounded his son, Leroy House, after an argument with his wife.

They said House and his wife had quarreled over money early Friday night. Mrs. House fled to Leroy's home about half a mile away. They returned to her home in Leroy's car.

Police declared the elder House let loose three blasts from a repeating 12-gauge shotgun as Leroy stepped out of the car. One pellet struck the younger man in the forehead.

Leroy House was treated at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., but was released. Police said the pellet is still lodged in his forehead.

Fired At Trooper

State Police who went to the scene said George House fired three blasts at Trooper Raymond P. McGuire, who guarded the front door while other State Policemen attempted to enter the building from the rear.

McGuire returned fire, but no one was hurt in the exchange. Soon afterward, House surrendered and was brought to jail in Cumberland.

Before the argument which police said resulted in the shooting, Mrs. House had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Louise Thompson, 27, in Potomac Valley Hospital. Mrs. Thompson died Sunday night.

Youths Accused In Thefts Of Property From Mine

12 More Indictments Added To Open Docket

Three indictments against two teenage National boys accused of larceny and receiving stolen goods worth a total of $1,238 from a Klondike mine in three successive days, were among 12 new true bills placed on the open docket in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18, were indicted by the October grand jury on evidence furnished by State Trooper First Class William F. Baker.

Supplies Stolen

They were charged with stealing an assortment of supplies from Klondike Mine No. 17, owned by the Consolidated Fuel Company, March 28, 29 and 30. They were charged with stealing steel rope, steel blocks and standards, two elbows, one mining car bottom, and a piece of honeycomb-like machinery, altogether worth $542, on March 28.

In a second indictment Morgan and Leatherman were charged with stealing five mining rails and a sprocket chain, total value of $86, on March 29. Finally, the third indictment charged the youths with stealing eight pieces of sheet iron, one hydraulic jack, a switch frog and conveyor pan, worth a total of $610, on March 30.

Arlie Lease, a resident of Pinto, was named in an indictment which charged him with assault with intent to murder his son, Reuben T. Lease on July 10.

The elder Lease was accused of assaulting his son and pointing a shot gun at him during an argument. He was disarmed by State Trooper A. M. Spioch, who crept up behind Lease and disarmed him at the moment when the Pinto man was turning to point the shotgun at the trooper, police reported.

Burglary Charged

Two indictments were docketed against William A. Fazenbaker, 19, Mill Run. He was charged with statutory burglary in the theft May 29, of materials worth $66.02 from a tool house of the Cumberland Contracting Company along Pompey Road, where the local firm has been engaged in a road repair project.

The youth also is charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods in a theft June 2, of soft drinks, potatoes, motor oil and bananas, valued at a total of $20. The property, which belonged to Horsa Metz, was stolen from his general store at Knapp's Meadow, according to State Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated the two cases.

A 52-year old Bowman's Addition man, Robert Weaver, has been indicted on two charges of receiving stolen goods—copper wire belonging to the Celanese Corporation of America. Weaver is charged with receiving 139 pounds of copper wire, valued at $27.80, March 30, and 282 pounds, worth $56.40, on April 2. Trooper Baker was the witness upon whose testimony the two indictments were found.

Dennis Warner Koontz, 26-year-old South Cumberland resident, was indicted on a charge of unlawfully breaking and entering Hiner's Market, 117 Virginia Avenue, April 11.

Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said that Koontz broke into a storage room at the rear of the market but did not get into the store itself and did not take anything from the place.

Three other county men were indicted on charges involving paternity.

Indictment List Reported Heaviest Since Prohibition

As the grand jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court heard witnesses yesterday for the sixth day, court attaches said they believe the current list of indictments being returned is the heaviest since Prohibition days of the 1920's.

By the time the Court House closed yesterday afternoon 41 true bills had been placed on the open docket. A number of other indictments have been found by the grand jury but they are secret until legal papers are served on defendants. It is anticipated that between 50 and 60 indictments will be on the court docket when all bench warrants are served.

The grand jury, on which Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West VirginiaP ulp and Paper Company, is foreman, expects to prepare its report and wind up activities late today. It will mark the grand jury's seventh working day.

Cobey Is Asked To Make Study Of Smoke Case

Hitchcock Gives Report On Complaint

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday he has asked the City Attorney to study details of complaints entered against a Pennsylvania Avenue cleaning establishment.

The complete file on the case, he added, is being forwarded to W. Earle Cobey.

In a report to the Mayor and Council yesterday, Hitchcock said there is no legal basis for a test on the complaint concerning alleged violations of the smoke control ordinance by the Ray Beall cleaning firm.

"The legal status . . . . falls into the category of a private, rather than a public nuisance case", his report said.

The report was called for by city officials last week after 35 residents of the area asked for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney at the plant.

Hitchcock said Mrs. Margaret Smith, 101 Pennsylvania Avenue, made her first complaint against the firm on June 9, 1949, and was the only one to do so, until last week, on the average of once every two months.

Hitchcock said the problem was one of air pollution and not smoke and no legal observation has been established because the cost is excessive when a marginal boiler is involved. He said Beall has been cooperative and all smoking violations are non-existant. Hitchcock said Beall has a new boiler ordered.

Hitchcock said he advised Mrs. Smith to talk to her attorney and follow his recommendation on September 28, 1951, and added: "x x x the case is one of a private nuisance

McKeldin Proclaims Autumn Glory Time

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — All Governor McKeldin had to do was look out the window to issue his latest official proclamation. He's declared the period October 12 to November 1 as "Autumn Glory Time."

The Governor put special emphasis on the mountainous areas of Western Maryland. And coupled with the proclamation was a request that hunters and others who go outdoors observe fire rules and regulations.

The Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council is planning special events to add some of its own color to the "autumn glory." One of them is a tour for travel editors of several eastern newspapers, to be conducted by the Department of Information of Maryland.

Coaxial Cable To Reach City By October 31

The Potomac Valley Television Company expects to hook up its coaxial cable to the first Cumberland user's set by the end of this month.

William H. Geppert, attorney for the firm, said the cable from the company's antenna atop Irons Mountain has reached a point within a mile of the city limits.

Two and a half miles of the heavy cable have been strung from the mountain top, three and a half to four miles southeast of the city.

Geppert said only two sets have been connected to the cable so far. One of these is on a farm nearby and the other is the company's own testing set. Geppert termed results "excellent."

The company is now building a 10-by10-foot concrete block building at the antenn site to house converters, the first amplifier, and testing equipment.

Geppert said application forms are now being printed and will be ready in the next two weeks.

Speed Limit Signs Will Be Scarce On State Highways

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Speed limit signs will be placed farther apart on Maryland highways so motorists won't be encouraged to drive the maximum all the time, the State House said today.

Chairman Russell H. McCain of the Roads Commission already has ordered warning signs spaced about 10 miles apart.

The main purpose is to place them where "a 50-mile speed limit is a safe one," McCain wrote Governor McKeldin.

The governor has objected personally to the profusion of signs, especially on approaches to bad curves or steep climbs.

"Sometimes they inspire you to drive fast when you shouldn't," a spokesman added.

McCain explained district engineers have been instructed to locate maximum speed signs along this general plan:

One halfway between reduced speed zones that are from 15 to 25 miles apart, two spaced equally along a stretch of 25-35 miles and so on.

Signs announcing the highway limit is 50 miles an hour will be removed when a sharp curve or steep grade is just ahead. None will be allowed before heavily traveled intersections, business developments, schools or other areas "where traffic should proceed with care."

On mountainous roads, such as Route 40 between Hancock and Cumberland, signs will be erected at the end of reduced speed zones —but only when there's a clear view ahead.

McCain said the Roads Commission had been observing an old policy which called for signs every two miles in each direction. That boiled down to a sign every mile on alternate sides of the road.

City Will Study B. And O. Plans For Yard Work

Plans proposed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the closing of the Williams Street crossing were referred yesterday to the City Attorney and City Engineer for investigation and report.

The action by the Mayor and Council followed reading of a letter from Chester T. Williams, division superintendent, giving further details of that phase of extensive changes planned in yard operations here.

Williams said the present Williams Street crossing "definitely presents a shortening of inbound receiving tracks, and that is one of the reasons why we requested prompt action in closing of the street crossing."

He also outlined plans for the proposed pedestrian foot bridge at Williams Street.

"When the receiving yard is constructed," Williams continued, "it will eliminate any delays to trains and the stopping and slow movement of trains over Baltimore Street as these trains will be able to pull in on separate tracks which we have not been able to do heretofore and which has resulted in so much complaint."

Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that a serious study be made of a plan by Jeremiah T. Defibaugh to close three crossings and build an overhead bridge for vehicular traffic and pedestrians.

Second Chest Drive Report Due Today

Men's Sales Army Plans For Calls

The second report of the Community Chest-USO campaign organization seeking $105,159, will be made at a luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Henry K. Duke, heading the newsly created Sales Army pointed out that this afternoon will be the second the men of his group have been asked to devote to their calls, leaving the balance of the campaign period to complete the solicitation.

The Sales Army, Duke pointed out, has a large territory to cover since they are responsible for soliciation of business firms with less than eight employes. Such firms are scattered over the entire city.

Letter appeals have been sent to clubs and fraternal organizations of the city appealing for contributions. George L. Buchanan, general chairman, stated it was not the intention of this appeal to seek gifts from the individual members, since they will be solicited at their places of business, but to vote a subscription from treasury funds in line with humanitarian ideals of the group.

Among organizations who have made gifts are the Ladies Auxiliary of Central YMCA which voted a contribution of $150 and the American Legion Auxiliary $15. Two church groups have also made gifts, Grace Methodist Church, WSCS, $5 and Kinsley Methodist, WSCS, $10.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign emphasized to county organizations that although their campaigns are scheduled along with the Cumberland Community Chest campaign funds being raised in the county are for the Allegany portion of the USO goal. Community chairman make their reports in the same manner as the Cumberland campaigners but the pledge cards state that the funds are for the USO only.

Wholesale Gas Raise Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Power Commission today suspended a proposed 15 per cent increase in wholesale natural gas rates for customers of Atlantic Seaboard Corp. and Virginia Gas Transmission Corp., both of Charleston, W. Va.

The commission estimated the increase would amount to about $3,000,000 based on anticipated sales for the year June 30, 1952.

It would affect wholesale purchasers in Washington, D. C., Baltimore and Cumberland, Md., Lynchburg and Roanoke, Va., and in smaller market areas.

The companies asked that the increase be made retroactive to last July 16.

The two companies, members of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., asked the increase because of proposed higher rates by United Fuel Gas Co., from which they purchase natural gas.

United is seeking an increase because of a proposed rate increase by its source, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co.

The commission pointed out that both the United and Tennesee increase proposals were suspended and not now in effect.

Not Guilty Pleas Filed By Pair In Murder Cases

Court Appoints Counsel For Two

Two county residents, indicted last week on murder charges as a result of August slayings, entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The early arraignments were scheduled so the court might appoint attorneys to represent them in their forthcoming trials. Neither defendant possesses necessary funds to employ counsel, the court was told.

Margaret Ellen Gray, 39, who is charged with murdering her 50-year old common law husband, Nile Jennings Michael, at first entered a plea of guilty at her arraignment. However, this was before Associate Judge George Henderson appointed Noel Speir Cook and Estel C. Kelley to represent her. Realizing that she had not had the opportunity for legal advice, Judge Henderson subsequently gave the Gray woman the opportunity to change her plea to not guilty.

Michael, who was fatally shot August 2 with a .22 caliber rifle at the old C&O Canal toll house near North Branch, died three days later.

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland, entered a not guilty plea when he was arraigned. Associated Judge Morgan C. Harris appointed Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry as his attorneys.

Beeman is charged with murder in the fatal penknife stabbing of his estranged wife, Mrs. Donna L. Beeman, 18-year-old mother of twins, who died at her parents' home in Frostburg August 12.

Trial dates for the murder charges will be set later.

Yanks Trim Giants, 6-2, To Square Series

TRUCE TALK CHANCES IMPROVE

•DiMaggio Ends Batting Slump With Home Run

Lopat And Jansen Will Pitch Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio snapped out of a prolonged batting slump today and poled a 350-foot home run to help the New York Yankees trounce the New York Giants, 6-2, and square the World Series at two games each.

At the same time, Allie (Double No-Hit) Reynolds, beaten in the opening game, limited the National Leaguers to eight hits and snuffed out a last inning rally by forcing Willie Mays to hit into a double play.

DiMaggio's blow, coming in the fifth inning with Yogi Berra on base, was one of his two hits for the day. He also hit a screaming single in the third inning after going hitless in the first 12 times at bat in this series.

Lopat To Face Jansen

The Giants' 23-game winning ace, Sal Maglie, failed to harness the revived bats of the world champions and he went out for a pinch-hitter in the fifth after the Yankees had piled up a 4-1 lead.

Manager Casey Stengel said he would come back tomorrow with Ed Lopat, the veteran southpaw who accounted for the Yankees' first victory last Friday at the stadium.

Leo Durocher will try to send the Giants back out front with Larry Jansen on the wound. Jansen was the losing pitcher in Lopat's game.

The weatherman's forecast is for continued cool weather with a high of 60 to 65.

The Giants scored first in the opening frame on the first of Alvin Dark's three doubles, a fielder's choice and Monte Irvin's first of two singles.

Dark Close To Record

From there on until the ninth Reynolds had a tight hold on the National League champions although Dark did his best to keep the Giants in the game as he came within one double of matching a World Series game record.

The Yankees' first run came in the second inning when Gene Woodling blooped a double behind third, went to third on Bobby Brown's long liner to left-center and scored on Joe Collins' single.

The champions went ahead in the fourth on Brown's single, a walk to Collins and a single by Reynolds. Then DiMaggio's home run in the fifth with Berra on base gave the Yanks a 4-1 lead.

The Yankees also put across two runs in the seventh on two hits and an error by the Giants' Eddie Stanky, who hit Phil Rizzuto with a throw.

Iran's Premier Arrives In U. S.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Exhausted after a long plane ride, Iran's frail Premier Mohammed Mossadegh arrived today with fresh charges that the British want to continue "pillaging" Iran's oil resources.

He immediately went into seclusion on the 16th floor of the New York Hospital in preparation for bedside conferences later this week on the British-Iranian oil dispute. He flew from Tehran to present his country's case to the Security Council, which is expected to meet Thursday.

Mossadegh issued a statement at the Idlewild airport in which he recalled to Americans their fight against the British in the War of Independence. He said there are great similarities between the present-day efforts of the Iranians and the efforts of American ancestors "to release their homeland from the fetters of economic and political imperialism."

Revived "Dead" Man May Live For Months

LONG BEACH, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Melvin Hewitt, 28, who was revived after being lifeless for 15 minutes, may live on for months in a comatose state.

Dr. E. Z. Edwards, manager of the VA hospital here where the Navy veteran is a patient, said today his hospital has two other patients who were brought back to life after their hearst stopped beating. One has been unconscious for seven months and the other for three.

However, the physician said that neither had been lifeless nearly as long as Hewitt. Hewitt was "dead" about 15 minutes after hitting his head on a sidewalk outside a tavern last Thursday.

He was rushed to a hospital in nearby El Monte. Doctors cut into his chest and massaged his heart. It started beating, and breathing resumed. Later he was transferred to the VA hospital here.

Senate Passes $7,483,400,000 Foreign Aid Bill

Also Approves Funds For Several Agencies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Senate approved two big money bills today—one authorizing a $7,483,400,000 foreign aid program and another appropriating $1,744,000,000, largely for defense and economic control activities.

Both actions were on voice votes, and helped mark progress toward a fall adjournment of Congress.

Little time was needed to get the foreign aid measure out of the way, since it had passed the Senate once before in much the same form.

However, senators debated all afternoon on the smaller money bill. It made cuts of a little less than $7,000,000 in the amount recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

The bill now goes to conference between the House and Senate. It is on of the 13 money bills which must be disposed of before Congress can quit this year.

Biggest allotments in the bill are: $790,000,000 for development of strategic and critical materials, $272,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission, $116,000,000 for the Veterans Administration, $192,000,000 for emergency agencies such as the Economic Stabilization Agency, and $290,000,000 for the Civil Defense Administration.

Senate passage completed congressional action on the foreign aid measure. It now goes to President Truman for his signature.

The bill authorizes $5,028,000,000 in military aid to Western European nations and $1,022,000,000 in economic assistance. Smaller amounts are earmarked for South American countries and friendly nations in the Near East, Africa and Asia.

The Senate already had passed the compromise version of the bill once but had to take action again to approve a change made in the House.

The House had refused to permit the presidentially appointed director of the aid program to serve as a member of the Export-Import Bank. The Senate agreed to go along. Sen. Maybank (D-SC) said putting the director of the aid program on the bank board would put the bank in international politics and prevent it from considering loans on a purely business basis.

JERUSALEM, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP)—Israel's new cabinet, led by Premier David Ben-Gurion, won a vote of confidence in the Knesset (parliament) early today, 55 to 40. There were four abstentions.

Egypt Cancels Her Treaties With Britain

Attempts To Force British Withdrawal

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 8 (AP)—Egypt announced tonight she is cancelling her treaties with Britain in an effort to drive the British out of the Suez Canal area and the Sudan.

Prime Minister Mustafa Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist (nationalist) Party, introduced in a cheering parliament the bills to carry out the cancellations less than a week after British oilmen were forced to leave Iran, another country in the unstable Middle East.

"Long live King Farouk," shouted the deputies.

"From now on King Farouk will be called 'king of Egypt and Sudan,'" Nahas Pasha declaimed.

Egypt 'isn't going to wait any longer" for the British to withdraw from the Suez Canal zone, he shouted.

(The Foreign Office in London said Britain would refuse to recognize the one-sided cancellation of treaties providing for mutual defense and for joint rule of the Sudan.

(The Foreign Office showed signs of shock that Egypt had acted before receiving new proposals which Britain promised over the weekend would be forthcoming. These proposals were believed based on decisions reached at the recent Ottawa conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to create a new Middle East defense command. This plan envisaged a compromise by which a garrison from several nations might hold the Suez, the extremely important link between the Mediterranean and the Orient.)

Th British Embassy in Cairo tonight issued a statement saying "a unilateral abrogation by the Egyptian government of the 1936 treaty with Great Britain has no legal force since that treaty contains no provisions for denunciation at any time."

It pointed out that the treaty is to last for 20 years, after which it might be renegotiated by either party.

It added: "The insistence, however, of the Egyptian government on unconditional acceptance of their original demands has made it impossible so far to find a basis for negotiations."

Nahas Pasha indicated Egypt is not without means to force the British out.

He said henceforth British troops would be "deprived of all privileges stemming from the 1936 treaty" pledging mutual defense for 20 years, or until 1956.

Girl Stops Train And Attains Aid

DELTA, Utah, Oct. 8 (AP) — A 12-year-old girl today flagged down a freight train and obtained aid for injured members of her family.

The girl is Linda Lee Mortensen of Delta.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mortensen, their son, Crag, 16, and three daughters were en route home when the family car overturned.

Mrs. Leah Mortensen, 39, was critically injured and Craig was hurt seriously. Mr. Mortensen and two girls were shaken up. Linda Lee was unhurt. She set out for the railroad tracks, a mile away. She flagged Union Pacific's daylight livestock special and told the crew what had happened.

The railroad men returned to the accident scene with the girl, set up highway flares and gave first aid. Then along came several soldiers in an automobile and took the injured to Payson Hospital.

Lawrence Tierney Ejected From Church By Policemen

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney was strapped into a restraining jacket and taken to a neurological hospital today after police said they found the actor barefoot, disheveled and belligerent in a Catholic church.

Officers Danny Cooke and Roy Livingston reported they were called to St. Monica Church at 6 a. m. and as they arrived saw the actor run into the building.

The officers said he approached the altar, made an obeisance and claimed sanctuary. He threatened them and said they couldn't take him away, the policemen reported.

The officers said they asked a priest if they could take Tierney and were told that they could because he was creating a disturbance.

In the past seven years Tierney has been arrested 12 times, usually on drunk charges. Cooke and Livingston said the actor, featured in tough guy roles on the screen, was not drunk today.

He was taken to the police station, where his brother, Edward Tierney, later tried to quiet him. But the brother was hit by the excited actor.

The brother called an ambulance and the actor was taken to Los Angeles Neurological Hospital. No charges were brought against him.

Royal Couple Arrives In Canada

Canada Gives Princess, Duke Warm Welcome

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8. (AP)—Smiling Princess Elizabeth landed here today with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and boarded her special train for a month-long tour among the people of Canada who one day may come under her rule.

The train moved leisurely through the Quebec countryside for a stop at an unnamed siding tonight. It will push on to Quebec city tomorrow for the formal beginning of the tour at 9:45 a. m. (E.S.T.)

As soon as the formalities of welcome were out of the way the princess' first thought was to call her mother, Queen Elizabeth, to report a smooth, safe flight on the 3,400-mile trip from London and to inquire after the health of her ailing father, King George.

Thousands At Airport

The thousands who gathered at the airport and along the route to the 10-car royal train on a nearby siding, got a sample of the charm which Canadians will see as the party proceeds across the country.

As Elizabeth stepped down the gangplank—amid a jarring 21-gun salute—she looked very much like any other well-groomed young matron. She wore light makeup, a mink jacket, a blue-green wool dress, with low cut V-neck and tight-fitting skirt, a small velvet hat of matching color, and small pearl earrings.

Her handsome 30-year-old husband wore his lieutenant-commander's uniform of royal navy, including a great coat.

Couple Inspects Honor Guard

Despite the raw day and early morning rain, which kept many away, a crowd estimated at from 10,000 to 25,000 cheered as the royal couple inspected a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal Canadian Air Force. Again at the train, there were cries of "we want Elizabeth, we want Elizabeth."

The princess and Phillip did not go into Montreal at all. They had planned originally to begin their tour at Quebec and were sticking to the same plan, except that they were beginning it one week later because of the king's serious operation. Originally, they had expected to arrive in Quebec by ship.

Dean Says Everything Set For Atomic Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 8 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission completed a whirlwind tour of the Nevada proving grounds today, then announced:

"We're ready any time to set it off."

Just when the forthcoming atomic test blast will occur Dean would not divulge. They're booking bets in this gambling and resort town that it will come late this week.

House Approves Cut In Parcel Post Size, Weight Limits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The House passed by voice vote today a bill to reduce the size and weight limits on packages that may be sent through parcel post.

The bill goes back to the Senate, which passed a similar measure last month.

As passed by the house, it affects only parcels handled only by first-class postoffices—those in larger cities. The Senate proposed that the smaller sizes apply to packages handled only by first and second class offices.

Also exempted are parcels mailed to or from Army and Navy postoffices and to or from postoffices in territories or possessions, including the Canal Zone.

Court Refuses Top Reds' Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Supreme Court today declined to reconsider its decision against 11 U. S. Communist Party leaders but agreed to hear two other major cases affecting Communists' rights.

The leaders, seven of whom now are serving prison sentences, while four are fugitives, were convicted of plotting to teach the violent overthrow of this government. Their lawyers asked the Supreme Court to rehear the case and reverse its decision of last June upholding the convictions.

The court did agree to rule on (1) constitutionality of a section of federal law requiring deportation of aliens for past membership in the Communist Party; and (2) whether aliens facing deportation may be held without bail on a finding by the attorney general that they have been active Communists.

The high tribunal took no action today on a petition for further consideration to six attorneys for the 11 Red leaders. The attorneys were sentenced to prison on contempt of court charges. They were sentenced by Federal Judge Harold Medina to terms ranging from one to six months. The judge held they conducted themselves improperly in court during the long, stormy New York trial of the Red leaders. They had been granted a stay of their terms pending the Supreme Court's decision on the petition.

ILA Negotiations Agree To 10 Cents Hour Hike

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Union negotiators agreed today to a 10 cents an hour wage increase for 65,000 longshoremen working from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.

They predicated that members of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association would ratify the new agree in voting Thursday.

The ILA had demanded 25 cents over the current wage of $2 an hour.

The agreement was reached with the New York Shipping Association which represents 173 shipping and stevedoring firms.

Reds Cutting Out India "Pattern," Stassen Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen charged today a Red "pattern of action" is being cut out for the domination of India, just like the one that led to the Communist conquest of China.

Stassen also declared the record makes it clear that the State Department—despite denials by Secretary of State Acheson—played a part in undermining Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

Testifying before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, the former Republican governor of Minnesota said:

"Uneasy And Disturbed"

"The denials by the State Department of things which I know are true, the claims by the State Department of things I know are not true, leave me very uneasy and disturbed with regard to our country's future policy."

Warning that "catastrophic results" would follow if India fell to the Reds, Stassen told the subcommittee:

"India in Communist hands, added to China in Communist hands, would place the rich southeast of Asia, Indochina, Malaya, Burma and Thailand in the position of a lush plum in a nutcracker."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, gave his views in testifying on President Truman's nomination of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup as a delegate to the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly in Paris.

McCarran Opposes Jessup.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has challenged the nomination, accusing Jessup of following "every twist and turn of the Communist line." Jessup has denied it.

In another development, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee came out firmly against Senate confirmation of Jessup, but Sen. Lehman (D-Lib, NY) praised the appointment and predicted it will be approved.

Senator Asks Explanation Why Tax Claim Not Pressed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today the government has failed to press income tax claims of $675,344.16 against a Kansas City businessman. He called it "questionable practice."

He demanded in the Senate that the Internal Revenue Bureau, already under fire in Congress, explain why, as he put it, tax claims against Ardeis H. Myers had been left unpressed so long that the government's right to collect $171,726.50 of the sum had lapsed.

His remarks touched off a senatorial discussion on whether it is proper for newspapers to play up stories of stealing from the government.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) said he fears a recent rash of headlines concerning charges of improper conduct give "the impression that government officers are all a lot of crooks and grafters.

"Everytime somebody steals a little bit of money x x x the newspapers play it up," he said.

Williams assailed as "questionable practice" and "particularly suspicious the fact that Dan N. Nee, former internal revenue collector under whom the claims against Myers were filed, later became Myers' lawyer and as such opposed the claims.

Nine Killed When U. S. Destroyer Hits "Probable" Mine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Nine sailors were killed and 18 injured when an American destroyer ran over a "probable enemy mine" Sunday off Korea, the Navy announced tonight.

The destroyer, the Ernest G. Small, was able to make Sasebo, Japan, under her own power, the Navy added. No further details were made public.

The Navy list of the dead included:

Elijah K. Manning, fireman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfried M. Manning, Pineville, W. Va.

Americans Near Victory In Battle Of Korean Ridge

Reds, Allies Stage Big Artillery Duel

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The United Nations offensive in Western Korea rocked and swayed in a savage series of hill attacks Monday.

In the east American troops were on the threshold of final victory on "Heartbreak Ridge."

A field dispatch today from AP Correspondent George McArthur from West Central Korea reported signs the Reds had shifted both troops and artillery to the west in defense of their main lines near Yonchon.

The Reds in the west used artillery at a rate of fire unknown to the Communists since the start of the war. Allied officers said it was equal in volume to concentrations fired by American guns last winter, but didn't come close to Allied firepower now.

Massed Allied Guns Roar

Despite a Red barrage of more than 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar shells, it was little over one-tenth the mighty roar of massed American and British guns. Between sun up and sundown, a total of nearly 13,000 rounds of artillery alone — including 105-millimeters and eight-inch howitzers that gouged out whole Red bunkers at a single blast—fell on enemy positions.

The artillery concentrations were laid down in an area less than 20 miles northeast of Panmunjom. Gen. Matthew D. Ridgway has agreed that this area could be used as a site for new Korean cease-fire talks. Panmunjom itself, a Communist checkpoint, is six miles east of Kaesong where the cease-fire negotiations were broken off by the Reds Aug. 23.

In the east, American troops stormed almost to the top of the last northern peak of "Heartbreak Ridge." At last reports, assault forces of the famed 23rd Infantry Regiment of the U. S. Second Division, holders of a presidential unit citation, were within 600 feet on the crest.

Blast Way Inch-By-Inch

They crawled up the crags, blasting their way inch-by-inch in what was literally a fortress assault.

Backing them were tough French infantrymen who joined in the continuing attack a week ago. Together the Americans and French had captured the somewhat higher central peak of Heartbreak on Saturday.

It appeared that, in its fourth week, the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" was being won. Wider scale attacks to the west and east were drawing off some of the concentrated Communist strength.

Ridgway OKs Panmunjom Area As Site

Opposes Neutral Zone Extension

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 9 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway agreed Monday to the Panmunjom area as a site for fresh Korean cease-fire talks, but disagreed with a Red proposal to extend the old Kaesong neutral zone to include Munsan, site of the Allied truce camp.

Instead, in a brief message to the Chinese and Korean Red commanders, the United Nations commander suggested a small neutral area around Panmunjom, "with Kaesong, Munsan and the roads to Panmunjom from Kaesong and Munsan free from attack."

Panmunjom is a tiny roadside village six miles east of Kaesong and 12 road miles northwest of Munsan.

Ridgway did not mention a further Red proposal that both sides be responsible for policing the neutral zone.

Liaison Officers To Confer

He said he would send his liaison officers to Panmunjom Wednesday at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday, EST), to discuss the details with the Communists.

Ridgway's message, which had already been broadcast, was formally delivered by hand to Red liaison officers at Panmunjom check point at 8 a. m., (6 p. m., E. S. T., Monday.)

How the Red leaders would react was problematical.

Aside from the neutrality and policing questions, they have insisted in the past that the full armistice negotiating teams meet to create "appropriate machinery" for resuming the conferences.

Ridgway, in turn, has insisted that liaison officers settle all the technicalities before the main negotiators meet again.

South Koreans Hit Red Proposal

Meanwhile, the South Koreans got into the act. Pyun Yung Tai, South Korean foreign minister, issued a statement saying the Red suggestion to enlarge the neutral zone would extend "the Red sanctuary within South Korea."

The South Korean government spokesman, said such an extension "would be dangerous and we don't like it."

Nevertheless, the latest exchange of messages was the nearest the opposing sides have come to agreement since the Reds broke off the conference at Kaesong Aug. 23.

Truman May Be "Available" Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman quipped today he might be available for the movies "in the not too far distant future."

This quip, of the type the President has been using for the last several months on the question of whether he'll seek reelection, occurred when he posed in the White House rose garden with Hollywood personalities.

During the photographing, Joyce O'Hara, acting president of the Motion Picture Association, observed to Mr. Truman that "we'd like to sign you up sometime."

Mr. Truman grinned broadly and replied:

"Well, I'l be available sometime in the not too far distant future."

The President helped launch a nationwide celebration of "Movietime U. S. A." when he greeted the Hollywood personalities. They were Elizabeth Taylor, Randolph Scott, Debbie Reynolds, Louise Albritton, Director John Ford, Writers Arthur Arthur and Virginia Kellog and Movie Pioneer Adolph Zukor.

They are in Washington to open the golden jubilee anniversary of the building of the first motion picture theatre in Los Angeles.

Contino Becomes Eligible For Parole

McNEIL ISLAND, Wash., Oct. 8. (AP)—Dick Contino, the former Maestro, Calif., butcherboy and accordionist, became eligible yesterday to apply for parole.

He was sentenced Aug. 7 to six months at the federal penitentiary here and fined $10,000 for draft evasion after walking out of Fort Ord, Calif. He became eligible for parole with one-third time off for good behavior.

Contino, reportedly was earning $4,000 weekly as an accordionist when sentenced.

Thousands Gape As Slain Moretti Takes Final Ride

LODI, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Tuxedo-clad Willie Moretti, who once boasted he'd never be murdered because "this isn't Chicago," went on his final ride today like a Windy City crime lord of the roaring 1920's.

Unruly crowds turned the dapper gambler's funeral into a Roman holiday and put on a show unparalleled in local history.

Nearly 10,000 persons—including mothers with babes in arms and box lunches—fought police and each other for a glimpse of Willie's $2,500 gold and bronze casket and $8,000 worth of floral pieces that flanked the bier.

They mobbed the Morocco Funeral Parlor in nearby Passaic, stampeded around Corpus Christie Roman Catholic Church in adjacent Hasbrouck Heights and trampled graves and toppled headstones in St. Michael's Cemetery here.

They came from all over. There were sleek Cadillacs from nearby New York and Packards from Illinois. Extra details of police had all they could do to cope with the traffic and the thousands who lined the funeral route.

Detectives circulated through the crowd looking in vain for underworld characters who might give them a lead to the four men who pumped four .38 caliber slugs into Willie last Thursday.

GAMBLER'S GOODBYE—The body of Willie Moretti, kingpin gambler whose fast and frequent talking led to his gangland killing, is borne from a funeral home at Passaic, N. J., for burial. Thousands of curious onlookers made a Roman holiday of the funeral.

British Engineers Dismantle Red Station

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Engineers began dismantling today Russia's powerful radio receiving station in England—shut down on British government orders.

Post office employes cut the station's teleprinter connections over which it sent between 20,000 and 30,000 words of Russian and Soviet satellite broadcasts daily to British newspapers and domestic and foreign press agencies.

The broadcasts were one of the principal sources of iron curtain information for the West, and usually the speediest.

The station, named the Soviet Monitor, was under direct control of Tass, the Soviet news agency. Tass, which has diplomatic immunity in Britain as an official agency of the Soviet government, recevied permission in 1941 to operate the station as a warttime facility.

Judge Insists He Remarried Kings

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP) — A judge said today that he remarried Texas Playboy Sheppard King III and his former wife last June but she denied tonight that she was wed.

District Judge Robert Hall said he married a woman "who said she was Gloria King on a wet night in June."

Mrs. King told reporters at Newark, N. J.:

"I am not married."

She refused any further elaboration and replied "no comment" to questions about the reported second marriage.

The wealthy King has said in Paris he would wed an exotic Egyptian belly dancer, Samia Gamal.

Mrs. King, who was divorced from the Houston oil and cotton heir, flew to New York from Rome today. She caught a plane at Newark for Houston after a day of shopping in New York.

Judge Hall quoted the couple as saying they had settled their differences and thought it would be best for their son for them to remarry. He said they seemed happy. He sent the license to Kaufman, Tex., for filing.

Miss Mayme Brewer, at whose fashionable home the ceremony was performed, said she believed the couple was still married.

She added the remarriage wasn't announced because "Sheppard's mother in Houston wouldn't have approved."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Written expressly for International News Service)

The Giants were a yo-yo on Allie Reynold's string today. Now the series is as close as webbed toes.

"My boy Sal" Maglie was another sure-fire winner who didn't.

Nobody surprised more pall-bearers than Joe DiMaggio when he sat up in the fourth game and looked around.

Joe got himself a two-run homer in the fifth. His first hit of the series was a single in the third. Joe also looked at a couple of third strikes sail by like the president's yacht.

But he validated my prediction of Sunday. When Joe is right the Yanks are correct. And there isn't enough salt in the world to change the flavor.

Reynolds pitched tighter than a waxed mustache. He loosed up a little in the last inning but the Giants fizzled. It's that last water in the bath-tub that makes the most noise running out.

The winning manager will be the one who builds the better rat trap. The series is way past mice now.

The fourth game was exciting because the great DiMaggio found the zipper on his straight-jacket.

It was a well-capered contest with Monte Irvin running his string to nine. He's sure to win the 1951 award as the most valuable player in the Irvin family.

They say Stanky played soccer Saturday. The whole team played it today. When you look bad, lace on your cuffs will not pretty you up.

Bill Corum told me that Ed Barrow ordered a hundred copies of Bob Considine's interview with me last Friday. Well, if there's a better game anywhere than baseball I'll have to get my spectacles changed.

I went so far out on the limb I have feathers on my legs. But I have always claimed nobody can call a worm's turn in the rain. Or the result of a baseball game until the last man is picking himself off the barroom floor.

With the Yanks and the Giants getting two each it looks like a seven-button series.

With the Yanks probably winning because it rained Sunday. I'm a weather prophet who runs the reel backward.

Mother Who Used Paddle On School Principal Fined

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mother who blackened a school principal's eyes with his own paddle drew a $25 fine and a lecture today. A jury had convicted her of assault and battery.

Evidence in the trial showed that Mrs. Bernice Smey had grabbed the paddle and smacked James Fenwick with it during an argument over punishmenet of her son Dan, 15. The incident took place in the principal's office.

Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman told Mrs. Smey to "join the parent teachers association and get a better understanding of the teacher-parent problem."

Pro-America Bloc Wins French Election

PARIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — The pro-American bloc of parties governing France emerged the winners today in Sunday's election of local departmental councils by gathering 43.2 per cent of the popular vote.

The three parties in the bloc—Popular Republicans (Catholic), Radical Socialists (Moderates) and the Independent Republican-Peasant Alliance (right-of-center) — may do even better in runoffs next Sunday. Then they may pool their votes to decide 846 of the contests for the 1,660 seats that were at stake.

Due For Promotion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman today nominated three Air Force lieutenant generals for promotion to full generals.

The three are Lt. Gen. John Kenneth Cannon, commanding general of the Tactical Air Command; Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commanding general of the Strategic Air Command, and Lt. Gen. Benjamin Wiley Chidlaw, commanding general of the Air Defense Command.

Sen. Moody's Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) —Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said tonight Russia is capable of raiding the United States with 50 atomic bombs and that such an attack would kill 3,000,000 people.

He made the statement in asking the Senate to vote $20,000,000 additional for medical supplies for the Civil Defense Administration. The move was unsuccessful.

Gov. McKeldin, 'Pinza Type,' Lunches With Movie Stars

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin, an "Ezio Pinza type" personality, lunched with Hollywood celebrities today.

Peggy Lee, pretty blonde singing star, put the governor in the same class with Pinza, Broadway and Hollywood singer, because of his "dynamic personality."

Miss Lee confessed she knows nothing of McKeldin's vocal talents, but said "with his good resonance, he could probably sing, too."

The resonance has helped the governor acquire a reputation as an orator and a friend confided later he's more than a passable baritone.

"I stood next to him once singing the Star Spangled Banner," he said. "He sounded out over the others."

The luncheon today was sponsored by the motion picture industry of Maryland. It served as a kickoff for the golden jubilee celebration of the American movie theater. Similar celebrations will be held throughout the country.

In addition to Miss Lee, two other screen beauties—blonde Aileen Stanley and red-haired Suzanne Dahlert, Fernch actress—also sat at the head table.

McKeldin found himself between Producer Sol Lesser and C. Elmer Nolte, Jr., Maryland chairman for the nationwide jubilee. He didn't complain, however, because "the girls visited me at the State House before coming here."

Russia Again Reported Moving Vital Industries

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 8 (AP)—Russia was reported today to have started another evacuation of vital industries from the western parts of the Soviet Union to safer areas beyond the Volga River.

The liberal newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen said that by the end of last year Russia had cancelled nearly all industrial expansion projects near her western borders.

Thousands Of Lifeless Birds Litter Airport

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8 (AP) — Municipal airport runways and surrounding fields were littered with thousands of lifeless birds today.

State conservation and University of Tennessee zoology authorities investigated and theorized:

The dead birds were blinded by the powerful beam of the weather bureau's ceilometer as they migrated southward, then plunged to the ground.

Airline pilots reported similar wholesale deaths of birds at the Nashville airport.

She Couldn't See Mate Hit By Car

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A man was knocked down by a car yesterday a few feet from a parked automobile in which Mrs. Harriet Couch, 63, was sitting.

Police and a crowd came. The victim, in critical condition with a skull fracture, was taken to a hospital.

The driver of the car, Pfc. Richard Seidl, 20, of Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill., was taken to a police station to be held without charge until the extent of the victim's injuries were ascertained.

Then, Traffic Officer Ed Halvorsen approached Mrs. Couch, still sitting quietly in her place. "I want your name as a witness to the accident, lady," he said.

"I am blind," Mrs. Couch said, "but my husband must have seen it. He left the car to mail a letter just before it happened. I'm sure he's around somewhere."

Halvorsen looked at the victim's identity notes in his report book—Cecil Couch, 65. He told her, gently, what had happened to her husband.

OPS Adviser's Firm Accused Of Violations

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization today accused a company headed by one of its own civilian advisers of noncompliance with OPS regulations.

The concern is B. Schwartz and Company, which OPS says is the nation's largest meat boning firm and does a $100,000,000 annual business.

Its president and treasurer, Benjamin Schwartz, is a director of the OPS Beef Industry Advisory Committee.

OPS, in the first such move in its beef enforcement drive in Chicago, sued today for an injunction to suspend the company's operations until it complies with OPS regulations.

Rent Control Is Resumed In Ridgeley

Rent control was clamped on yesterday for the town of Ridgeley and rentals will be rolled back to the August 29, 1949 level, according to a joint announcement by William L. Mickey, chairman of the Ridgeley Rent Advisory Board, and Thomas E. Barrett, director-attorney for the rental area.

Recontrol was ordered October 5 by Tighe E. Wood, director of Rent Stabilization, Washington, at the request of Mayor B. Frank Magruder, town councilmen and rent advisory board members.

The principal reason recontrol was requested, Barrett said, was that rents rose excessively in some instances.

Recontrol means that landlords in Ridgeley are legally obligated to re-establish rents on their properties at the price they were receiving on August 29, 1949, when controls were removed in that area. After that, it is up to the landlords to apply for adjustments of rents to the Area Rent Office, which has been combined with the Cumberland Rent Office, located in the Post Office Building. Miss Elizabeth Lippold, contact representative, is in charge of the local office.

The main grounds for rent increases are: Increase in costs of operation, major improvements, added services and equipment, and inequity. A 20 per cent increase over the recontrolled ceiling rate will be allowed. The rollback will not affect the landlord's right to collect his present rental rate for the month of October unless such rent payment has not yet become due.

Landlords who did not register under the former rent control program will be required now to register within 30 days. They can at the same time petition for higher rentals. If the petitions are filed within 30 days, the increase in maximum rent if granted, will be made retroactive to the present date. Similiarly, tenants who feel that their rents are excessive, are permitted to apply at the rent office for a reduction in rent.

The rent stabilization program reimposed as above stated, restricts evictions and controls rents in the same manner as is done for the City of Cumberland for all controlled units.

The main exemptions under the law are accommodations built since February 1, 1947, and apartments converted through structural changes and ordered decontrolled by the Rent Office.

The usual penalties of treble damages and Federal Court injunctions are applicable in cases of violations of the law.

Summary Is Due In Smoke Survey

Raymond Tucker, St. Louis engineer and consultant, is expected to submit his recommendations on the city's smoke control program this week, Mayor Thomas S. Post announced.

Yesterday was the earliest date the study was to be submitted.

Also expected are plans for six new filters at Lake Gordon, the Mayor said.

He added that Robert T. Regester, Baltimore engineer who is preparing plans for the filtration project and the city's sewage treatment system, may ask for further time to complete the project.

Regester was asked to expedite plans for the filter work so construction of the urgently needed filters, to give the city another six million gallons of filtered water a day, may be started this fall.

Liberal Votes Could Decide

The election result in Great Britain on October 25 could very well hinge on the voters who cast their ballots for Liberal candidates in February, 1950, but who will have no such opportunity this time. In 1950 the Liberal party put up candidates for 475 (76 per cent) of the 625 seats in the House of Commons. The party is expected to announce soon that it will contest only about 100 this year.

Every candidate must put up a deposit of 150 pounds ($420), which is returned to him only if he polls as many as one-eighth of the votes cast. In 1950 no less than 319 Liberal candidates forfeited that deposit. (All but three of the 100 Communist candidates also forfeited their deposits.)

The Liberal party in 1950 paid Lloyd's a premium of 5,000 pounds for underwriting, up to 250, all Liberal deposits lost after the first 50. This year the party is apt to be more cautious. So is Lloyd's.

The Liberal candidates polled a total of 2,621,000 popular votes in 1950, to 13,296,000 for the 617 Labor candidates and 12,502,000 for the 621 anti-Labor candidates (of which 11,518,000 went to the 568 candidates labeled as straight Conservatives). The Communists polled 92,000 votes; and 55 various independent candidates, almost all of whom forfeited their deposits, polled a total of 258,000.

No fewer than 66 seats were won by Labor candidates with fewer votes than the combined vote for Conservative and Liberal candidates. If two-thirds of the Liberal votes had gone, instead, to the Conservative candidates and only one-third to the Labor candidates, Labor would have lost 18 of those 66 seats. That would have meant a Conservative government by a margin of 30 seats instead of a Labor one by a 6-seat margin.

But will the Conservatives in 1951 get more than Labor of the Liberal votes of 1950? The question is easier to ask than to answer.

The 1950 Liberal platform condemned "nationalization for nationalization's sake," also the Labor party's subservience to the trade unions. In 1949 the Liberals in Parliament voted with the Conservatives to censure the government on the pound devaluation. All that looked anti-Labor.

However, the Liberals supported the earlier nationalization projects of the Labor government, and the 1950 Liberal platform observed: "The Conservative party is the protective mechanism of big business." After the 1950 election, the Liberals were with the government in further clipping the wings of the House of Lords, over Conservatice opposition. All that looked anti-Conservative.

The truth seems to be that the future of the Liberals is all in their past. Their great issue in the days of their glory was free trade, but what chance has free trade in today's world? The Liberal party had hoped to do well in 1950 because of the traditional British bent toward compromise, but the British voter, like the American voter, seems disinclined to throw his vote away on a third party.

On the one hand, Liberals dislike Socialist regimentation. On the other hand, many still look on Churchill as a renegade for leaving their party, of which he had been a leader, to join the Conservatives in 1924. In 1923 and in 1929, when the Liberals held the balance of power, they refused to support any Conservative ministry, allowing Labor to form a government, later voted with the Conservatives to overthrow the Labor government.

New Life In Canada

A new life in Canada awaits the Czech engineer and 31 passengers of the novel "Freedom Train" that escaped through the iron curtain from Communist Czechoslovakia to the United States zone of Germany. So brave and dashing an exploit deserved such a happy ending.

Gen. Carl A. Spatz, chairman of the Iron Curtain Refugee Committee, has announced that the gallant group is being processed for emigration "in record-breaking time." Among them is the former stationmaster who covered the train's Communist fireman with his pistol while the engineer, Jaroslav Konvalinka, roared full throttle through the Czech border station of Asch.

The four-car train carried 111 passengers, most of them unaware of the plot in which armed anti-Communist conspirators were to guard the hand brakes against the Communist conductor, two soldier escorts and a policeman. Except for the 32, who formally requested asylum, the others were returned to Czechoslovakia when they gave ideological or family reasons for wishing to do so.

All too often there have been reports that individuals who have risked death to escape communism are shabbily treated by West German and, in some cases, even American authorities. Here is a happy contrast, one which should show others behind the iron curtain that the effort to achieve freedom is well made.

Penny's Worth

A toy manufacturer's announcement of the passing of the penny bank drives home poignantly the fact that the basic unit of U. S. currency has been the chief sufferer from inflation. Who does not remember the importance the penny enjoyed in the homely philosophy of wise Benjamin Franklin?

Take care of the pennies, he said, and the dollars will take care of themselves. But today that advice is disregarded and pennies, except where sales taxes are in vogue, are largely disappearing from circulation.

Possibly neglect of pennies has contributed to the depreciated state of the dollar, but there is no question the effect on the penny itself has been disastrous. The aforementioned toy manufacturer brings this out sharply with the comment that the penny has lost its appeal to children.

Penny candy long ago disappeared from counters and cases, and the parent whose largess is less than a dime finds little appreciation. A penny is scarcely worth saving, even to the child mind. So the company is going to make banks hereafter that take nothing less than a nickel, and preferably a dime or a quarter.

Power Of Minority

The Soviet government will soon launch the greatest purge in history when it deports or liquidates all citizens of satellite countries who have opposed the Russian regime. What Moscow terms unreliable elements in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria are to be driven from their homes, as the Communists take over their land.

Having been fooled and double-crossed for 20 years, our own government is being forced to admit the truth about Russia. Communism is rule by gangsterism, where a small minority, kept so because it is easier to handle, enforces its will upon the people through terror and death. Now the satellite nations are to feel the lash.

No Smoking

The harmful effects of tobacco on several medical conditions is controversial. However, most authorities agree that in Buerger's disease (thromboangiitis obliterans) there is strong evidence that smoking is more than aggravating. We could go further and say that it might be the cause.

The relationship between Buerger's disease and nicotine has been appreciated for many years. The majority of victims have been heavy smokers for a long time. Recently I heard a specialist in this field state that he had never encountered a patient with Buerger's disease who had not used tobacco. We do not know how the chemical does its damage except that many of these individuals are overly sensitive to its effects. To the best of our knowledge it impairs the circulation to the hands and feet by producing spasm of the blood vessels. Ultimately clots form and the arteries become plugged.

Buerger's disease has an innocent beginning and many victims find it difficult to recall when it started. There is coldness of one or all of the extremities with aching pains in toes, insteps, ankles, calves, wrists, or forearms. Inflammation of the veins may co-exist, which leads to tender, red, elevated streaks on the foot or legs. As the malady progresses many suffer from cramps in the calf of one leg or the other after walking a block or two and discomfort subsides after standing still for a few seconds. The cycle repeats itself. Later, ulcers may appear, or the skin of the toes becomes reddened or bluish and, eventually, black (gangrene). At this stage the digits burn and ache and distress is so agonizing that the subject is unable to sleep. Some smoke incessantly during these wakeful periods, which only aggravates the situation.

Several years ago a young man went to the Mayo clinic because of pain in the left foot which became worse on walking. After a thoro study, it was concluded that for at least five years he had been suffering from Buerger's disease, which was becoming progressively worse. He smoked 20 cigarettes a day and every physician consulted advised him to give up the habit. Nevertheless he disregarded all this advice. He returned to the clinic two years later and admitted that, altho his consumption of tobacco had been reduced, he had not abstained. By then, the pain in the left foot and right calf was more severe.

Another year slipped by and on his third visit to the clinic the condition had not changed. Again tobacco was interdicted and the patient dismissed. He was not seen for 2 years, at which time the clinic physicians were surprised when they learned that after his last previous admittance he had given up tobacco entirely. Shortly after he stopped smoking pain subsided and circulation improved. The tests were repeated and it was found that the arteries were again pulsating, indicating a normal blood flow. He had been cured without medicines, baths, lamps, or suction pressure treatments.

Many years ago we were studying an X-ray of the hand of a young man with Buerger's disease. A special substance had been injected into the arm to visualize the arteries leading to the hand and fingers. The passageways were far from normal and in one finger there was virtually no circulation at all. One of the physicians commented that the patient was not smoking but that if he should that finger would be the first to become gangrenous. Two weeks later the man returned with gangrene of that particular finger. He had gone to a party over the weekend, drank two cocktails, and decided to smoke a cigaret.

Ear Fungus

H. S. writes: Are the antibiotics helpful in fungous infections of the ear?

REPLY

The antibiotics seldom are used because they rarely influence the fungous organism; but if there is an associated bacterial invasion they should prove helpful. Various types of fungi attack the ear canal; some respond to one medicine and some to others. The best plan is to determine the culprit thru laboratory tests and proceed from this point with medicine known to kill that particular fungus.

Fibroid Tumor

M. T. writes: A friend tells me she has a fibroid tumor on the tonsils. Is such a thing possible?

REPLY

Yes, because fibroid tumors may develop wherever there is fibroid tissue. This sounds confusing because fibroids in the uterus are more common than elsewhere.

Aspirin Allergy

B. H. J. writes: What symptoms are caused by allergy to aspirin?

George Allen Predicts Ike Will Run; Censorship Necessary To Protect U. S. Secrets; Nixon Deserves Credit For San Francisco Tax Probe

WASHINGTON — George Allen, the former White House jester, is now about the closest man to General Eisenhower. It was Allen who acted as liaison between Truman and Eisenhower to make sure Ike didn't get into the race as a Democrat in 1948.

Today, Allen, though a Mississippi Democrat, says that Ike is sure to run as a Republican.

Talking to a friend recently, Allen predicted:

"What Ike will do will be exactly what Roosevelt did at Chicago in 1932. He'll hop on a plane and fly straight to the convention.

"How's he going to fly from Paris to Chicago when he's under orders from his commander-in-chief to do a job in Paris?" asked the friend.

"Don't be foolish," shot back the former White House jester, "what's the commander-in-chief going to do about it?"

Censorship

Inside fact about the President's long press conference lecture about protecting U. S. secrets was that his immediate advisers didn't want him to make it. They knew public reaction would be bad.

However, the Defense Department, Central Intelligence and others in charge of military secrets urged the President not only to issue his censorship order but back it up—in part to keep the military from setting U. S. policy.

Time after time, high generals or admirals have barged in on civilian policy or disclosed secrets which caused serious damage.

Most important was the release of the Smythe report on atomic energy by General Leslie Groves. A few hours after the report was sent to several thousand newspapers, horrified scientists protested to the Army that the report contained vital secrets by which an astute scientist could piece together the know-how for making the A-bomb. Hurriedly, Groves demanded that the report be recalled.

"That," replied a member of his staff, "would be like trying to put an egg into a chicken."

Newsmen, not being technicians, had no way of knowing the significance of the Smythe report's complicated wording.

Another military boner which played into Moscow's hands was the statement by General Orvil Anderson, commander of the Air War College at Montgomery, Ala., that the United States wanted a preventive war. It was necessary for the Air Force to relieve Gen. Anderson in order to demonstrate this was not our real foreign policy.

NOTE — On Mr. Truman's desk this summer was one of our newest secret weapons, a guided missile. Proudly he demonstrated it to many callers, told about its accuracy against enemy planes. No restriction of secrecy was placed upon those with whom he talked.

Income Tax Probe

Alert Senator Richard Nixon of California had a lot to do, backstage, with the cleanup of the income tax mess in San Francisco.

Some time ago he received letters from those close to the federal grand jury which was trying to investigate the long-rumored Internal Revenue scandal but which was suddenly called off by U. S. Judge Lewis E. Goodman.

At that time, young assistant U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara was endeavoring to present evidence of income tax irregularities to the grand jury. But suddenly the probe was stopped by Judge Goodman, who, incidentally, had been appointed to the bench on the recommendation of ex-Senator Sheridan Downey. Collector of Internal Revenue Smythe, now under investigation, was Downey's campaign manager.

To remedy the situation, Senator Nixon introduced a bill which, if passed, will permit grand juries to hire council of their own and dig into a smelly situation—regardless of whether the U. S. attorney or the judge gives the green light.

Nixon also phoned the Justice Department in Washington to inquire about young O'Gara, the assistant U. S. attorney who was pushing the tax probe.

"He's a psycopath," was the reply.

In the end, however, O'Gara won out. He was brought to Washington as a witness before Senator Williams' Income Tax Committee, while many of the tax collectors in San Francisco he was gunning for have now been removed.

Washington Pipeline

Ex-Secretary of War Robert Patterson has notified the Senate Judiciary Committee that he has withdrawn his endorsement of Miss Frieda Hennock to be a U. S. judge. Since Patterson once sat on the U. S. Court of Appeals, his word counts heavily with the senators. He informed them that when he originally endorsed Miss Hennock, he had not realized all the facts now brought out by the New York Bar Association . . . Free hams, TV sets, etc. can certainly get people into trouble these days. In fairness to Commander John Paul Floyd, however, the $200 silvet set being given him by members of the Civilian Orientation Conference was a surprise. Floyd didn't know it was coming . . . . Ex-Senator Tydings of Maryland has now sold his prize pigs, including "The Shamrock," once Illinois grand champion Hampshire boar. . . . Some of the boys around the White House are really sore at Stuart Symington, new head of the RFC. In sweeping out RFC closets "Stew" has let the chips fall where they may—even if they hit Democrats . . . . For the first time, Senate spectators who once cheered McCarthy have begun to titter . . . . Justice Stanley Reed is now resigning from the Supreme Court. His health is now excellent, despite reports to the contrary by a Broadway columnist . . . Justice Hugo Black is still playing three sets of tennis daily, after which he rolls his own court.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Only from Joseph Stalin comes uncensored news out of Russia. For he is boss there and decides what shall be said. Hence anything he says or writes constitutes the most important evidence to the outside world of what is going on in his mind.

Stalin's latest statement is the most revealing document on the effect of American policy on Russia that has yet been disclosed and, if analyzed word for word in the light of what is occurring in this country, it will yield plenty of interesting information. These conclusions can be drawn from the Stalin statement:

1. Peace in the world is assured for an indefinite period.

2. Russia recognizes the lead in armament which America has and will not attack the Allies.

3. Russia has been scared by the size of the American defense program and by the recent announcements from American official sources about tactical use of the atom bomb.

Accomplished Its Purpose

4 Fearing that the Russian people may react nervously to President Truman's challenging statement that the Soviets are now embarked on a program of war preparation through the explosion of their second atom bomb, the Communist chief with only a few days elapsing has promptly sought by his statement to prevent that impression from taking hold inside the "iron curtain" countries. It is evidence that the American statement of last Wednesday was shrewdly conceived and has accomplished its object from a counter-propaganda standpoint.

The foregoing points are derived from the context of the Stalin statement which oddly enough protests too much on certain points and thus betrays the innermost concern of the Soviets. Many a person who is shaking and quivering in a moment of danger often insists that he isn't scared. Stalin says:

"Personages in the United States are vexed because the secret of the atom bomb is possessed not only by the United States but also by other countries, the Soviet Union primarily. They would like the United States to be the monopolist of the production of the atom bomb. They would like the United States to have unlimited power to intimidate and blackmail other countries."

Next comes the proof that Stalin respects American productive power and our lead in the atomic race for he then pleads that "the interests of preserving peace require first of all the liquidation of such a monopoly and then the unconditional prohibition of the atomic weapon, too." He then naively adds this bit of wishful thinking:

"I think that the proponents of the atom bomb may agree to the prohibition of the atomic weapon only if they see they are no longer monopolists."

What Stalin is really saying is that his explosion of a second atom bomb is intended to prove to America it has no monopoly and he is ready to agree to the liquidation of our larger and better supply of atom bombs by using his small, if not insignificant, supply as a trading point. It is transparently a sign of weakness.

Want U. S. Bombs Destroyed

The mere fact that so much of his statement is devoted to a reiteration of the Soviet point of view about prohibiting the use of the atomic weapon altogether indicates clearly moreover that the Soviets are desperately seeking the adoption of any program of international control which starts first with the destruction of all of America's bombs.

It's an understandable tactic on the part of a weaker party but it is also a signal to the United States that the atom bomb is destined to become a big issue psychologically inside Russia and that when the present crowd in the Kremlin are thrown out of power some day by the Russian people the problem of international control of the atomic bomb could be the means to a peaceful understanding with an emancipated nation. It could rid the whole world of atomic jitters. The atom bomb is looked upon everywhere as a weapon of war but it could conceivably become a great instrument of peace.

Matter Of Fact

The Big Potatoes

WASHINGTON

In the RFC-Bill Boyle-Lithofold investigations, Congress has been rooting for peanuts as usual, while ignoring the giant Idaho potatoes. RFC loans are small stuff in the business-politics-government game. The big stakes are government decisions — often obscure decisions — which transform the profit pictures of whole industries, and cost or save the American people quite literally billions of dollars.

This reporter has been conducting a necessarily somewhat string-halted private inquiry into what has been happening to the big stakes in the Truman administration. The fairly hair-raising results are typified by the story of how the Federal Power Commission has been quietly captured by the industries it is supposed to regulate.

If any one man can claim to be the general of the long fight to take over the Power Commission, with its immense authority over electric power and natural gas, that man is Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. Senator Kerr, a pious man who teaches Sunday school, is said to have made his first big step upwards on life's ladder by getting permission for the Phillips Petroleum Company to drill oil wells on the lawn of the Oklahoma state capitol. From this promising beginning, he has never looked back, becoming many times a millionaire, the owner of vast oil and gas properties of his own, his state's governor, then its senator, and the close crony of the President of the United States.

Kerr Not Discouraged

Senator Kerr's not wholly disinterested aim was to relieve the natural gas industry of Federal Power Commission rate-making. When he began his long fight, back in 1945, he had one ally — ex-Dartmouth Professor Nelson Lee Smith, named to the commission as a progressive Republican in 1943, who had joined the industry side almost as soon as he was appointed. Smith and Kerr no doubt found a link in Smith's friend and New Hampshire neighbor, Ross Gamble, who represents the Texas Eastern Gas and Transmission Company in the Washington lobbies.

While still governor, Kerr scored his first triumph, persuading President Truman to give a vacant place on the commission to the bleary Harrington Wimberly, manager of a Kerr political campaign. Then another place on the commission opened, and Kerr got that one for another friend of his, Burton Bailing, who used to be known around the commission as "the gas lobbyist." Bailing, Wimberly and Smith briefly added up to a Power Commission majority. But the incorruptible and determined commission chairman, Leland Olds, organized protest deputations to the White House, and President Truman recalled Bailing's nomination from the Senate before he could be confirmed.

The temporary setback did not discourage Senator Kerr. Olds's term as Power Commission chairman expired, and his renomination had to be approved. Kerr, now transferred to the Senate's larger sphere, organized an intense attack on Olds as a sinister Socialist, offering in evidence the more foolish utterances indulged in by Olds as a very young, excessively idealistic Congregational minister. Outraged by the threat to free enterprise, the Senate rejected Olds. Meanwhile the Oklahoma senator also offered the Kerr Bill, giving the natural gas producers legal protection against Power Commission rate-making.

Wallgren Poor Choice

Initially, the Kern Bill was supported by the Senate majority leader, and was authoritatively said to have White House approval. Unfortunately, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois stirred up an inconvenient row on behalf of the gas consumers in great urban centers, whose gas prices were about to be inflated. The President then sent the Kerr Bill back to the Senate with a pious veto, but added, as an after-thought, the nomination of his poker-crony, former Governor Mon C. Wallgren of Washington, to succeed Olds on the Power Commission.

Wallgren is a poorer than average member of the Fair Deal's Elks bar set. His record is dubious, his intellect feeble; and in his background loom such peculiar characters as the West Coast fishmonger-tycoon, Nick Bez, and the Seattle big operator, Saul Haas. The Senate, which had been unable to stomach Olds, and had found Wallgren too second rate for the National Security Resources Board, now confirmed Wallgren for the Power Commission with alacrity and delight. According to report, Senator Douglas remarked that it was like hiring a nurse to murder the baby.

At any rate, Wallgren gave Kerr what he wanted, control of the Power Commission. In a case started by Kerr's old friends, the Phillips Petroleum Company, the Wallgren-ized commission immediately reversed itself, briskly enacting the vetoed Kerr Bill by simple administrative ruling. What the President may have thought of the curious spectacle of his own veto being overridden by his own appointee, history does not record. Presumably he was consoled by the large profits promised by the Phillips case ruling to Senator Kerr and all the other gas producers.

The many tens, even hundreds of millions of profits for the owners of natural gas property are also added costs, of course, for the ordinary citizen-gas consumer. But the story does not end there, by any means. The stakes in this Power Commission struggle are really almost incalculable, as will be shown in a further report.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Hoover's Autobiography

The first volume of Herbert Hoover's autobiography is to be published about the middle of this month. I am not jumping the gun in respect to the publication date; that apparently is a grave sin. However, the book recalled to me our first correspondence.

Throughout the years of my residence in China, I treasured the friendship of Tong Shao-yi, an elderly gentleman of cultured habits who had been in the highest offices under the dowager empress as well as during the early years of the republic. Tong Shao-yi had been like a father to me and I respected him as though I were, in truth, his son.

It was the Tong family that was interested in the coal mines in North China where Herbert Hoover was employed as a young engineer, and his enemies, even now, try to give the impression that there was something wrong about it.

In fact, in January, 1920, two Americans came to China to discover whether there was any basis for the stories about Mr. Hoover stealing mines from the Chinese. They represented themselves as having been sent by the Republican party.

Old Tong Shao-yi thought that his friend, Herbert Hoover, was in some kind of peril and he asked me to write a letter telling of this sleuthing. I did so on January 17, 1920, and I have the letter before me now.

Tong Shao-yi told his visitors that nobody stole those mines because the Chinese still have them. Instead he recounted how the young engineer organized to feed the Chinese of Tientsin during the Boxer Rebellion. I quote from my letter:

". . . Mr. Tong then expressed great gratitude for what had been done 20 years ago. . . He told the story of the vase which you took as a memento of those terrible days in Tientsin. Mr. Tong wondered whether you still have the vase which you took from his house not as loot but as a remembrance."

The years pass and 1928 approaches. This time the Democrats send a delegation to get the dirt on Herbert Hoover. And the more these men dig, the more the arrows point toward Tong Shao-yi. Finally, they are advised to see me and I take them to this aged mandarin who sits among the most beautiful Chinese porcelain every afternoon, drinking coffee which he prepares in his own fashion, and it all is so exotic and incongruous to listen to him discourse almost intimately on American politics, robed in beautiful brocades. So these Democrats want to know about the stolen mines and Tong tells them of the genius of the young engineer and how Hoover foretold the Chinese revolution almost a decade before it happened in a report to the viceroy Li Hung-chang, who would not believe him.

This time, I was again designated to write Mr. Hoover, reporting the incident, but that letter I do not now find. Mr. Tong, in due course, gave a press interview on the perfections of Herbert Hoover in the conduct of these mines. Subsequently, the entire story was told in detail by B. W. Fleisher in the "Japan Advertiser" and by George Bronson Rea in the "Far Eastern Review."

Tong Shao-yi must have been in his eighties when he was assassinated for saying that the Chinese were unwise to be at war with the Japanese, as such a war would ultimately hand China over to Soviet Russia—a frightfulness that actually came to pass, as we now all know.

Two years or so before his death, in 1930, when I was returning to the United States for the first time in 13 years, he asked me to call on Mr. Hoover in the White House to say that if these stories troubled the President, he, Tong, would come to America to speak on Mr. Hoover's behalf, to tell of all his wonderful performances in China. And this I did.

It was an amazingly unbelievable visit to the White House. There sat a President beset by a thousand worries, for the depression had already become a nightmare. He recalled men in China who had made their mark and passed on, and some were still alive. And I know that Mrs. Hoover, then a young bride, had learned the Chinese language and loved the blue and white porcelains which are most beautiful when made in Chingtehchen in the province of Kiangsi. I almost felt that he envied my living so long among a nation so mature that they have a sixth sense for quality in man and thing.

A Fairgo soldier drew a suspended $10 fine yesterday in Police Court after his car struck a parked vehicle on North Mechanic Street and then caved in the wall of a house.

The soldier, Pvt. Robert H. Beal, 21, was treated at Allegany Hospital for a lip laceration.

Police said his car hit another owned by Charles Cassidy, 38, of 634 North Mechanic Street, then struck the front of Mrs. Margaret Cage's home next door at 632 North Mechanic Street.

Damage to the Beal car was estimated at $500. No estimate of damage to the house was given, but Mrs. Cage said the wall was ruined and a radio was smashed.

Hitchcock said Beall will have a new installation within ten weeks.

This raised from Commissioner William H. Buchholtz the question of whether the current ordinance is broad enough for such cases since "we are interested in the welfare of our citizens."

Hitchcock said the ordinance would never take care of private nuisance cases. He said he didn't believe the people who signed the complaint knew about the new boiler.

Hitchcock announced that the report of the Potomac Edison on operation of its River Plant has reached his office. He said it is "technical information."

His report will be forthcoming, he said, when his file on the Potomac Edison operations are returned by Raymond Tucker, St. Louis consultant, who recently made a survey of the smoke control problem here.

Equity Case Filed

An equity case was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled William R. Wade vs. Elnora Wolford Wade.

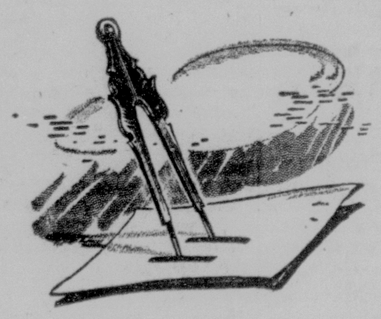
IS THAT A FACT! by Ches Peake

SHE WAS THE FIRST TO SAY "I DO." The first Christian marriage ceremony to be performed in America occurred in Jamestown, Va., in 1609, when Anne Burras married John Leyton according to English rites. The marriage took place 11 years before the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.



IT WAS HARD TO EQUAL. The common arithmetical sign, the equal mark, was originated in about 1557 by a mathematician named Robert Recorde. He wrote in a treatise on algebra: "To avoide the tediouse repetition of these words, is equalle to, I will sette, as I doe often in worke use a pair of parallel lines of one lengthe, thus: =, because no two things can be more equalle."

IT IS ALSO A FACT THAT . . . the YELLOW PAGES of your Telephone Directory have no equal when it comes to locating products or services for the home or business. For example, suppose you are moving from one town to another. You will need movers, and perhaps storage for your furniture. Just turn to the proper headings in the YELLOW PAGES, pick out the firms you want, and your problem's simplified. Get in the habit of using the YELLOW PAGES. You'll find it—pays!

The annual audit made by Berman, Goldman and Levin, Baltimore, was accepted and payment of $1,500 authorized. Two hundred copies of the report will be printed.

A check for $193 was authorized payable to Henry Klein as the result of a Peoples Court judgment against the city. The case resulted after an accident on Frederick Street Extended April 7 caused by a defect in the street. Thomas B. Finan was Klein's attorney.

A tax refund of $4.47 was ordered to the John Frederick Laing heirs, Route 2, Williams Road.

Mayors To Meet Thursday For Water Discussion

Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing has called a meeting of the mayors and town councilmen of Barton and Midland with officials of his own community for Thursday night at 7:30 in Lonaconing to discuss the critical water shortage in that section.

Mayor Alexander said that George L. Hall, chief engineer for the Maryland State Department of Health, and Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, will attend the session. Also expected to attend will be Dr. William E. Moseley, chairman of the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission.

The various officials will hear Hall explain what can be done to alleviate the current situation and what would be possible for the future needs of the three communities.

It is believed that either state or federal funds could be secured for an engineering survey of the area to determine what water system would be best for the towns individually or in a consolidated project.

Mayor Alexander said the current water shortage points up a situation which has plagued the town of Lonaconing for many years. Something will have to be done to prevent a repetition of the condition.

Mayor Alexander also said Sunday's rainfall helped as far as the dry condition of lawns and woodland areas was concerned, but did little towards improving the water situation. The prolonged lack of rain has dried up springs which have not failed in many years.

City Declares War On Termites

Termites are damaging the wooden joists of the Girl Scout House on Greene Street and the city has asked the Hygienic Sanitation Company to begin extermination work this week, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

The main supporting joists are being damaged by the termites which infest the building, Mrs. Roeder said. Cost of the extermination work will be $335 and this provides for a five-year inspection period.

Mrs. Roeder also announced that a survey is also being planned for City Hall, which is also infested with termites. This work will probably be much more expensive and will be included in next year's levy, she added.

The bodies of George A. Bischoff, of Pittsburgh, and Millard F. Blood, 17, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., were sent to their residences from the George Funeral Home.

The other three victims were taken to the Thrush Funeral Home, Romney, pending arrangements by Naval authorities.

Officers of the Naval Air Station at Norfolk, Va., where the quintet was assigned, came here Saturday night to probe the collision. Results of the investigation were not disclosed.

Old Export, BUT MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

WE TOLD YOU THEN—
WE THANK YOU NOW!

This ad ran back in the early 30's. Today, almost 3 times as many people are drinking Old Export.

To you folks who made 1951 the biggest year in our history, we say "Thank You!"

Do you know that beer—all beer—is 87% water? It is. That's why what water goes into beer is so important.

Naturally we want to make the finest, mellowest beer we can. Naturally we buy the best malt, hops, and yeast that money buys. And in the $1,000,000 Cumberland Brewery, OLD EXPORT is slowly, carefully brewed by brewmasters who are experts at the old-time art. Then OLD EXPORT is richly mellowed by aging in our vast cellars.

But there's something else—something money can't buy, that goes into OLD EXPORT to give it the famous tangy taste that's made it tops for half a century. And that important thing is mountain water—taste and find out for yourself—MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE!

48 years ago he built his brewery in the mountains

The Founder of the Cumberland Brewery was an old-time brewmaster—he knew that the water that goes into beer makes all the difference—that's why, in 1890, he went to Cumberland in the Alleghanies to found this brewery. And that's why OLD EXPORT has been a standout favorite ever since. Mountain water makes the difference.

Federal Grand Jury Probes Pro Boxing In N. Y.

Fighters, Managers Called As Witnesses

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS) — A federal grand jury launched a monopoly investigation of professional boxing today in New York, headquarters of the International Boxing Club and focal point of the ring sport in the United States.

It was indicated that many fighters and managers, as well as such past ring champions as Joe Louis, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey will be called upon as witnesses.

The inquiry seeks to determine whether big boxing clubs in major cities, particularly those controlled by the IBC, have been freezing out small independent promoters and forcing fighters to make unsatisfactory agreements in order to get bouts.

Nat Fleischer, publisher of Ring Magazine; John Grombach, comanager of French middleweight Laurent Dauthuille, and Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, were heard today.

Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, are expected to appear tomorrow.

Justice Department spokesmen in Washington said the investigation was begun because of "numerous complaints." Several congressmen recently have called for a probe of alleged monopolistic practices.

Much of the protest centered about the so-called "freeze out" of light heavyweight Harry Matthews of Seattle, Wash., who was passed over as a title opponent for champion Joey Maxim although listed as the logical contender.

Legislator Says Coach Should Take Blame In Scandal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(INS)—Rep. Auchincloss (R) N. J., today urged "a thorough overhauling" of West Point athletics and said "scandal will again appear" if Earl "Red" Blaik is kept as coach.

The congressman did not mention Blaik directly but he criticized modern football in general as being overemphasized. Auchincloss said:

"It is the coach's business, but it is also his responsibility, and if scandal rears its ugly head in his domain, he should take the blame.

"The present head football coach and athletic director at West Point built up such a system in order to win games and to enjoy an unbeatable reputation.

"If that kind of leadership in athletics is retained there, scandal will again appear and those responsible for his retention will alone be to blame."

La Starza's Opponent Declared Unsuitable

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The State Athletic Commission today ruled Ted Calaman of Philadelphia to be "an unsuitable opponent" for heavyweight contender Roland La Starza and advised the International Boxing Club to get another boxer. Calaman was knocked out in his last fight.

The I. B. C. had signed La Starza and Calaman for a ten round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena, Oct. 19.

Ridgeley bowed to Fort Hill, 28-0, and the West Virginia School for the Deaf dropped a 26-20 decision to the Cumberland eleven.

Fort Hill scored thrice in the final period of yesterday's game after tallying one touchdown each in the first and second quarters.

Jim Turner smashed over from the 11 yard line for the initial sixpointed. Harry Appel blocked a punt and Fort Hill recovered on the 18 to set the stage for the second TD which was made by Jerry Landis on an end sweep to give the Sentinels a 12-0 lead at the halfway mark.

In the final stanza, Richard Bittner scored on a pass from Charles Widdows, Bill Allen intercepted a lateral and ran 27 yards for another score and Bob Williams' aerial to Bob Andrews concluded the point making for the winners. Widdows plunged for the lone conversion.

Beall's score came in the closing minutes of play on Zinn's pass to Eichhorn.

The first downs were 12 to 2 in Fort Hill's favor. The victors completed two of four passes and Beall connected three times in five tries. Beall was charged with six of the seven fumbles recorded.

Eichhorn and Zinn played best for the Frostburg team while Bittner, Appel, Beightol, Murphy, Ronnie Rice and Turner were outstanding for Fort Hill.

PRO FOOTBALL

Detroit 37, N. Y. Yanks 10

"We A'int Losing," Berra Declares, When Told Winners Get $7,000 Each

"We're Hitting Now," Casey Stengel Says

BY PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(INS)—The Yanks were a joyous gang in their clubhouse after evening the series with the Giants at two-all today.

Jerry Coleman delayed his shower while he figured out the winner's share for each of them.

"If the receipts are a little over half a million I figure each of us will get close to $7,000," said Jerry.

Somebody suggested they might have to settle for the losers' end and Yogi Berra hit him with a wet towel.

"We ain't losing," said Yogi firmly.

Manager Casey Stengel chipped in with his bit: "We looked like the Yanks for the first time today. I'd begun to wonder if this was the same club I'd been managing all year.

"Time's getting awful short and somebody's got to take four pretty soon and I figure that will be us, now that Big Joe has begun to hit."

Big Joe, of course, is DiMaggio, who thrilled the crowd when he belted one of Sal Maglie's curve balls deep into the left field stands.

"I knew it was a homer all the way," said Joe. "I felt right for the first time today and the pitchers weren't making a chump out of me with that breaking stuff."

Casey shouted: "Ed Lopat tomorrow, boys, and I don't care who they pitch. We're hitting now."

Little Phil Rizzuto, who was hit by a pitched ball Saturday and kicked on the wrist by Eddie Stanky, and who was hit on the back of the head by a ball thrown by Stanky today, grinned ruefully, rubbed his sore noggin, and said:

"I'm beginning to believe that guy Stanky doesn't like me."

Reynolds said he was much faster today than he was when the Giants beat him in the opener and several of the Yanks—Berra, DiMaggio, Woodling and Brown—said Jansen, whom they must face tomorrow, is the toughest of all the Giant pitchers they've seen.

Three Golfers Tied For Lead At Kansas City

Middlecoff, Douglas And Ford In Playoff

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP) — A mixture of sand trap trouble and a short putt on the final hole landed three players — Cary Middlecoff, Dave Douglas and Dave Ford—in a tie for first place in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament at the end of the scheduled 72 holes today.

All three players had 72-hole scores of 278 over the 6,500-yard, par 72 Milburn Country Club course. They will tangle in an 18-hole playoff for the top prize money tomorrow.

Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn. dentist who won the U. S. Open in 1949 and who had been first in five major tournaments this year, appeared to have this one in the bag until his approach to the 72nd hole landed in a sand trap at the right of the green.

The doctor's first blast failed to get him out of the sand. His second carried into the fringe over the green and he settled for a six, one-over-par.

Douglas, of Newark, Del., who hasn't won a major tournament since the 1949 Texas Open, hit the same trap but blasted to within 15 feet of the pin and needed to hole out to win the $2,600 first prize. His uphill putt stopped a turn of the ball short of victory.

Ford, of Harrison, N. Y., approached on the green 20 feet from the pin. His putt was two feet to the right of the cup and he holed out to get into the playoff.

Two rounds were played on the still wet Milburn Course today after washouts of Friday and Saturday competition.

Middlecoff posted rounds of 72 and 71, Douglas 69-75 and Ford 71-75.

Skee Riegel of Tulsa and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., finished in a tie for fourth and fifth places with 280s and each collected $1,100. Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., was next with 281 for $800.

Laurel Track Plans To Open As Scheduled

Mutuel Workers Put Pickets At Gates

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—Laurel race track went ahead today with plans to open as scheduled Wednesday despite picketing by a union claiming to represent a majority of mutuel employes.

Workmen from the telephone company refused today to cross the picket lines.

There was a difference of statements on the reason for the picketing by the Baltimore Federation of Labor (AFL).

Edward Johns, executive secretary of the union, said it was because management wanted the ticket sellers and cashiers to sign an employment form containing a no-strike clause.

"The matter is a jurisdictional dispute between two unions," countered John D. Schapiro, track president.

The track recently signed its first contract covering mutuel workers with the independent association of pari-mutuel employes. The AFL protested the signing, claiming it represented a majority.

Schapiro, after a meeting today with AFL representatives, said "we feel we should recognize the union which has the majority of our employes on its rolls—the independent association.

"This is, however, an open shop contract. Others are still eligible to work, union or non-union. We told AFL representatives we would be glad to submit the matter to a vote at the expiration of the year's contract with the independent group at the end of our fall meeting in 1952."

Laurel's meeting opening Wednesday is for 14 days.

Only a few pickets were at each of Laurel's five entrance gates today. A union spokesman promised "we'll have it solid by Wednesday."

The driver of a telephone company truck turned away after finding pickets at every gate. Asked if he would try to drive in, he replied "it's a union, isn't it" and drove away.

The pay scale for mutuel employes now is $13 a day for cashiers, $12 for ticket sellers and $10 for checkers.

The AFL spokesman said wages are not the immediate issue.

"We represent the majority," he maintained. "We want recognition of that basis and also some improvements in working conditions."

The independent association has signed a contract with Pimlico as well as Laurel. Pimlico is to operate after Laurel.

Charles And Layne End Heavy Training

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Rex Layne, young hopeful from Salt Lake City, tapered off heavy training today for their Wednesday night 12-round bout at Forbes Field.

Both camps said only light drills and calisthenics remain on tap. Charles came to Pittsburgh from his Cincinnati home over the weekend and had one hard workout here.

Layne, one of the serious title contenders, boxed two rounds in his final workout after a full day of rest.

Co-promoter Jack McGinley said he expects a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 unless the weather turns bad.

ROGERS HORNSBY

Rogers Hornsby Signs To Manage St. Louis Browns

Former NL Swat King Gets 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby today signed a three-year contract as manager of the St. Louis Browns and immediately declared "there'll be some changes made."

And one of the many changes will be "no more clowning."

"I take my baseball seriously and if my club is getting beat, I don't want anybody laughing at some clown," said Hornsby.

Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest hitters a quarter of a century ago, was non-committal about the likelihood of trading Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winning pitcher. Garver is considered the only Brownie who would attract big offers from other clubs. All of the leading American League clubs would give plenty for him.

"Maybe we don't have much other trading material," said the Rajah, 'but maybe the other clubs don't either. We'll do the best we can and I guarantee we'll play interesting baseball."

This will be Hornsby's second term as boss of the St. Louis Browns, his last big league managers job. He piloted the Browns from 1933 through part of 1937. He guided Seattle to the Pacific Coast League pennant during the past season.

Before going to Seattle last winter, Hornsby, a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, managed the Beaumont (Tex) Club to a Texas League pennant in 1950. He was a television commentator for the Chicago Cubs in 1949 and operated a baseball school for the Chicago Daily News for four years.

Hornsby reportedly has had several big league offers. Bill Veeck, new owner of the Browns has been after him for some time.

"He'll be in complete charge of the club," said Veeck. "He's the man I wanted all along and I waited six months to get his signature on a contract."

One of baseball's all-time greats, Hornsby, a second baseman, has been with the St. Louis Cards, the New York Giants, and Chicago Cubs as well as the Browns. He was player-manager of the Cards in 1925 and in 1926 led the Cards to the pennant.

He began his major league career in 1915, won the National League batting title six times in a row, and hit an amazing .424 in 1924.

Hornsby succeeds Zach Taylor as manager. Taylor has been promised a job in the Browns' organization but has not indicated whether he will accept.

Mickey Out Of Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee rookie right fielder injured in the second game of the world series, is still in the Lennox Hill Hospital and definitely will not see any more action against the New York Giants.

Mantle injured his knee when he apparently stepped into a small hole while going after Willie Mays' fly, which Joe DiMaggio caught.

Sal Maglie Loses, 6-2; Dark Hits 3 Doubles; Clipper Poles Homer

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(AP)—Revived by a heaven-sent day of rest, the Yankees came back behind Allie Reynolds' fine pitching today to batter the Giants, 6 to 2., and tie the world series up at two victories apiece.

Reynolds, knocked from the box in the opener, was a different pitcher today. He limited the National Leaguers to eight hits, three of them doubles by Capt. Alvin Dark, and was in charge all the way.

Joe DiMaggio, the ageing Clipper, snapped out of his series slump to hammer a mighty two-run homer into the second deck at the Polo Grounds, hastening the demise of Sal Maglie, Giants' 23-game winner, and giving the crowd of 49,010 its biggest thrill of the one-sided exhibition.

Only once did Reynolds give Bomber fans a few fleeting moments of worry. That was in the ninth chapter when he permitted the first two Giants to reach base and Bobby Thomson singled one of them across with only one away.

Tie Double Play Mark

But that, unfortunately, brought up youthful Willie Mays, the Giants' negro centerfielder from Alabama, who previously had rapped into two double plays to stifle potential rallies. Willie did it again, and the game was over. Four twin killings ripped off by the Yank infield tied the world series record and chilled the Giants.

Maglie, whom Leo Durocher had figured to handcuff the American Leaguers and shoot his club into an unbeatable 3-1 lead, didn't have his usual mastery and departed for a pinchhitter after the Yanks had taken a 4-1 advantage on DiMaggio's blow in the fifth. Sheldon Jones was the victim of two more unearned tallies in the three innings he worked, but Montia Kennedy held the winners tightly in check in the ninth. By then it was much too late.

So, instead of going into tomorrow's fifth contest on their home lot with a firm grip on the winners' share of what will be a record world series split, Durocher's miracle boys must face Eddie Lopat, their southpaw tormentor of the second game, on dead even terms.

But for yesterday's day long rain which made the outfield a marsh, Casey Stengel would have been forced to go today with Tom Morgan, a rookie, instead of Reynolds, one of his top aces. However, in view of Maglie's failure to hold the Bombers, it was far from a certainty that the Yanks would not have won anyway. Morgan did some sharp flinging during the season.

No matter what happens tomorrow, the rich playoff now is bound to go back to the Yankee Stadium on Wednesday for the sixth contest and the seventh, if it is necessary to reach a decision. The world champions will have the advantage of finishing on their home soil.

It was plain from the very start today that Maglie, with an unaccounted four days rest since the playoff with Brooklyn, was not at his best. He was missing the corners with his surves, and he was forced to toss 25 pitches before he retired the Yanks in the first frame —a heavy expenditure of energy.

Dark Gets Three Doubles

When the Yanks got a run across in the second inning to tie the count at 1-1 and then forged ahead with another in the fourth by rapping two singles around a walk, it was obvious that the Giants were in trouble. By that time Reynolds had settled down from an uncertain first frame and was spinning magic.

The Giants had chalked up one in the opener on the first of Dark's three straight doubles and Monte Irvin's ground single into left. That was all they were to do to Reynolds until their brief but abortive explosion in the ninth.

Now and then the Polo Grounders threatened to get to Allie, but he never failed to have the answer. Either he blew a third strike past the batter or the unhappy Willie Mays came up at an inopportune time.

From the second inning through the eighth, the Giants collected only four hits, two of them Dark's doubles. In that stretch, seven of them went down on strikeouts. The husky Indian who hurled two no-hitters during the season, was out there to make up for his failure in the series' opener, and he was something to watch.

Larry Jansen, who lost a heartbreaker to Lopat's brilliant effort in the second game at the stadium, must again try his luck against the "nothing ball" lefthander tomorrow. It is not a heartening prospect for any pitcher, but if there is a man on Durocher's staff who figures to get the destiny boys back on the victory rail at this point it is the cool righthander from Forest Grove, Ore.

Detroit Lions Trounce Yanks

Doak Walker Gets 19 Points In 37-10 Win

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (INS) — The Detroit Lions tightened their grip on first place in the National Football Conference tonight with a 37 to 10 victory over the New York Yankees in Detroit.

The much beaten Yanks made it an interesting game for the crowd of 25,554 until they ran out of gas in the final period. Leading 17 to 10 when the quarter opened, the Lions ran up 20 more points.

Doak Walker tallied two touchdowns on passes from Bobby Layne, kicked a field goal and four points after touchdown for a total of 19 points.

Veteran fullback Pat Harder also scored two touchdowns, one on a pass from Layne who also hit Bob Hoerschmeyer with a six-pointer.

The Yonks scored on Harvey Johnson's 28-yard field goal and a 40-yard pass, Johnny Rauch to the fleet Buddy Young. Johnson converted.

During his record 56-game batting streak of 1941, Joe DiMaggio tagged 43 different pitchers for one or more hits apiece.

Sal Maglie Gave One Of His Worst Performances, Wes Westrum Opines

Irvin Thought Allie Faster 2nd Time Out

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Their ace got trumped and that was that for the Giants today.

Sol "The Barber" Maglie didn't have it and neither did his teammates in the fourth game of the series.

"It was just one of those bad days," Maglie said.

"My curve ball wasn't breaking right.

"DiMaggio hit a fast ball for his single and his homer came on a low inside curve ball."

Catcher Wes Westrum said the 23-game winning righthander didn't have any control to speak of.

"It was one of his (Maglie's) worst performances of the year," Wes declared.

Manager Leo Durocher spoke along the same lines.

"Maglie wasn't getting the ball where he wanted to. He was behind everybody.

"Reynolds had good stuff today but I think we could have gotten him out of there in the ninth inning if Whitey Lockman hadn't swung at a bad pitch. Lockman swung at one even with his cap.

"It would have been ball four . . . the bases would be loaded. Thomson hits down the line and Reynolds is gone."

Asked if Maglie will be used in the bullpen tomorrow and the next day, Leo replied:

"I go day by day."

"It'll be Jansen tomorrow and Koslo the next day. We'll see what happens."

Monte Irvin, who has made six hits in the series off Reynolds said he thought the super chief was "faster today than he was the first time I faced him."

Willie Mays, who bounced into three double plays, answered critics who suggested that he might be nervous under all the pressure.

"I'm not nervous," the 20-year-old rookie insisted.

"They said the same thing when I first came up and wasn't hitting. But I'm not nervous and not worried."

It was quiet but not gloomy in the loser's clubhouse. The Giants have been taking both their wins and losses in the series on the same, almost silent note.

But today, even the few renegade "let 'er rip" victory shouts were missing.

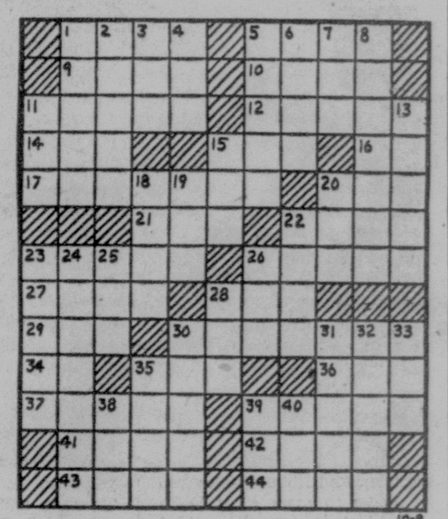
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C Z Z V O R L B U C Y Z X O F Q Y P Q Z G L-
O R T B R O F R I U W R, F R J L Z F I Z L R
K U L C Y U T, M Z L C Q R Z V O R L B R L ' O
O U W R — K Z K R.

Fire Prevention Appeal Issued

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mayor Chester J. Compton has issued an appeal to all citizens to join in observance of Fire Prevention Week all this week.

"It has been gratifying to me to note the keen interest and the extensive preparations evidenced in making this event one of outstanding accomplishment in eliminating fire hazards in Keyser," he said. "Our veterans, for whom everybody is striving to provide homes, apartments and living accomodations, cannot afford to have the existing accomodations destroyed."

The Mayor said further, "With some additional homes being built here and with recent conversion of several old homes into apartments, new fire prevention problems are arising. Occupants of multiple tenacy dwellings are faced with greater fire hazards than that of single units. Therefore, it is to the interest of our city to start a year-round campaign to keep fire losses down.

H. Carl Peters, chairman of the Fire Prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, added to the mayor's statement in saying: "This is, as the mayor has said, a community effort. The campaign will succeed in proportion to the number of individuals participating in it. Every day during this Fire Prevention Week, we will feature activities in which everyone of us can take part."

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (INS)—Today it looks certain that Bette Davis will star in "Come Back, Little Sheba." Hal Wallis is offering as added bait a story, "Son And Stranger," which he bought with Bette in mind.

Bette Davis

"Son And Stranger" is about parents who visit their soldier son's grave in Europe and find that their body had a wife. It will be filmed in England.

One hitch in the Davis deal for "Come Back, Little Sheba" is that originally there had been negotiations with Shirley Booth, who created the role on the stage. Paramount however, is adamant in wanting a bigger movie name.

Originally, Hal had hoped to get Cary Grant for the male lead, but that's out now. Cary has commitments at 20th. What about Wendell Corey, who is a fine actor?

• — • — •

One commitment at 20th that Cary Grant is crazy to do is "The Phelomen Complex," the English play which Ann Sothern is now doing on Broadway.

It's in the cards for Cary to do this with Susan Hayward. I hear tell that Darryl Zanuck has been talking to Howard Hawkes about directing it. And that would please Cary.

You won't hear the name, "The Phelomen Complex," again, because Ann Sothern's play in this country is called "Faithfully Yours" and the 20th Century-Fox motion picture will be titled, "All In The Mind."

• — • — •

George Stevens would be plumb crazy if he didn't try to cash in quickly on the romantic team he created in "Place In The Sun." I mean, of course, Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift, whose unforgettable love scenes were only terrific.

Exhibitors from all over the country have written George to try and get a repeat on Liz and Monty, so that's what George is planning.

He is going east to talk to a certain well known novelist about doing an original love story. Then he is going to try to borrow Liz and sign up Clift. I hear William Wyler would also like to borrow Liz for "Roman Holiday."

• — • — •

Edmond Gwenn's performance as the lovable old man who believed he was Santa Clause in "Miracle On 34th Street" made movie history and now the great character actor is set for another such delightfully-whimsical role.

Gwenn, who is one of my favorite people, will go back to 20th Century-Fox to play a salty old seadog in "Something For The Birdies." He'll turn Washington topsyturvy and make confetti of legislative red tape when he and Anne Baxter lobby for a game sanctuary for condors.

It sounds like the sort of delicious nonsense that won Gwenn an Academy Oscar in "Miricle On 34th Street" and it could very well earn him another to match that one.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Melinda Markey is really ambitious. She got herself a job as a salesgirl with Alice Wiser. Her sister, Diane, worked for a year at Bullocks Wilshire before her marriage and their mother, Joan Benett, approves.

Dorothy Kirsten is back home with her doctor in San Antonio. She had laryngitis so badly she couldn't sing "La Tosca" in San Francisco, so Dr. Gene Chapman, her bridegroom, ordered her home.

Beverly Hudson and Eugene Baxter are making it an every night date. You may know him as Gene Wesson. He changed his name for pictures.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary yesterday. They're a credit to our whole town, this pair. Two wonderful people.

Certainly a relief to know at last Errol Flynn told somebody he is well. Seems to me he's been ailing for years.

Whatever happened to Amanda Blake's marriage to Ron Randall? I was reminded of it when I heard she was flying to St. Louis to see him in "Candidate," which stars Olivia De Havilland. The opening was on Ron's 30th birthday.

I got myself a little mixed up. It is Sidney Franklin, producer of "Young Bess," who will also produce "Three Loves" and re-make of "Goodbye Mr. Chips." I said that George Sidney was directing the above named pictures.

That's all today. See you tomorow.

On The Line

ers of our time is Vic Raschi, the big Yankee rightpaw. Vic looks as menacing out there on the mound as any pitcher in our memory. He plays the game up to the hilt from first pitch till last. But he's as gentle as a lamb off the field, and full of warmth born of adversity.

Raschi has a brother who is totally blind because of baseball. The brother was hit in the eye by a foul ball and the blow destroyed the retina in that eye. Several years later he was hit in the other eye by a foul, and lost his sight.

His interest in the blind is consequently keen. Once when he heard that the son of a Boston sportswriter had been born blind he sought out the writer and spent five hours with him, comforting and counselling. He barely made it to Fenway Park on time . . . to pitch an important game against the Red Sox.

Raschi has a foster child in Italy. He has never seen the boy, who lives in that part of the country when Raschi's parents emigrated. But he has paid for the surgery, false limb and general rehabilitation of the youngster, a war orphan, and will pay for his education.

The kid's name is Nino Maraschini, and Vic is proud of that name. Part of the kid's last name spells Raschi. Milt Gross once asked Raschi why he had assumed the role of foster father.

"The kid might've been me," the ballplayer said. "I just got a break and was brought to this country."

Unless you are near-perfect, you'll need one of the new-fashioned controls to wear current styles.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Current fashions make a good many demands on the feminine figure: A slim hip for the rounded jackets, a neat waist to underscore the cinched-in look of everything, a sleek diaphragm and molded bosom to go with the close-fitted torso effects.

Few are the figures that can meet this last specification. If you measure a "perfect" 34 or 36B, you have no worries, but such ideal proportions are rare.

Dictated by Fashion

Aware of this, brassiere designers have contrived new control features to enhance such figures in the new snup-top fashions.

Built-in padding offers extra curves to the small figure. For the large woman, there is a new three-quarter length bra with a four-inch band. These are also suitable for the average figure when worn with a high-waisted girdle.

Long bras, always the special property of the heavy woman, are newly equipped with adjustable six-inch bands for a slicker fit with greater comfort.

New Features

Special features, some functional and some decorative, are numerous. Clever new ways of adjusting wires and stitching under cups insure more accurate fitting, more natural uplift, and greater ease. Embroidered motifs and delicate-looking but firm fabrics provide wear appeal. The latest of all innovations, bras with detachable rhinestone straps, enable you to wear a strapped bra with a baretop or very sheer after-five or formal dress!

Since 180 brands of brassieres are available in the typical American city, you should be able to find exactly what you need, whatever your individual requirements. Before you sally forth to seek your next outfit, get fitted with what it will take to wear the new styles!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does human nature need improving?

Answer: Basically, no. All it needs is a chance to develop its inherent possibilities unhampered by fear and "pressure." The essential human nature in Abraham Lincoln was no different from that in Al Capone — both sought the same basic satisfactions, even though by opposite methods, and I know no evidence to prove that anyone is inclined by inborn disposition to prefer "bad" methods to "good" ones. Whether you are thinking of yourself or of your children, there is nothing in your nature or theirs that is inherently evil —all you or they need is guidance and an opportunity to grow.

Should "criminal responsibility" be re-defined?

Answer: Yes, especially in cases of incipient psychosis or insanity, writes Dr. F. M. G. Prendergast in the Medical Journal of Australia. The century-old legal rule that a person is responsible for his crimes if he "knows what he is doing and that it is wrong" cannot be applied here, since a person who is mentally ill may know quite well what he is doing and himself feel that it is wrong, and yet be unable to control his actions. The law cannot deal intelligently with crimes as long as it persists in ignoring the fact that an otherwise sane sufferer from emotional disturbance may have "irresistible impulses."

Can mental reservations block psychiatry?

Answer: Yes. As long as there is anything about which you are determined to "keep quiet," you might as well recognize that psychiatric treatment will be able to go only so far and no farther. It is not a matter of anyone's trying to invade your privacy, but of your establishing an area in your mind in which all your most important conflicts can and will hide. A man I know who refused to tell his analyst his real name was unconsciously protecting himself from the full force of the discoveries he had made by pretending that it was not really he to whom they applied. The analysis was naturally unsuccessful.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

The anguish over Joe DiMaggio's batting slump in the early phases of the World Series reached the far corners of the country.

Toots Shor, the boniface, received a phone call the other night from a little town in California he had never heard of. The man on the other end of the wire, 3,000 miles away, said he had been watching DiMaggio at the plate each day—television having reached another milestone—and he thought Joe's stance was wrong. He was getting his right foot over out of line, as if trying to pull the ball into left field, the man said. He was off balance and pressing.

He had other suggestions, too, which he asked Toots to relay to DiMag.

And Toots listened. For the man on the other end of the wire was something of an authority. Fellow named Ty Cobb.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur has followed baseball more closely and for more years than almost any fan. He can quote batting averages and records reaching back to Christy Mathewson—whom he knew as a college football player before Matty made the Giants.

The General saw Walter Johnson pitch his first game, in 1907, and was on hand when Babe Ruth made his debut as a pitcher with the Red Sox in 1914.

But this is the first World Series he has even seen. Something always interefered. Like wars.

• — • — •

World Series programs often are kept and guarded as souvenirs by the devout. But the one at sale for this series between the Giants and Yanks is a collector's item.

It contains a short biography of Yogi Berra, and includes this passage:

"This will be Logi's fourth World Series and his third against the Brooklyn Dodgers. Returning to competition with the Flatbush crew gives Berra an added thrill . . . etc."

There have been times during the series when it appeared that Yogi honestly believed he was playing against the Dodgers.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

VARIETY OF FINISHES

AMONG the prettiest of finish-plays are those which offer a variety of moves, dependent on what the defenders do. Usually such developments come when a series of consecutive tricks by the declarer compels them to denude their hands. If they weaken themselves in one quarter, then he applies measures that fit that particular case. If they discard something else, then he goes about it in an entirely different way.

	♠ A K 9 ♥ A 7 ♦ A Q 8 2 ♣ A J 8 3
♠ 7 6 4 2 ♥ K J 9 6 5 ♦ 6 ♣ K 10 9	N W E S	♠ J ♥ 10 8 4 3 ♦ 10 7 5 4 ♣ Q 7 5 4
	♠ Q 10 8 5 3 ♥ Q 2 ♦ K J 9 3 ♣ 6 2

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥
3 NT	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠

South's 5-Spades call was a neat one, based largely on his diamond fit and North's extremely strong bidding. He wound up glad he had made it and encouraged his partner to bid the small slam. But he had to work earnestly to make it.

Following the diamond 6 lead to the J, he scored four spades and three diamonds, noting East's discards of a club and two hearts on the spades and West's three hearts on the diamonds. Besides the spade 8, he now held the heart Q-2 and club 6-2, with dummy retaining the heart A-7 and club A-J-8.

When the final spade was now led, West was in trouble. With the heart K-J and club K-10-9, he felt he must keep the two hearts, so tossed a club, the K, so he could not be thrown in with it and obliged to return a heart, of course hoping East had the club Q. The heart 7 was then thrown from dummy and East discarded his heart 8, retaining the 10 and the club Q-7-5. South next led to the club A, cleared East's last heart with the A, then put East in with the club J to the Q. Poor East had left only the club 7, which he had to lead to the dummy's 8 to make the contract.

If you want some edification, lay out those last five cards of each hand and see what happens if West makes some discard other than the club K on the last spade. You will see that, no matter what he does, South can make his contract by adapting his own play to it.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 6 4 3 ♥ None ♦ None ♣ J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2
♠ 9 8 7 5 ♥ K 9 8 7 6 5 4 ♦ 3 2 ♣ None	N W E S	♠ 2 ♥ 3 2 ♦ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 ♣ None
	♠ A K Q J 10 ♥ A Q J 10 ♦ A ♣ A K Q

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is South's best playing plan after the diamond 3 lead, if North bid 5-Clubs, East 5-Diamonds, South 7-Clubs, East 7-Diamonds and South 7-Spades?

Market Session Indecisive; Losses Outnumber Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Losses outnumberel the gains by a slight margin on the stock exchange today in an indecisive session.

The pattern of mixed prices extended into every major group. Changes either way were fractions in most cases.

Many low - priced stocks were among the most active.

The volume hit 1,860,000 shares, compared with 2,070,000 at last Friday's previous full session, as demand spread across varying groups.

The Associated Press averages didn't reflect a wholly true picture of the market as the figure for 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $101.30, a new 21-year high. The industrial and utility categories gained 10 cents each while rails remained unchanged.

The only thing they indicated was that the averages included many of the advances. The breakdown showed 454 stocks declined while only 436 advanced among the 1,151 issues traded. There were 65 new 1951 highs and nine hit new low points.

The most active stock of the day was St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, which dropped 1⅛ at 30⅞ on a turnover of 41,300 shares.

Second most active issue was United Cigar-Whelan, which gained ⅛ as the proxy battle for control of the stores ended in a compromise.

Over one-half of the 15 most active stocks were low priced issues. Four of the 15 declined, seven advanced and four were unchanged.

As a group, mining stocks were among the stronger categories. Traders had anticipated some activity in this group, especially among the gold stocks.

Over the weekend Canada announced it would sell part of its gold production for non-monetary purposes in the world markets.

At the opening such gold mining shares as Alaska Juneau, Homestake, Dome and McIntyre all moved ahead a bit. But before the session ended McIntyre slipped into the loss column and Homestake wound up unchanged from its previous close.

Flynn Urges Widening Of City Streets

Says More Parking Will Aid Business

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn yesterday said he favored the widening of Cumberland streets in an effort to encourage local residents and outlying district residents to shop here.

Flynn's reply followed a complaint at the meeting of the Cumberland Mayor and Council yesterday morning when restaurant owner Richard J. Diamond protested bans on parking near his place of business on North Mechanic Street after 6 p. m.

Diamond charged Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long is using dictatorial powers in enforcing new traffic regulations along the downtown streets.

Saying he was "knocked out" of $25,000 of business during the past 18 months, Diamond said he wants parking on both sides of North Mechanic Street after 6 p. m. after the peak traffic load has passed.

Meeting Set Friday

Mayor Thomas S. Post informed Diamond he thought some reply might be obtained at a Friday meeting with Commissioner Long, who was absent at yesterday's meeting.

Sympathizing with local merchants Chief Flynn said he favors a program of widening the main arteries of downtown Cumberland in an effort to alleviate the parking problem. The task before the city, Flynn added, is getting space available for residents to park in order to do their shopping.

The movement of traffic through the city is a vital factor, Flynn continued, but providing parking space for shoppers is much more necessary.

Cites Need For Funds

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said funds for the maintenance and construction of city streets are provided by the state gasoline and auto sales tax. Last years funds amounted to $58,289.87 but this was insufficient to cover a street widening program.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property said a survey on widening some streets is underway and a meeting is planned soon with the Planning Commission.

Youths Accused In Thefts Of Property From Mine

12 More Indictments Added To Open Docket

Three indictments against two teenage National boys accused of larceny and receiving stolen goods worth a total of $1,238 from a Klondike mine in three successive days, were among 12 new true bills placed on the open docket in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18, were indicted by the October grand jury on evidence furnished by State Trooper First Class William F. Baker.

Supplies Stolen

They were charged with stealing an assortment of supplies from Klondike Mine No. 17, owned by the Consolidated Fuel Company, March 28, 29 and 30. They were charged with stealing steel rope, steel blocks and standards, two elbows, one mining car bottom, and a piece of honeycomb-like machinery, altogether worth $542, on March 28.

In a second indictment Morgan and Leatherman were charged with stealing five mining rails and a sprocket chain, total value of $86, on March 29. Finally, the third indictment charged the youths with stealing eight pieces of sheet iron, one hydraulic jack, a switch frog and conveyor pan, worth a total of $610, on March 30.

Arlie Lease, a resident of Pinto, was named in an indictment which charged him with assault with intent to murder his son, Reuben T. Lease on July 10.

The elder Lease was accused of assaulting his son and pointing a shot gun at him during an argument. He was disarmed by State Trooper A. M. Spioch, who crept up behind Lease and disarmed him at the moment when the Pinto man was turning to point the shotgun at the trooper, police reported.

Burglary Charged

Two indictments were docketed against William A. Fazenbaker, 19, Mill Run. He was charged with statutory burglary in the theft May 29, of materials worth $66.02 from a tool house of the Cumberland Contracting Company along Pompey Road, where the local firm has been engaged in a road repair project.

The youth also is charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods in a theft June 2, of soft drinks, potatoes, motor oil and bananas, valued at a total of $20. The property, which belonged to Horsa Metz, was stolen from his general store at Knapp's Meadow, according to State Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated the two cases.

A 52-year old Bowman's Addition man, Robert Weaver, has been indicted on two charges of receiving stolen goods—copper wire belonging to the Celanese Corporation of America. Weaver is charged with receiving 139 pounds of copper wire, valued at $27.80, March 30, and 282 pounds, worth $56.40, on April 2. Trooper Baker was the witness upon whose testimony the two indictments were found.

Dennis Warner Koontz, 26-year-old South Cumberland resident, was indicted on a charge of unlawfully breaking and entering Hiner's Market, 117 Virginia Avenue, April 11.

Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said that Koontz broke into a storage room at the rear of the market but did not get into the store itself and did not take anything from the place.

Three other county men were indicted on charges involving paternity.

Indictment List Reported Heaviest Since Prohibition

As the grand jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court heard witnesses yesterday for the sixth day, court attaches said they believe the current list of indictments being returned is the heaviest since Prohibition days of the 1920's.

By the time the Court House closed yesterday afternoon 41 true bills had been placed on the open docket. A number of other indictments have been found by the grand jury but they are secret until legal papers are served on defendants. It is anticipated that between 50 and 60 indictments will be on the court docket when all bench warrants are served.

The grand jury, on which Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West VirginiaP ulp and Paper Company, is foreman, expects to prepare its report and wind up activities late today. It will mark the grand jury's seventh working day.

Korean Vets Are Treated For Malaria

Two cases of malaria have been chalked up against Allegany County but there is no cause for alarm.

Both of the cases were reported by Fort George G. Meade authorities, who said the veterans, recently returned from Korea, are undergoing treatment for the condition.

As a matter of record, they were listed as of Cumberland and Allegany County on the Maryland Health Department statistical reports, officials said.

For some months, the Public Health Service has warned physicians throughout the United States to be on guard against malaria among Korean veterans, saying cases were bound to turn up.

The September report of the City Health Department also lists one case of meningitis, two of pneumonia, seven of tuberculosis and six veneral disease cases.

Births for the month totaled 141, with 44 deaths within the city.

Cobey Is Asked To Make Study Of Smoke Case

Hitchcock Gives Report On Complaint

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday he has asked the City Attorney to study details of complaints entered against a Pennsylvania Avenue cleaning establishment.

The complete file on the case, he added, is being forwarded to W. Earle Cobey.

In a report to the Mayor and Council yesterday, Hitchcock said there is no legal basis for a test on the complaint concerning alleged violations of the smoke control ordinance by the Ray Beall cleaning firm.

"The legal status . . . . falls into the category of a private, rather than a public nuisance case", his report said.

The report was called for by city officials last week after 35 residents of the area asked for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney at the plant.

Hitchcock said Mrs. Margaret Smith, 101 Pennsylvania Avenue, made her first complaint against the firm on June 9, 1949, and was the only one to do so, until last week, on the average of once every two months.

Hitchcock said the problem was one of air pollution and not smoke and no legal observation has been established because the cost is excessive when a marginal boiler is involved. He said Beall has been cooperative and all smoking violations are non-existant. Hitchcock said Beall has a new boiler ordered.

Hitchcock said he advised Mrs. Smith to talk to her attorney and follow his recommendation on September 28, 1951, and added: "x x x the case is one of a private nuisance

Also planning to be here is a group from Frederick headed by Garland Guiton, president of the Frederick association. Other area delegations of the state association have been invited to attend.

House Shooting Is Referred To Grand Jury

Police Fired Upon In Friday Fracas

The case of a McCoole man who is accused of wounding his son and firing on State Police who came to arrest him has been turned over to the grand jury.

The State's Attorney's Office said yesterday 64-year-old George H. House will not receive a preliminary hearing, since he was arrested during the grand jury term.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday released House under $2,000 bond for action of the grand jury. Authorities said he faces charges of assault with intent to kill.

Quarreled Over Money

House has been in jail here since Friday night. State Police said he shot and slightly wounded his son, Leroy House, after an argument with his wife.

They said House and his wife had quarreled over money early Friday night. Mrs. House fled to Leroy's home about half a mile away. They returned to her home in Leroy's car.

Police declared the elder House let loose three blasts from a repeating 12-gauge shotgun as Leroy stepped out of the car. One pellet struck the younger man in the forehead.

Leroy House was treated at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., but was released. Police said the pellet is still lodged in his forehead.

Fired At Trooper

State Police who went to the scene said George House fired three blasts at Trooper Raymond P. McGuire, who guarded the front door while other State Policemen attempted to enter the building from the rear.

McGuire returned fire, but no one was hurt in the exchange. Soon afterward, House surrendered and was brought to jail in Cumberland.

Before the argument which police said resulted in the shooting, Mrs. House had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Louise Thompson, 27, in Potomac Valley Hospital. Mrs. Thompson died Sunday night.

Bus Driver Is Questioned In Fatal Crash

John W. Moreland Dies In Collision

An intercity bus driver was questioned at the State's Attorney's office after a 26-year-old Franklin man died in a headon bus-car collision yesterday morning near Nikep.

Dead was John William Moreland, Franklin truck driver. Dr. H. V. Deming said he was dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, at about 7 a. m. Dr. Deming attributed death to intracranial hemorrhage caused by a skull fracture.

The bus driver, 46-year-old John Muir, Eckhart Mines, will undergo further interrogation today. No charges have been filed against him.

Says Brakes Locked

State Police Trooper First Class Timothy M. Gilmore said the accident took place at 6:15 a. m. atop a hill just north of Nikep on Route 36.

Gilmore said Muir told him he had seen a car parked on his side of the road as he approached the top of the hill.

Moreland's car approached from the opposite direction. Muir said he applied the brakes, but they locked and caused him to skid into the front of the Moreland car, pinning it against a guard rail.

One bus passenger, Mrs. Karaha McIntyre, Lonaconing, was slightly hurt. A physician treated her for a knee injury.

The front of the car was demolished, but the bus was only slightly damaged. Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company said six passengers aboard were taken to Westernport on another bus.

More Witnesses Called

Gilmore stated Moreland, father of three children, was on his way to work as a truck driver for the Cross Mining Company, Midland.

A native of Keyser, W. Va., Moreland was a son of the late Harry and Ollie Graham Moreland. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Wolfe Moreland, his children, Virginia Lee, 6; Donald, 5, and William, 4, and a sister, Mrs. Etta Nutter, McCoole.

A funeral service will be conducted at 10 a. m. Thursday at the home. Rev. William Wilkinson, pastor of Franklin Mission will officiate. Burial will be in Queen's Point Cemetery. The body will be at the home today.

The State's Attorney's office said last night more witnesses will be examined today.

Witness Stand Moved In Circuit Courtroom

The witness stand in the Circuit Court room here has been moved across the room so that witnesses will sit across the room from the jury box facing the jurors.

For the past eight years the witness stand has been located between the judge's bench and the jury box. Under this arrangement witnesses faced away from the judge when addressing the jurors and sometimes could not be heard by the presiding judge.

Robert B. Thomas, court stenographer, will move his seat from the north to the south side of the courtroom so he will continue to sit directly in front of the witness stand. Newspaper reporters will trade places with Thomas and will be seated in front of the jury box. It has been reported that a public address system may be installed so all courtroom spectators can hear the proceedings.

A week-long spell of balmy weather came to an abrupt end yesterday as the thermometer bumped all the way down to 46 degrees, and Autumn was in full swing. And the mercury isn't expected to get above 64 all day. Yesterday's high was 59, and by 6 p. m. the thermometer was back down to the overnight low of 46. Humidity was 62 per cent.

McKeldin Proclaims Autumn Glory Time

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — All Governor McKeldin had to do was look out the window to issue his latest official proclamation. He's declared the period October 12 to November 1 as "Autumn Glory Time."

The Governor put special emphasis on the mountainous areas of Western Maryland. And coupled with the proclamation was a request that hunters and others who go outdoors observe fire rules and regulations.

The Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council is planning special events to add some of its own color to the "autumn glory." One of them is a tour for travel editors of several eastern newspapers, to be conducted by the Department of Information of Maryland.

Coaxial Cable To Reach City By October 31

The Potomac Valley Television Company expects to hook up its coaxial cable to the first Cumberland user's set by the end of this month.

William H. Geppert, attorney for the firm, said the cable from the company's antenna atop Irons Mountain has reached a point within a mile of the city limits.

Two and a half miles of the heavy cable have been strung from the mountain top, three and a half to four miles southeast of the city.

Geppert said only two sets have been connected to the cable so far. One of these is on a farm nearby and the other is the company's own testing set. Geppert termed results "excellent."

The company is now building a 10-by10-foot concrete block building at the antenn site to house converters, the first amplifier, and testing equipment.

Geppert said application forms are now being printed and will be ready in the next two weeks.

Speed Limit Signs Will Be Scarce On State Highways

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Speed limit signs will be placed farther apart on Maryland highways so motorists won't be encouraged to drive the maximum all the time, the State House said today.

Chairman Russell H. McCain of the Roads Commission already has ordered warning signs spaced about 10 miles apart.

The main purpose is to place them where "a 50-mile speed limit is a safe one," McCain wrote Governor McKeldin.

The governor has objected personally to the profusion of signs, especially on approaches to bad curves or steep climbs.

"Sometimes they inspire you to drive fast when you shouldn't," a spokesman added.

McCain explained district engineers have been instructed to locate maximum speed signs along this general plan:

One halfway between reduced speed zones that are from 15 to 25 miles apart, two spaced equally along a stretch of 25-35 miles and so on.

Signs announcing the highway limit is 50 miles an hour will be removed when a sharp curve or steep grade is just ahead. None will be allowed before heavily traveled intersections, business developments, schools or other areas "where traffic should proceed with care."

On mountainous roads, such as Route 40 between Hancock and Cumberland, signs will be erected at the end of reduced speed zones —but only when there's a clear view ahead.

McCain said the Roads Commission had been observing an old policy which called for signs every two miles in each direction. That boiled down to a sign every mile on alternate sides of the road.

City Will Study B. And O. Plans For Yard Work

Plans proposed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the closing of the Williams Street crossing were referred yesterday to the City Attorney and City Engineer for investigation and report.

The action by the Mayor and Council followed reading of a letter from Chester T. Williams, division superintendent, giving further details of that phase of extensive changes planned in yard operations here.

Williams said the present Williams Street crossing "definitely presents a shortening of inbound receiving tracks, and that is one of the reasons why we requested prompt action in closing of the street crossing."

He also outlined plans for the proposed pedestrian foot bridge at Williams Street.

"When the receiving yard is constructed," Williams continued, "it will eliminate any delays to trains and the stopping and slow movement of trains over Baltimore Street as these trains will be able to pull in on separate tracks which we have not been able to do heretofore and which has resulted in so much complaint."

Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that a serious study be made of a plan by Jeremiah T. Defibaugh to close three crossings and build an overhead bridge for vehicular traffic and pedestrians.

Second Chest Drive Report Due Today

Men's Sales Army Plans For Calls

The second report of the Community Chest-USO campaign organization seeking $105,159, will be made at a luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Henry K. Duke, heading the newsly created Sales Army pointed out that this afternoon will be the second the men of his group have been asked to devote to their calls, leaving the balance of the campaign period to complete the solicitation.

The Sales Army, Duke pointed out, has a large territory to cover since they are responsible for soliciation of business firms with less than eight employes. Such firms are scattered over the entire city.

Letter appeals have been sent to clubs and fraternal organizations of the city appealing for contributions. George L. Buchanan, general chairman, stated it was not the intention of this appeal to seek gifts from the individual members, since they will be solicited at their places of business, but to vote a subscription from treasury funds in line with a humanitarian ideals of the group.

Among organizations who have made gifts are the Ladies Auxiliary of Central YMCA which voted a contribution of $150 and the American Legion Auxiliary $15. Two church groups have also made gifts, Grace Methodist Church, WSCS, $5 and Kinsley Methodist, WSCS, $10.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign emphasized to county organizations that although their campaigns are scheduled along with the Cumberland Community Chest campaign funds being raised in the county are for the Allegany portion of the USO goal. Community chairman make their reports in the same manner as the Cumberland campaigners but the pledge cards state that the funds are for the USO only.

Wholesale Gas Raise Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Power Commission today suspended a proposed 15 per cent increase in wholesale natural gas rates for customers of Atlantic Seaboard Corp. and Virginia Gas Transmission Corp., both of Charleston, W. Va.

The commission estimated the increase would amount to about $3,000,000 based on anticipated sales for the year June 30, 1952.

It would affect wholesale purchasers in Washington, D. C., Baltimore and Cumberland, Md., Lynchburg and Roanoke, Va., and in smaller market areas.

The companies asked that the increase be made retroactive to last July 16.

The two companies, members of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., asked the increase because of proposed higher rates by United Fuel Gas Co., from which they purchase natural gas.

United is seeking an increase because of a proposed rate increase by its source, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co.

The commission pointed out that both the United and Tennesee increase proposals were suspended and not now in effect.

Not Guilty Pleas Filed By Pair In Murder Cases

Court Appoints Counsel For Two

Two county residents, indicted last week on murder charges as a result of August slayings, entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The early arraignments were scheduled so the court might appoint attorneys to represent them in their forthcoming trials. Neither defendant possesses necessary funds to employ counsel, the court was told.

Margaret Ellen Gray, 39, who is charged with murdering her 50-year old common law husband, Nile Jennings Michael, at first entered a plea of guilty at her arraignment. However, this was before Associate Judge George Henderson appointed Noel Speir Cook and Estel C. Kelley to represent her. Realizing that she had not had the opportunity for legal advice, Judge Henderson subsequently gave the Gray woman the opportunity to change her plea to not guilty.

Michael, who was fatally shot August 2 with a .22 caliber rifle at the old C&O Canal toll house near North Branch, died three days later.

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland, entered a not guilty plea when he was arraigned. Associated Judge Morgan C. Harris appointed Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry as his attorneys.

Beeman is charged with murder in the fatal penknife stabbing of his estranged wife, Mrs. Donna L. Beeman, 18-year-old mother of twins, who died at her parents' home in Frostburg August 12.

Trial dates for the murder charges will be set later.
